- Fuel oil tanks. Check with your supplier to determine if you have water present in your fuel oil tank, and for pumping fuel oil/water mixtures out of your tank.
- Household chemicals. Keep all damaged household chemicals separate for later disposal. Place them in plastic bags and keep the product label with each bag. Call your County Solid Waste officer for collection dates. Also, remember to store chemicals out of reach of children and pets.
- Basement cleanup. Ventilate your basement before and during cleanup with chemical solutions and if oil is present. When basements flood, there is usually some sewer backup as well. Therefore, after the water and/or sewage has been removed, it is important to disinfect the surfaces to eliminate odors and bacteria. If your basement had oil spilled in it, use a detergent to clean oil off the surfaces. Sheetrock and paneling should be removed and properly disposed at a transfer facility, incinerator or sanitary landfill. Concrete walls, wood supports, ceiling structures, and beams will soak up oil like a sponge. Therefore, those surfaces will need to be sealed with an epoxy paint sealer once they have dried out.

MPCA honors companies for excellence

Polaris Industries in Roseau was one of 19 businesses honored recently by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) for their hazardous waste management skill. The awards ceremony was part of the Seventh Annual Hazardous Waste Conference in Bloomington March 13 and 14.

Polaris Industries was recognized for their outstanding efforts and timeliness in achieving or returning to compliance.

The MPCA created this annual recognition program to encourage Minnesota's hazardous waste generators (companies, institutions and government offices that produce hazardous waste) and treatment facilities to comply with the hazardous waste rules.

Only those Minnesota generators and facilities that were inspected by the MPCA's Hazardous Waste Division in 1996 were eligible for this year's awards.

Dear Parent

Once again we are nearing the end of the school year. In the coming weeks your son or daughter may be joining others in Prom Night Celebrations. This is an exciting time for young people on this very special occasion.

It's also an exciting time for you as parents. You have watched your child grow over the years both physically and emotionally. There were times when you wondered if you could survive their growing up, and now that Prom Night is at hand and celebration plans are underway the question is: "Can we all survive it?"

If you are planning to host a party AT YOUR HOME OR OTHER LOCATION SUCH AS A HOTEL OR MOTEL, carefully consider your responsibilities in doing so. Please remember that SELLING, FURNISHING OR SERVING ALCOHOL to minors is a criminal offense in Minnesota. It is a gross misdemeanor which can result in up to one year in jail and up to a $1,000 fine. In addition, any adult who knowingly provides alcoholic beverages to a minor can be exposed to personal liability for injuries that result from that minor's intoxication.

The combination of drinking and driving is one of the leading killers of young people between the ages of 15 and 24. Last year several young people under the age of 21 in our state alone died or were seriously injured in alcohol related traffic crashes.

This is one of the most memorable occasions for your son or daughter. Teach them to celebrate SMART!!! Please read the information below to further answer any questions you may have about minors and alcohol. Make sure your Prom Celebrations for minors are chemical-free.

Sincerely,
Sheriff Gerald E. Moe & Police Chief Ken Froschheiser

Preventive maintenance proves wise investment

To save time, money, and frustration, AAA recommends that motorists follow a preventive maintenance program for their motor vehicles.

A qualified technician should inspect the electrical and ignition systems, fuel management systems, timing, and emission control devices. A tune-up and diagnostic check will help pay for itself by boosting fuel economy.

If the vehicle's cooling system was not flushed last year, now is the time to have it done. After the system has been flushed it should be filled with the proper solution of engine coolant and water (usually about 50 - 50).

Replace belts at least every four years. Check hoses and clamps for leakage. leaks are more likely to be detected when the engine is warm. Replace hoses when they become brittle, soft, or worn.

The vehicle's muffler and catalytic converter should be examined for holes, splits, and rusted seams. The exhaust pipe should be checked for dents that might impede the flow of gases or holes that could allow carbon monoxide to enter the passenger compartment.

The battery should be tested for charge level and condition. Cables and terminals must be clean and free of corrosion. A mixture of baking soda and water makes a good cleaning solution. Replace cables if corrosion and wear are extreme.

Lubricating oil, oil filter, and air filter should match the manufacturer's recommendations.

The owner's manual will provide instructions on how to check the vehicle's automatic transmission, brake, and power steering fluid levels. Follow the recommendations for addition to or replacement of these fluids.

Run the heater, defroster, and air conditioner through all available settings. If the air flow and/or temperature is not adequate, have the thermostat, fan, and air conditioner unit checked.

Inspect all lights, switches, and lenses and replace if necessary. With warmer temperatures, protect the exterior of the vehicle with a quality product to shield it from wet and hot conditions.

Other major vehicle systems which should be inspected include brakes, suspension system, and wheel alignment.

Preventive maintenance makes summer driving more enjoyable and reduces the chances of a vehicle breakdown.

Vehicle security suggestions

Crimes affecting one's personal safety and security can occur during the day and night. To reduce the risk of personal harm, AAA offers these tips.

Preventive maintenance is the key to avoiding a roadside breakdown. Periodic mechanical checkups are necessary to maintain your vehicle's proper working condition. Keeping the gas tank at least half full at all times is another way to prevent an unnecessary breakdown.

Crimes affecting motorists' personal safety and security can occur when getting to and from your car. When approaching your vehicle, hold your keys in your hand while taking an inventory of your surroundings. If you notice someone near your vehicle, walk toward a public place and seek help. Remember, try to park in a central well-lighted place.

If your vehicle breaks down on the highway, position the vehicle as far from the traveled roadway as possible. To signal distress, post a "Send Help" sign, turn on your four-way flashers, open the vehicle's hood and tie a light-colored cloth to the antenna or door handle. Always try to stay with the vehicle until uniformed law enforcement arrives. Do not leave your vehicle at night or during bad weather.

Always remember your personal safety. If you see another motorist who is stranded, do not stop. Instead, signal your intent that you will call for help, then notify law enforcement. Motorists are often leery of those offering assistance.

Carjackings occur when an individual attempts to steal a car which is occupied. These instances often occur at gunpoint. To avoid being a victim of carjackings, lock all doors and keep windows rolled up. Use freeways rather than streets through high-crime areas. When stopping for gas or to use a pay phone, choose well-lighted, busy facilities. If someone tries to enter your vehicle at a red light, drive through the intersection. Above all, if there is no escape, do not resist.

For your safety consider joining a car pool. Plan your travel routes and let others know your route and estimated time of arrival. If you expect to be traveling at odd hours or "off the beaten path," you might consider a citizen's band radio or cellular phone for summoning help if needed.

Maintenance and driving affect car's fuel efficiency

Drivers know they have little control over fuel supplies and prices. However, according to AAA, motorists can make a big difference in how quickly their tanks run out of fuel — and their pocketbooks out of cash.

First, the vehicle. Master the art of fuel efficient driving by properly maintaining the vehicle. To ensure the best fuel economy, MA advises motorists to follow the maintenance schedule in the vehicle owner's manual.

Second, practice fuel-efficient driving techniques. Whether vacationing or making the daily trip to work, travel planning can save you time, reduce driver stress, and conserve fuel.

Choose driving routes that bypass heavily congested areas. Less-traveled routes may be a few miles out of the way. By avoiding traffic and traveling at more constant speeds, you will save fuel and probably reduce stress.

Avoid rush hour driving. While on vacation, be considerate of those driving to work. Plan sightseeing excursions during non-peak traffic times. If commuting, consider leaving a little earlier or delay your departure from work. Another alternative is to consider flexible or staggered work shifts.

Follow these simple tips to increase your car's fuel efficiency and make driving safer and more enjoyable.

Observe the speed limit and try to maintain steady speeds. Driving too fast wastes fuel and can create traffic hazards. Also, driving too slow can be hazardous and frustrating to other drivers.

Wet weather adds hazards for drivers

Wet weather conditions can contribute to fatal accidents. However, many drivers fail to slow down or use extra caution in the rain.

Large puddles on the roadway often hide potholes and objects in the road. It is important for drivers to slow down before driving through puddles. Aside from the hidden dangers, the underside of a vehicle could be soaked. Water can damage wiring and other vital parts and may cause the vehicle to stall. Commonly, wet brake linings result in uneven braking or decreased stopping power.

Hydroplaning occurs when a thin film of water builds up between the tires and the road surface. This water film reduces the traction between tires and the road. This can cause uncontrollable and unpredictable skids. A hydroplaning skid causes a loss of traction which greatly reduces the steering and braking control under normal driving conditions.

AAA advises that the best way to prevent hydroplaning is to reduce driving speed. Tires which are in good condition and properly inflated will also help to prevent this dangerous condition. If tires are not properly inflated, the treads will squeeze together forming a pocket in the center of the tire area and force water to flow between the tire and the road surface.

As days get warmer, less thought is given to snow and ice. However, rain, snow or ice that has melted during the day may freeze again at night in early spring. Drivers must be alert for shaded areas especially in the early morning and late afternoon.

Fog can quickly appear and linger. Remember, reduce speeds in foggy areas and turn lights on low beams. If high beams are used, the light is reflected back into the driver's eyes causing a severe glare. Drivers must keep their eyes and ears open during fog conditions to sense approaching danger.

Proper care and replacement of windshield wipers, with an ample supply of washer fluid, will also assist drivers with a clean view of the road during wet driving conditions.

In all weather, a safe driver wears a safety belt and insists that all passengers are properly secured.

Northland theatre to present comedy, "Fools"

Come join the "Fools" this spring at Northland Community and Technical College. Have the faculty gone mad? Are the students in revolt? No! It's NCTC's spring play, the uproarious "Fools" by Neil Simon. The production runs Thursday through Saturday, April 24-26 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, April 27, at 2 p.m. Due to the recent disaster, admission to the show will be free of charge.

Leon Tolchinsky is ecstatic. He's landed a terrific job as a school teacher in the idyllic Russian hamlet of Kulyenchikov. But when he arrives he finds people sweeping dust from the street back into their houses, and people who think if you milk a cow upside down you get more cream. Kulyenchikov, it seems has been cursed with stupidity for 200 years, and the desperate townspeople have hired Leon hoping he can break the curse. But they don't tell him if he stays more than 24 hours and fails to break the curse he also becomes stupid. It seems, pardon the expression, a no brainer Leon should leave! Alas, he's fallen in love with the beautiful daughter of the town doctor. She's a little slow... she's only recently learned how to sit down. Will Leon be able to break the curse? Will he win the love of the beautiful Sophia? And will the townspeople ever learn to speak rabbit? For the answers to these and other profound questions, including "What is the meaning of life", join us for this high-spirited and mirthful production.

CBS TV called the Broadway premier of "Fools" the "brightest, freshest, funniest, wittiest, warmest and happiest to hit Broadway in many a day."

Simon is the acclaimed playwright of such favorites as "The Odd Couple", "Barefoot in the Park", "Brighton Beach Memoirs", and "Plaza Suite". His off-hand comic tone and lightning paced humor in this tale reveal "a new and slightly different Simon's facet... a bent for fairy tale farce, precocious ingenuity, and poetic morality play." (The Christian Science Monitor)

Cast members include Ben Schmitz, David Swanson and Tim McAnnany of Thief River Falls, Roxanne Zavoral of St. Hilaire, Rachel Larson of Newfolden, Tara C. Sugden of Hallock, Darla Jean Amberg of Mahnomen, Jon Riesinger of Bloomington, Adria Olson of Edmore, ND and Melvin Whitney Jr. of Chicago, IL. Working hard on the scenic, lights, and gorgeous period costumes are Kristin Kirkeby, Jon Riesinger, Kathy Olson, Lauren Lavalier, and Ryan Rantanen. The play is directed and designed by Janet Haak Aamess.

Tickets for this production can be reserved by calling NCTC at 681-0718. Join us for this hippety-hoppety, springtime comedy.

Displaying a large ring, Tim McAnneny, a cast member in the NCTC production of "Fools" startles other actors. Fools is a Neil Simon comedy and will be presented April 24-26 at 8 p.m., and Sunday, April 27 at 2 p.m. Pictured from left are Adria Olson, Roxanne Zavorel, Ben Schmitz, Rachel Larson, David Swenson, Tim McAnneny, Melvin Whitney Jr. Jon Riesinger, Tara Sugden, and Darla Amberg.

TRF waterways bill that calls for dredging passes in committee

Legislation introduced by State Representative Tim Finseth, to clean and dredge a pair of rivers in Thief River Falls was approved by a House Committee last week.

The Finseth bill would provide funding to clean and dredge the Thief Lake River and the Red Lake River in Thief River Falls. It passed through the House Environment and Natural Resources Committee and will be incorporated into the Omnibus Environment and Natural Resources Finance Bill.

"I am pleased the committee stamped its approval on this important legislation," said Finseth. "The cleaning and dredging of the rivers will improve water quality in Thief River Falls and aid the use of the rivers for recreation and enjoyment.

"It will also help protect the dam from problems related to sedimentation." The legislation would provide $500,000 in matching funds for the project. The city and watershed district will come up with the remainder of the funding.

The river is currently 20 percent plugged with sedimentation. The clogging is causing problems with the quality of the city drinking water and recreation uses on the rivers.

MPCA offers some flood cleanup recommendations

Once flood waters start to recede and cleanup begins in Red River Basin communities, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) offers some recommendations to consider. If you are beginning cleanup in your home, please consider the following:

• Oil Cleanup — If you discover oil floating in your basement, please notify your local city officials for information on how to obtain sorbent pads to soak up the oil. These pads only soak up oil, and are designed to repel water. When conditions allow you to pump flood water out of your basement, pump down to a level that allows you to lay sorbent pads on the surface to soak up the oil, but does not allow the oil to come into contact with the basement floor. As the pads turn pink, flip them over. A broom handle, rake or pitch fork will work well for flipping pads. Please wear rubber gloves during cleanup. Change the pads as they get saturated. All soaked pads should be placed in garbage bags, tied or sealed closed, and brought to a city-designated area for future disposal.

• Contaminated (oil or sewage soaked) debris — Any personal belongings, carpeting and/or construction materials that have been soaked with oil, and are not salvageable, will have to be hauled to a transfer facility, incinerator or a sanitary landfill. Check with your local facility before hauling your debris. These materials cannot be hauled to a demolition landfill. If you have questions, contact your local solid waste coordinator.

• Fuel oil tanks — Check with your supplier to determine if you have water present in your fuel oil tank, and for pumping fuel oil/water mixtures out of your tank.

• Household chemicals — Keep all damaged household chemicals separate for later disposal. Place them in plastic bags and keep the product label with each bag. Call your County Solid Waste officer for collection dates. Also, remember to store chemicals out of reach of children and pets.

• Basement cleaning — Ventilate your basement before and during cleaning with chemical solutions, and if oil is present. When basements flood, there is ususally some sewer backup as well. Therefore, after the water and/or sewage has been removed, it is important to disinfect the surfaces to eliminate odors and bacteria. If your basement had oil spilled in it, use a detergent to clean oil off the surfaces. Sheetrock and paneling should be removed and properly disposed at a transfer facility, incinerator or sanitary landfill. Concrete walls, wood supports, ceiling structures, and beams will soak up oil like a sponge. Therefore, those surfaces will need to be sealed with an epoxy paint sealer once they have dried out.

For questions on post flood cleanup activities, please call the MPCA's Northwest Regional Office in Detroit Lakes, at 218-847-1519 or toll-free at 1-800-657-3864.

Have A Safe & Happy Prom!

1. WHAT IS CONTRIBUTING TO THE DELINQUENCY OF A MINOR? It is a misdemeanor for any person to in any way encourage, cause or contribute to the delinquency or deprivation of any minor (Minnesota Statute 260.315). Providing alcohol or drugs would be construed as contributing to the delinquency of a minor.
2. WHAT ARE THE LEGAL CONSEQUENCES FOR CONTRIBUTING TO THE DELINQUENCY OF A MINOR? There are both criminal and civil legal consequences that can result from contributing to the delinquency of a minor by providing the minor with alcohol or other drugs.
3. WHAT ARE THE CRIMINAL LEGAL CONSEQUENCES? Constituting is considered a misdemeanor which carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail, $700 fine, or both.
4. WHAT ARE THE CIVIL LEGAL CONSEQUENCES? A lawsuit could be filed against the adult who provided the alcohol or drugs if any injury should occur. An example would be a minor who acquires the alcohol in your house and then injures or kills someone else in a car accident. The resulting civil lawsuit could be for damages limited only by the [illegible] of the jury.
5. WHAT IS THE DRAM SHOP LAW? This law was enacted to make liable any person who knowingly supplies alcoholic beverages to anyone under 21 or to an intoxicated person. The law applies to individuals and businesses.
6. WHAT IS SOCIAL HOST LIABILITY? Social host liability is an extension of the Dram Shop law which stipulates that a person serving or supplying alcohol to a minor is liable for damages in a civil lawsuit. In one lawsuit, a neighbor who served as bartender for a graduation party was held liable in addition to the parent.
7. CAN PARENTS OR SOCIAL HOSTS FACE CRIMINAL CHARGES? Yes, any adult who supplies a minor with alcohol could face charges of contributing which carries a maximum fine of $700, 90 days in jail, or both.
8. WHAT ARE THE PENALTIES FOR BEVERAGE DEALERS FOR PROVIDING ALCOHOL TO MINORS? Beverage dealers could have their license suspended or revoked. The person making the sale would face criminal charges for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. If damages or injuries result from the sale, the dealer could be named in any lawsuit.
9. ARE THERE LIMITS TO THE AMOUNT OF PERSONAL LIABILITY IN A CIVIL LAWSUIT? The jury could award any amount of damages in a lawsuit. A persuasive lawyer and a case which creates a sympathetic jury could produce awards in the million dollar plus range. Personal assets may not be protected from this judgement.
10. DOES YOUR HOMEOWNERS INSURANCE COVER LIABILITY WHEN ALCOHOL IS INVOLVED? Homeowners' insurance is intended to cover those incidents for which the results were not foreseen or intended. A violation of the law, such as providing alcohol to minors, could eliminate any responsibility on the part of the insurance company.
11. COULD PARENTS BE HELD LIABLE IF THEIR MINOR CHILD CONSUMES ALCOHOL OBTAINED FROM THEIR HOME? The parents could be liable in a civil lawsuit. If the parents knowingly and willingly provide the alcohol to the minor, the outcome of the lawsuit would be very predictable. If the parents did not have a locked liquor cabinet and the alcohol was accessible to the minor, the parents probably would be held liable even if it was consumed without their knowledge. The parents could also be liable if their minor child provides alcohol to another minor even if they have no knowledge that this was done. Alcohol is a controlled substance and parents need to ensure that it is not readily accessible to minors.
12. COULD PARENTS BE HELD LIABLE IF THEY RENT A MOTEL ROOM FOR THEIR MINOR CHILD AND ALCOHOL IS CONSUMED THERE? The parents could be held liable even though they did not know alcohol was being consumed. There is no limit to the amount of damages that could be recovered in a civil lawsuit if some injury should occur in which the minor was at fault.
13. WHAT RESOURCES ARE AVAILABLE FOR MINORS IN NEED OF HELP WITH ALCOHOL/DRUG PROBLEMS? There are several local agencies that can provide services or direct you to the appropriate agency. Consult any of the following: School personnel/counselors, School addiction counselors, Native American program office, Treatment Centers, Clergy and church personnel, and Law Enforcement.

If the vehicle's cooling system was not flushed last year, now is the time to have it done. After the system has been flushed it should be filled with the proper solution of engine coolant and water, usually about 50-50.

Replace belts at least every four years. Check hoses and clamps for leaks. Leaks are more likely to be detected when the engine is warm. Replace hoses when they become brittle, soft or worn.

The vehicle's muffler and catalytic converter should be examined for holes, splits, and rusted seams. The exhaust pipe should be checked for dents that might impede the flow of gases or holes that could allow carbon monoxide to enter the passenger compartment.

The battery should be tested for charge level and condition. Cables and terminals must be clean and free of corrosion. A mixture of baking soda and water makes a good cleaning solution. Replace cables if corrosion and wear are extreme.

Lubricating oil, oil filter, and air filter should match the manufacturer's recommendations.

The owner's manual will provide instructions on how to check the vehicle's automatic transmission, brake, and power steering fluid levels. Follow the recommendations for addition [illegible] these fluids.

Run the heater, defroster and air conditioner through all control settings. If the air flow and temperature [illegible] the thermostat, fan and air conditioner [illegible].

Inspect all lights, [illegible] and lenses, and replace if necessary. With warmer temperatures, protect the exterior of the vehicle with a quality product to shield it from wet and hot conditions.

Other major vehicle systems which should be inspected include brakes, suspension system, and wheel alignment.

Preventive maintenance makes summer driving more enjoyable and reduces the chances of a vehicle breakdown.

Wet weather adds hazards for drivers

Wet weather conditions can contribute to traffic accidents. However, many drivers fail to slow down in [illegible] in the rain.

Large puddles on the roadway often hide potholes and objects in the road. It is important for drivers to slow down before driving through puddles. Aside from the hidden dangers, the underside of a vehicle could be soaked. Water can damage wiring and other vital parts and may cause the vehicle to stall. Commonly, wet brake linings result in uneven braking or decreased stopping power.

Hydroplaning occurs when a thin film of water builds up between the tires and the road surface. This water film reduces the traction between tires and the road. This can cause uncontrollable and unpredictable skids. A hydroplaning skid causes a loss of traction which greatly reduces the steering and braking control under normal driving conditions.

AAA advises that the best way to prevent hydroplaning is to reduce driving speed. Tires which are in good condition and properly inflated will also help to prevent this dangerous condition. If tires are not properly inflated, the treads will squeeze together forming a pocket in the center of the tire area and force water to flow between the tire and the road surface.

As days get warmer, less thought is given to snow and ice. However, rain, snow or ice that has melted during the day may freeze again at night in early spring. Drivers must be alert for shaded areas especially in the early morning and late afternoon.

Fog can quickly appear and linger. Remember, reduce speeds in foggy areas and turn lights on low beams. If high beams are used, the light is reflected back into the driver's eyes causing a severe glare. Drivers must keep their eyes and ears open during fog conditions to sense approaching danger.

Proper care and replacement of windshield wipers, with an ample supply of washer fluid, will also assist drivers with a clean view of the road during wet driving conditions.

In all weather, a safe driver wears a safety belt and insists that all passengers are properly secured.

Vehicle security suggestions

Crimes affecting one's personal safety and security can occur during the day and night. To reduce the risk of personal harm, AAA offers these tips.

Preventive maintenance is the key to avoiding a roadside breakdown. Periodic mechanical checkups are necessary to maintain your vehicle's proper working condition. Keeping the gas tank at least half full at all times is another way to prevent an unnecessary breakdown.

Crimes affecting motorists' personal safety and security can occur when getting to and from your car. When approaching your vehicle, hold your keys in your hand while taking an inventory of your surroundings. If you notice someone near your vehicle, walk toward a public place and seek help. Remember, try to park in a central well lighted place.

If your vehicle breaks down on the highway, position the vehicle as far from the traveled roadway as possible. To signal distress, post a "Send Help" sign, turn on your four-way flashers, open the vehicle's hood and tie a light-colored cloth to the antenna or door handle. Always try to stay with the vehicle until uniformed law enforcement arrives. Do not leave your vehicle at night or during bad weather.

Always remember your personal safety. If you see another motorist who is stranded, do not stop. Instead, signal your intent that you will call for help, then notify law enforcement. Motorists are often leery of those offering assistance.

Carjackings occur when an individual attempts to steal a car which is occupied. These instances often occur at gunpoint. To avoid being a victim of carjackings, lock all doors and keep windows rolled up. Use freeways rather than streets through high crime areas. When stopping for gas or to use a pay phone, choose well-lighted, busy facilities. If someone tries to enter your vehicle at a red light, drive through the intersection. Above all, if there is no escape, do not resist.

For your safety consider joining a car pool. Plan your travel routes and let others know your route and estimated time of arrival. If you expect to be traveling at odd hours or "off the beaten path," you might consider a citizen's band radio or cellular phone for summoning help if needed.

Maintenance and driving affect car's fuel efficiency

Drivers know they have little control over fuel supplies and prices. However, according to AAA, motorists can make a big difference in how quickly their tanks run out of fuel — and their pocketbooks run out of cash.

First, the vehicle. Master the art of fuel-efficient driving by properly maintaining the vehicle. To ensure the best fuel economy, AAA advises motorists to follow the maintenance schedule in the vehicle owner's manual.

Second, practice fuel-efficient driving techniques. Whether vacationing or making the daily trip to work, travel planning can save you time, reduce driver stress, and conserve fuel.

Choose driving routes that bypass heavily congested areas. Less-traveled routes may be a few miles out of the way. By avoiding traffic and traveling at more constant speeds, you will save fuel and probably reduce stress.

Avoid rush hour driving. While on vacation, be considerate of those driving to work. Plan sightseeing excursions during non-peak traffic times. If commuting, consider leaving a little earlier or delay your departure from work. Another alternative is to consider flexible or staggered work shifts.

Follow these simple tips to increase your car's fuel efficiency and make driving safer and more enjoyable.

Observe the speed limit and try to maintain steady speeds. Driving too fast wastes fuel and can create traffic hazards. Also, driving too slow can be hazardous and frustrating to other drivers.

TRF waterways bill that calls for dredging passes in committee

Legislation introduced by State Representative Tim Finseth to clean and dredge a pair of rivers in Thief River Falls was approved by a House Committee last week.

The Finseth bill would provide funding to clean and dredge the Thief Lake River and the Red Lake River in Thief River Falls. It passed through the House Environment and Natural Resources Committee and will be incorporated into the Omnibus Environment and Natural Resources Finance Bill.

"I am pleased the committee stamped its approval on this important legislation," said Finseth. "The cleaning and dredging of the rivers will improve water quality in Thief River Falls and aid the use of the rivers for recreation and enjoyment.

"It will also help protect the dam from problems related to sedimentation." The legislation would provide $500,000 in matching funds for the project. The city and watershed district will come up with the remainder of the funding.

The river is currently 20 percent plugged with sedimentation. The clogging is causing problems with the quality of the city drinking water and recreation uses on the rivers.

MPCA offers some flood cleanup recommendations

Once flood waters start to recede and cleanup begins in Red River Basin communities, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) offers some recommendations to consider. If you are beginning cleanup in your home, please consider the following:

- Oil Cleanup — If you discover oil floating in your basement, please notify your local city officials for information on how to obtain sorbent pads to soak up the oil. These pads only soak up oil, and are designed to repel water. When conditions allow you to pump flood water out of your basement, pump down to a level that allows you to lay sorbent pads on the surface to soak up the oil but does not allow the oil to come into contact with the basement floor. As the pads turn pink, flip them over. A broom handle, rake or pitch fork will work well for flipping pads. Please wear rubber gloves during cleanup. Change the pads as they get saturated. All soaked pads should be placed in garbage bags, tied or sealed closed, and brought to a city designated area for future disposal.
- Contaminated (oil or sewage soaked) debris — Any personal belongings, carpeting and/or construction materials that have been soaked with oil, and are not salvageable, will have to be hauled to a transfer facility, incinerator or a sanitary landfill. Check with your local facility before hauling your debris. These materials cannot be hauled to a demolition landfill. If you have questions, contact your local solid waste coordinator.
- Fuel oil tanks — Check with your supplier to determine if you have water present in your fuel oil tank and for pumping fuel oil/water mixtures out of your tank.
- Household chemicals — Keep all damaged household chemicals separate for later disposal. Place them in plastic bags and keep the product label with each bag. Call your County Solid Waste officer for collection dates. Also remember to store chemicals out of reach of children and pets.
- Basement cleaning — Ventilate your basement before and during cleaning with chemical solutions, and if oil is present. When basements flood, there is usually some sewer backup as well. Therefore, after the water and/or sewage has been removed, it is important to disinfect the surfaces to eliminate odors and bacteria. If your basement had oil spilled in it, use a detergent to clean oil off the surfaces. Sheetrock and paneling should be removed and properly disposed at a transfer facility, incinerator or sanitary landfill. Concrete walls, wood supports, ceiling structures, and beams will soak up oil like a sponge. Therefore, these surfaces will need to be sealed with an epoxy paint sealer once they have dried out.

For questions on [illegible] cleanup activities, please call the MPCA's Northwest Regional Office in Detroit Lakes at [illegible] or toll free at 1-800-[illegible].

MPCA honors companies for excellence

Polaris Industries in Roseau was one of [illegible] businesses honored recently by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) for their hazardous waste management skills. The awards ceremony was part of the Seventh Annual Hazardous Waste Conference in Bloomington March 13 and 14.

Polaris Industries was recognized for their outstanding efforts and timeliness in achieving or returning to compliance.

The MPCA created this annual recognition program to encourage Minnesota's hazardous waste generators, companies, institutions and government offices that produce hazardous wastes and treatment facilities to comply with the hazardous waste rules.

Only those Minnesota generators and facilities that were inspected by the MPCA's Hazardous Waste Division in 1996 were eligible for this year's awards.

Dear Parent,

Once again, we are nearing the end of the school year. In the coming weeks your son or daughter may be joining others in Prom Night Celebrations. This is an exciting time for young people on this very special occasion.

It's also an exciting time for you as parents. You have watched your child grow over the years both physically and emotionally. There were times when you wondered if you could survive their growing up, and now that Prom Night is at hand and celebration plans are underway, the question is, "Can we all survive it?"

If you are planning to host a party AT YOUR HOME OR OTHER LOCATION SUCH AS A HOTEL OR MOTEL, carefully consider your responsibilities in doing so. Please remember that SELLING, FURNISHING OR SERVING ALCOHOL to minors is a criminal offense in Minnesota. It is a gross misdemeanor which can result in up to one year in jail and up to a $1,000 fine. In addition, any adult who knowingly provides alcoholic beverages to a minor can be exposed to personal liability for injuries that result from that minor's intoxication.

The combination of drinking and driving is one of the leading killers of young people between the ages of 15 and 24. Last year several young people under the age of 21 in our state alone, died or were seriously injured in alcohol related traffic crashes.

This is one of the most memorable occasions for your son or daughter. Teach them to celebrate SMART!!! Please read the information below to further answer any questions you may have about minors and alcohol. Make sure your Prom Celebrations for minors are chemical free.

Sincerely,

Sheriff Gerald E Moe & Police Chief Ken Froschheiser

Pine to Prairie Hospice recently recognized its volunteers. They are among nearly 100,000 individuals nationwide who devote their time to serving terminally ill patients and their families. Hospice provides terminally ill patients with care that seeks neither to hasten or prolong the dying process. An interdisciplinary, medically directed team addresses the physical, emotional, social and spiritual needs of the terminally ill patients and their families. The team typically includes a physician, nurse, social workers, therapist, spiritual caregiver, home health aide and trained volunteers. Pine to Prairie Hospice is a Medicare Certified Hospice program with offices in Fosston, Thief River Falls, Karlstad, Grygla, Roseau, International Falls, Bemidji and Kelliher. To find out how to become a hospice volunteer contact DeLoris Larson at 218-681-8332. Time To Test Our Organizational Skills

As our neighbors to the west are forced from their homes by a cruel and relentless rush of water, many more of them will be turning to this area to provide some respite for at least a time. It is our humane responsibility to respond, to count our own blessings, roll up our sleeves and not only welcome those seeking haven but do all we can to provide for their needs.

Being a proper refuge, however, will take much more than just a willingness to help. It will require an organizational effort that will severely test our community's ability to bring together all aspects of assistance into an orderly process. The last thing that people fleeing tragedy need is to be dropped into more confusion and chaos.

Even the use of Northland Community and Technical College as a transfer site for residents of the Good Samaritan Home in East Grand Forks has been an organizational test. And this involves people in a generally controlled environment, utilization of many of the nursing home's own staff and use of a facility with many of the food service and other requirements necessary to conduct that day-to-day operation.

To be of service to an undetermined number of people of all ages and needs, many of whom have little but the clothes they are wearing and perhaps a few personal belongings, is a much more difficult task. As eager as people are to help, they must have direction and purpose to effectively accomplish a relief effort. This does not come about simply by opening a building or making a hotdish or bagging used clothing.

We have confidence in the ability of those in responsible positions in the community to draw upon the expertise available and get the community's house in order, but the need is now and organization can't wait. This will be a severe test in preparedness and failure isn't an option.

Community Response To Need Is Gratifying

It was interesting to be a part of the Thief River Falls community effort to fill sandbags for use throughout the area this weekend. And it was gratifying to witness the wholesale response to the call for volunteers in the bag-filling effort.

When we refer to the Thief River Falls community, we mean more than just the city of Thief River Falls. Volunteers from other neighboring areas took the time and made the effort to come to the Eighth Street bridge area and assist with the program.

A steady stream of semi-trailer trucks left the Eighth Street area laden with filled sandbags enroute to points of need throughout the Red River Valley area. Volunteers shoveled sand and held bags and stacked pallets with a determination seldom seen by so many in one place at one time. The effort was not without its quips and light moments, but concentration was on the job at hand and there were few lapses in work.

As piles of sand were rapidly transformed into pallets of filled bags, a constant relay of trucks from the Pennington county highway department and Thief River Falls street department (and perhaps others that we didn't notice from our bag-filling station) replenished the diminishing piles. There was a nearly constant chorus of beep-beep-beep warnings from backing sand trucks and the fleet of forklifts that retrieved stacked pallets, deftly lofted them to the waiting flatbed trailers and ferried loads of empty pallets and bales of empty bags.

As usual when there is a need for food, Pat Gaffaney and his family were there, preparing turkeys in his portable roasters and serving meals to workers. Others, including fast food restaurants, provided bologna and cheese sandwiches, cookies, cheeseburgers and submarine sandwiches throughout most of the day. Bottled water and soft drinks were also readily available—and greatly appreciated.

Once in awhile a worker would wonder aloud where the filled bags were being sent, but no one questioned the effort or complained about the task. The assumption was that there were people in need and the bags were being put to good use, and that was motivation enough. Young children played in the huge sand piles while their parents and others worked around them. Older young people pitched in with fervor and learned about citizenship and volunteerism up close and personal.

At this writing we dont have any definite numbers of sandbags filled or truckloads hauled, and what we have heard has been strictly hearsay and rumor. We will try to have some of this information by publication time Tuesday, but emergency personnel can be forgiven if they don't take the time to respond to requests for information. It is more important to fill the bags and send them on their way than to keep a count.

We're proud of the people who bent their backs and their knees and pitched in at the sandbag filling site. Society can't be all bad when people still care about one another.

ECHOES FROM THE PAST

HISTORICAL REVIEW OF THE TIMES AND ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

FROM THE PAGES OF THE TIMES

50 YEARS AGO • APRIL 24, 1947

by Jerome and Donna Myhrer

Petition Asks For Vote

"Forty-two petitions bearing 1,157 signatures were filed Tuesday in the office of County Auditor A. M. Senstad, asking that a special election be conducted in Pennington county to determine whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquor shall continue to be prohibited in the county.

"A state law requires that in order for an election to be called the petitions must bear sufficient signatures to number at least 25 percent of the number of votes cast for governor at the last general election. Inasmuch as 3,608 votes were cast for the office November 5, 1946, 902 signers would be sufficient, the auditor indicated.

"The last previous vote on the liquor issue in Pennington county was on October 14, 1935, when the dry forces won by a margin of approximately 700 votes."

Gospel Tent Mission

"Arranged by the Union Gospel Tent Mission, a union praise and prayer service is planned for next Wednesday, April 30, 8 o'clock, at the Home for the Aged, said L. W. Lindholm, committee chairman. Missionary G. J. Hanson will speak."

C & C Discusses Parking Problem

"Civic and Commerce association members, at their luncheon meeting last Thursday noon in the Palm Garden cafe, engaged in a discussion of the automobile parking situation on downtown streets together with the proposed installation of parking meters as a means of relieving the congestion.

"After talking over various phases of the problem, the association voted to recommend to the city council that parking lots be set up and that two-hour parking limits be established. If that plan does not prove workable, it was suggested that parking meters be given a trial."

Use Bike Parking

"Local police Tuesday night picked up seven bicycles which had been parked against store windows and elsewhere on downtown streets contrary to police regulations. Chief Leonard Hanson stated that regulations require bicyclists to use the parking racks on the vacant lot in the rear of the postoffice. He also reminded owners that bicycle licenses are due before May 1."

Catholic Program On

"Under the auspices of the Catholic Diocese of Crookston, Station KTRF is carrying a new program entitled 'Catholic Teachings.' Various Catholic speakers from the surrounding territory will be heard on the program which comes on the air each Friday evening from 8:15 to 8:30. Father Merth of the local St. Bernard parish will conduct the program Friday, April 25."

Baseball And Softball

"Gordy Reierson, manager of the city baseball team, and Glen Carlson, promoter of the city softball program, announced that an organizational meeting will be held in the Civic and Commerce room at the auditorium Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

"A number of vital problems are to be discussed and important committees selected, so all baseball and softball fans are requested to be in attendance. It is particularly important that prospective sponsors of softball teams should be present or have a representative at the meeting."

"It was with considerable difficulty that they got the four 6-ton boilers in their respective places. They were compelled to roll them from the track to the mill on account of the condition of the roads.

"The work on the sawmill is being pushed as rapidly as possible. The Boilers and Machinery are being placed and it is the intention of the company to have the mill ready for sawing June 15th. All of P. and J. Meehan's logs tributary to Red Lake mounting to ten million feet were purchased by the St. Hilaire Lumber company, and with the logs banked by themselves they will have in all about 24 million feet for this seasons cut. During the day shift the circulars and gang saws will run and the band saws on the night shift making a daily capacity of 250,000 feet."

About The Mill

"The mill will be ready for starting about June 15, but it might be a good idea to postpone the opening until July 3rd or 5th, and have a grand opening and a celebration at the same time, marking a new era of progress for St. Hilaire and vicinity. It is probably a little early in the season to make such a suggestion, but to insure a successful celebration, our citizens should begin to bestir themselves."

"Pat Judge was inspecting the streets Monday.

"John Noplin counted the ties to St. Hilaire last week.

"Farmers are all busy with their seeding this week and the ground is in elegant shape as most of it was plowed last fall.

Oil cleanup in flood waters assisted by absorbent material

In response to an increasing risk of heating fuel being spilled into basements and businesses due to spring flooding, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) is distributing specially designed absorbent pads to help soak up spilled oil.

The pads are provided free of charge from the MPCA to assist residents in cleanup efforts and help protect the environment.

MPCA reminds persons using the pads to wear rubber gloves to keep from touching oil and possible sewage. The more oil that can be collected before and during pumping out of basements and businesses, the less the problem will be later.

Persons who are unable to clean up the oil in their homes by themselves are asked to notify officials in their community and request assistance. MPCA suggests the following tips to assist residents in their cleanup.

- Spread pads out on the surface of the water wherever oil is seen. The oil will float on top of the water.
- If the pad turns color and looks saturated, flip it over to soak up more oil on the other side. A pitch fork or broom handle works well for reaching the pads and flipping them over.
- When pumping flood water out of a basement, keep the hose submerged in the water so it does not suck up floating oil.
- Pump out as much water as you can without sucking up oil. As pads get saturated, replace them with new ones. Keep flipping the pads over to keep the cleanest part of the pad in contact with the oil.

Once pads are fully saturated, place them in plastic garbage bags and bring them to the local disposal site. MPCA will arrange for a roll off or dumpster to be placed at a central location in the community.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)— A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis®" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Five semi loads of sand bags were transported from Thief River Falls to Warren Wednesday in the fight against the rising waters there. Hertz Foods donated the trucks to the cause and Peterson Lumber the forklift used to load the sandbags. Donnie Scott, operations manager for Hertz, pictured above on the semi, and Tom Puppe of Hertz drove the trucks. Gordy Peterson of Peterson Lumber, pictured above, operated the forklift. On Thursday, Thief River Falls responded to the growing crisis in Warren by requesting that all unneeded sandbags be taken to the Eighth Street boat landing where they would be transported to Warren.

Ice jammed up on a curve in the Red Lake River south of Thief River Falls on Wednesday. Wednesday afternoon, a channel had opened in the river above the dam, much to the relief of many local residents.

CARD OF THANKS AND MEMORIAM

In trying to recover from the shock and sadness of losing our son, father and brother, Milton Grinda, who was flying home for Easter but did not make it. There are so many people whose reflection of God's love has been expressed in so many beautiful ways that words seem very inadequate in trying to relate the comfort and healing that has resulted. To Pastor Dennis Raymond and his kind consideration when bringing the sad news, to Pastor Henry and Florence Moyer for lending a sympathetic ear, to Stephen Minister Dalleen Groslie for always being there. To the Eunice Circle plus all the members and friends at Zion Lutheran church- a heartfelt thank you from the depth of our being. Thanks also to relatives, friends and neighbors for all their expressions of sympathy, gifts of food, flowers, telephone calls and visit. Thanks to Art Weller and Chuck Willette for a daily support system in every area. Milton was a good son and a winner in so many areas of life. He was an active member of the resurrection Lutheran church of Monticello, Minnesota served by Pastor Bob Rusert. This is a mission church of the ELCA with plans to build a sanctuary in the near future. Milt had hoped to help in the construction of this building project, but did not live to do so. However, memorials are pouring in to help the effort in order that blessings might come to others in days ahead. Because of his outgoing personality and the ability to see only good in others he had a host of friends who are expressing their sympathy in so many comforting words. Some friends who had joined Resurrection church the same time as Milt closed their expression of sympathy with these words. "We know his faith was strong and strongly suspect he is flying with the angels now, may he be with all of us from his new wings."

Sadly missed by his mother, Estelle Grinda

CARD OF THANKS AND MEMORIAM

In trying to recover from the shock and sadness of losing our son, father and brother, Milton Grindo, who was flying home for Easter, but did not make it. There are so many people whose reflection of God's love has been expressed in so many beautiful ways that words seem very inadequate in trying to relate the comfort and healing that has resulted. To Pastor Dennis Raymond and his kind consideration when bringing the sad news, to Pastor Henry and Florence Meyer for lending a sympathetic ear, to Stephen Minister Gaileen Gioslie for always being there. To the Eunice Circle plus all the members and friends at Zion Lutheran church, a heartfelt thank you from the depth of our being. Thanks also to relatives, friends and neighbors for all their expressions of sympathy, gifts of food, flowers, telephone calls and visits. Thanks to Art Weller and Chuck Willette for a daily support system in every area. Milton was a good son and a winner in so many areas of life. He was an active member of the resurrection Lutheran church of Monticello, Minnesota served by Pastor Bob Rusert. This is a mission church of the ELCA with plans to build a sanctuary in the near future. Mil had hoped to help in the construction of this building project but did not live to do so. However, memorials are pouring in to help the effort in order that blessings might come to others in days ahead. Because of his outgoing personality and the ability to see only good in others he had a host of friends who are expressing their sympathy in so many comforting words. Some friends who had joined Resurrection church the same time as Mil closed their expression of sympathy with those words: "We know his faith was strong and strongly suspect he is flying with the angels now, may he be with all of us from his new wings."

Sadly missed by his mother, Estelle Grindo
Children Wade (Sarah) Amanda and Ericka
Brother Homer Grindo

MEET AND CONFER SESSION
March 24, 1997 6:30 p.m.
S.D.S.C. Conference Room A

A Meet and Confer Session of Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, March 24, 1997, at 6:30 p.m. in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Larry Belmont, Carl Clark, Hank Hallstrom, Dennis Kiesow, Jean Larson, Darla Twomey and Steve Young. Also present was Jerry Robicheau, Superintendent of Schools.

Chairperson Carl Clark called the session to order and Clerk Jean Larson established that a quorum was present.

The purpose of the session was to discuss the calendar for the 1997-98 school year.

Two calendar options were presented for consideration and discussion. The TRFEA noted that the majority of their membership was in favor of a calendar with the first day of school for students as September 2nd. Include two weeks off at Christmas and the last day of school would be June 3rd. Parent-teacher conferences would be held on October 22, 23, and 24 and on February 26 and 27 for all grades. Discussion was held concerning the number of days students would actually be in school, scheduling graduation and designating snow make-up days.

The session was adjourned at 6:55 p.m.

REGULAR BOARD MEETING
March 24, 1997 7:00 p.m.
S.D.S.C. Conference Room A

A Regular Board Meeting of Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, March 24, 1997, at 7:00 p.m. in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Larry Belmont, Carl Clark, Hank Hallstrom, Dennis Kiesow, Jean Larson, Darla Twomey and Steve Young. Also present was Dr. Jerry Robicheau, Superintendent of Schools.

Chairperson Carl Clark called the meeting to order and Clerk Jean Larson established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by D. Twomey to approve the agenda as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

The Board was given notice of the desire of the TRF Education Association to begin negotiations. The current contract expires on June 30, 1997. Members were reminded of MSBA's Phase III Building a High Performance Board workshop scheduled for April 3rd in St. Cloud. The March 1st Enrollment Report was distributed and briefly discussed.

Matt Bitzegaio was recognized for being named to the 1996-97 All-State Men's Choir as was Reid Freiland for being named to the 1996-97 All-State Band. The Board recognized John Kieffer and Duane Hagman for recently completing their high school graduation requirements through the Area Learning Center. Bridgeman's was recognized for donating ice cream treats to Challenger and Franklin students on St. Patrick's Day.

On behalf of the TRFAHA, Tony Dorn Jr., presented their plans for expansion of the Huck Olson arena to be partially funded through the Mighty Ducks grant sponsored by the Minnesota Amateur Sports Commission. The grant application must be submitted by the end of April. The project would include construction of an olympic size ice arena, locker rooms, lobby area, and zamboni and ice plant area. The project would be done in two phases at a projected total cost of $4,451,789. The TRFAHA is requesting support for the project from the school, city and county. Tony indicated that the facilities rental fee the school pays to the city could be considered as the district's support and contribution to the project.

Myrna Erickson updated the Board on the district's Food Service Program noting that participation in the lunch program is approximately 62% across the district. Myrna also reviewed the choices that are given students at each school and some of the changes that were made in the first year pertaining to the number and quantity of servings. Some of these changes did increase program costs because of the need to do more baking, etc.

Darla Twomey reported on behalf of the Multi-Events Cultural Center noting that the project will be ready to take bids on the groundwork in the next few days. Darla also reviewed the Operations and Management Agreement that was presented to the Board for approval at this meeting. There was discussion regarding the costs that will be incurred to maintain the track and the 25% of gross receipts charge that concession users will be required to pay to use the facility.

Darla also reported on behalf of the Minnesota State High School League noting that at their meeting last week all motions were defeated including a resolution allowing football coaches to hold workshops in the summer months for their players.

Steve Young reported on behalf of the PER Committee indicating they met last Monday and heard reports from Dave Peterson regarding Technology Curriculum and Sally Willso regarding Phy Ed. Steve also noted that Educational Services Coordinator Glenn Chiodo provided the committee with information regarding the graduation rule.

Jean Larson reported on behalf of the Community Education Advisory Council noting they are continuing to look for additional representatives for the Council. Jean also indicated that an audit of the pool program is proposed and that the department is working with the city's Park and Recreation Department on collaborative efforts in a number of areas including transportation to activities during the summer months.

Dennis Kiesow reported that an agreement had been reached with the Bus Drivers unit and that negotiations with the Teamster units are getting closer noting that a couple of language items still need to be worked out.

Business Manager Harry Nelson reviewed the investment report as of March 18th and the recommendation to purchase two new buses for the upcoming school year. Harry indicated the lease with Wayne Nelson for space for the ALC in Roseau is recommended and includes a $25/month increase.

Superintendent Jerry Robicheau referred to the construction of a new clinic in Thief River Falls noting his attendance at the luncheon held last week to make that announcement. Jerry also reviewed the budget adjustments recommended for Board approval. Reductions totaled $80,306 with no new staff development or curriculum development dollars to be added for the upcoming school year. Adjustments include an increase of $11.00 in participation fees for extra curricular activities, a transfer of $44,000 from federal funds to pay a greater portion of the salary and benefits for the Coordinator of Educational Services, elimination of the teacher overload in Spanish at Lincoln for $6,000 and a $20,000 reduction in supplies and other costs at Challenger including elimination of the half-time Office Educational Assistant position. Concerns were expressed regarding no additional dollars being made available for staff development, curriculum development, or remediation programs for students who do not meet the graduation standards. Other concerns included the amount the participation fees would go to ($71.00 at the high school and $50.00 at the middle school) in comparison to other schools in the area and the impact the increase may have on younger families. The adjustments will, however, allow for the addition of 2.5 FTE staff at Franklin to address some of the class size issues in that building. It was noted that any additional reductions in the budget would mean increasing class sizes or eliminating programs.

Jerry also reviewed the results of the basic skills test scores noting that of the 178 students who took the math test, 129 or 72% met the district standard of 60%. This is an improvement over last year when 62% met the district standard. In reading, only retakes were given this year resulting in 33% or 36 of 109 students meeting the district standard. Jerry indicated that while our goal should be 100% of our students meeting the district standard of 60%, we are on a good track and the issue of remediation for those students who do not meet the standards is one that will have to be dealt with in the near future.

A motion was made by D. Twomey and seconded by S. Young to approve the Minutes of the March 10, 1997, Regular Board Meeting as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

Personal Note From Kathy

Dear [illegible] [illegible] the Plummer news while [illegible] Burnell have been wintering in Texas. I would like to thank the three papers, The Times, Gazette and the Herald for printing our news. Also I would like to thank my neighbors for giving me the news to share with the readers. We have had a long hard winter, [illegible] care. [illegible] news this fall. Till then, Ron and I would like to wish Effie, Burnell and all of you a great spring and summer.

Home Again! Effie Writing!

My husband and I returned home to the land of ice and snow on Thursday evening, April 10. We had a good winter at Mercedes, TX and learned to know many friends, but Minnesota is home and it's good to be here in spite of the cold. We deeply sympathize with those who have suffered hardship during the cold winter, blizzards, outages and now flood. We hear heroic stories of neighbors helping neighbors and know that tough people survive. We left Llano Grande Park on April 1 in a rain that stayed with us all day. We've never seen Texas so beautiful – the result of heavy rains in late March. The scenery was lush and green with wild flowers blooming on the roadsides and crops coming along nicely. We drove up through Arkansas and visited two nights and a day with George and Anita Ross, our neighbors at the Park. They drove us around to see Magazine and Blue Mountains and other sights. Here, too, the woods were alive with dogwood and redbud trees abloom. As we drove north after our stay, it was again raining and we drove in and out of the clouds as we traveled through the mountains. We stopped briefly at Branson, MO and then spent the night with friends at Cameron, MO. More rain as we went on to Coon Rapids, IA to daughter Elaine and Arne Palmer's home. We visited friends and relatives close by until Wednesday afternoon. We had called home on Sunday and heard of the ice, blizzard and outages, but on Wednesday there was storm warnings for Iowa so we left and went on to Lakeville where we visited the David Vigstol family. On Thursday we visited Willis and Mabel Byer and came on home. Roads were good and here we are! A big "thank you" to Kathy for writing the news in my absence.

Kathy and Darol Brasgalla of Bismarck, ND visited over Easter weekend at the home of her parents, Carl and Eunice Koskela, and also with his father, Louie Brasgalla of Baudette.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorensen were supper guests of her sister, Delaine and John Hamner of Thief River Falls last Wednesday.

Earl and Janice Melvie of Thief River Falls were Thursday evening visitors at the Lloyd Sorensen home.

The Martha circle of Immanuel met on Thursday at the home of Alma Hanson. Esther Walter led the Bible study with eight ladies in attendance. Bernice Vettleson was a guest. Alma served a delicious lunch.

Others on the program were Bonnie Wagner, Cluster 2 coordinator from Middle River; Idella Samuelson of Thief River Falls; Olin Rasmusson of Stephen; Betty Brecto, Cluster Advisor from Crookston; and Elva Fiedler, Cluster Recorder from Goodridge; soloists Lindsey Nordhagen and Sally Erickson, both of Thief River Falls; and pianist Dee Wollenzien. REGULAR BOARD MEETING
March 24, 1997 7:00 p.m.

A Regular Board Meeting of Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, March 24, 1997, at 7:00 p.m. in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Larry Belmont, Carl Clark, Hank Hallstrom, Dennis Klesow, Jean Larson, Darla Twomey and Steve Young. Also present was Dr. Jerry Robicheau, Superintendent of Schools.

Chairperson Carl Clark called the meeting to order and Clerk Jean Larson established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by H. Hallstrom and seconded by D. Twomey to approve the agenda as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

The Board was given notice of the desire of the TRF Education Association to begin negotiations. The current contract expires on June 30, 1997. Members were reminded of MSBA's Phase III Building a High Performance Board workshop scheduled for April 3rd in St. Cloud. The March 1st Enrollment Report was distributed and briefly discussed.

Matt Bitzegaio was recognized for being named to the 1996-97 All-State Men's Choir as was Reid Frolland for being named to the 1996-97 All-State Band. The Board recognized John Kiehel and Duane Hagman for recently completing their high school graduation requirements through the Area Learning Center. Bridgeman's was recognized for donating ice cream treats to Challenger and Franklin students on St. Patrick's Day.

On behalf of the TRFAHA, Tony Dorn, Jr., presented their plans for expansion of the Huck Olson arena to be partially funded through a Mighty Ducks grant sponsored by the Minnesota Amateur Sports Commission. The grant application must be submitted by the end of April. The project would include construction of an olympic-sized ice arena, locker rooms, lobby area, and zamboni and ice plant areas. The project would be done in two phases at a projected total cost of $4,451,789. The TRFAHA is requesting support for the project from the school, city and county. Tony indicated that the facilities rental fee the school pays to the city could be considered as the district's support and contribution to the project.

Myrna Erickson updated the Board on the district's Food Services Program noting that participation in the lunch program is approximately 82% across the district. Myrna also reviewed the choices that are given students at each school and some of the changes that were made in the last year pertaining to the number and quantity of servings. Some of these changes did increase program costs because of the need to do more baking, etc.

Darla Twomey reported on behalf of the Multi-Events Cultural Center noting that the project will be ready to take bids on the groundwork in the next few days. Darla also reviewed the Operations and Management Agreement that was presented to the Board for approval at this meeting. There was discussion regarding the costs that will be incurred to maintain the track and the 25% of gross receipts charge that concession users will be required to pay to use the facility.

Darla also reported on behalf of the Minnesota State High School League noting that at their meeting last week all motions were defeated including a resolution allowing football coaches to hold workshops in the summer months for their players.

Steve Young reported on behalf of the PER Committee indicating they met last Monday and heard reports from Dave Peterson regarding Technology Curriculum and Sally Willse regarding Phy Ed. Steve also noted that Educational Services Coordinator Glenn Chiodo provided the committee with information regarding the graduation rule.

Jean Larson reported on behalf of the Community Education Advisory Council noting they are continuing to look for additional representatives for the Council. Jean also indicated that an audit of the pool program is proposed and that the department is working with the city's Park and Recreation Department on collaborative efforts in a number of areas including transportation to activities during the summer months.

Dennis Klesow reported that an agreement had been reached with the Bus Drivers unit and that negotiations with the Teamster units are getting closer noting that a couple of language items still need to be worked out.

Business Manager Harry Nelson reviewed the investment report as of March 18th and the recommendation to purchase two new buses for the upcoming school year. Harry indicated the lease with Wayne Nelson for space for the ALC in Roseau is recommended and includes a $25/month increase.

Superintendent Jerry Robicheau referred to the construction of a new clinic in Thief River Falls noting his attendance at the luncheon held last week to make that announcement. Jerry also reviewed the budget adjustments recommended for Board approval. Reductions totaled $80,300 with no new staff development or curriculum development dollars to be added for the upcoming school year. Adjustments include an increase of $11.00 in participation fees for extra-curricular activities, a transfer of $44,000 from federal funds to pay a greater portion of the salary and benefits for the Coordinator of Educational Services, elimination of the teacher overload in Spanish at Lincoln for $6,000, and a $20,000 reduction in supplies and other costs at Challenger including elimination of the half-time Office Educational Assistant position. Concerns were expressed regarding no additional dollars being made available for staff development, curriculum development, or remediation programs for students who do not meet the graduation standards. Other concerns included the amount the participation fees would go to ($71.00 at the high school and $56.00 at the middle school) in comparison to other schools in the area and the impact the increase may have on younger families. The adjustments will, however, allow for the addition of 2.5 FTE staff at Franklin to address some of the class size issues in that building. It was noted that any additional reductions in the budget would mean increasing class sizes or eliminating programs.

Jerry also reviewed the results of the basic skills test scores noting that of the 178 students who took the math test, 129 or 72% met the district standard of 80%. This is an improvement over last year when 62% met the district standard. In reading, only retakes were given this year resulting in 33% or 36 of 100 students meeting the district standard. Jerry indicated that while our goal should be 100% of our students meeting the district standard of 80%, we are on a good track and the issue of remediation for those students who do not meet the standards is one that will have to be dealt with in the near future.

A motion was made by D. Twomey and seconded by S. Young to approve the Minutes of the March 10, 1997, Regular Board Meeting as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

WHEREAS, the cost of reconstructing a four lane divided highway (including right of way) is estimated at $2,250,000 in Dakota County; and

Personal Note From Kathy

Dear friends and neighbors,

It is that time of year to wish you and yours a very happy spring and summer. I have had a great time writing the Plummer news while Effie and Burnel have been wintering in Texas. I would like to thank our three papers, The Times, Gazette and the Herald for printing our news. It means so much not just to people living in this area, but to the many people across the U.S.A. that subscribe to the papers and keep in touch with the hometown. Also, I would like to thank my neighbors for giving me the news to share with the readers. We have had a long hard winter, but still we took time to laugh, have some fun and show each other that we care. If it is Effie's wishes and the good Lord is willing, I may again write the news this fall. Till then, Ron and I would like to wish Effie, Bunnie and all of you a great spring and summer.

Love, Kathy Juneau

Home Again! Effie Writing!

My husband and I returned home to the land of ice and snow on Thursday evening, April 10. We had a good winter at Mercedes, TX and learned to know many friends, but Minnesota is home and it's good to be here in spite of the cold. We deeply sympathize with those who have suffered hardship during the cold winter, blizzards, outages and now mud. We hear heroic stories of neighbors helping neighbors and know that tough people survive. We left Llano Grande Park on April 1 in a rain that stayed with us all day. We've never seen Texas so beautiful – the result of heavy rains in late March. The scenery was lush and green with wild flowers blooming on the roadsides and crops coming along nicely. We drove up through Arkansas and visited two nights and a day with George and Anita Ross, our neighbors at the Park. They drove us around to see Magazine and Blue Mountains and other sights. Here, too, the woods were alive with dogwood and redbud trees abloom. As we drove north after our stay it was again raining and we drove in and out of the clouds as we traveled through the mountains. We stopped briefly at Branson, MO and then spent the night with friends at Cameron, MO. More rain as we went on to Coon Rapids, IA to daughter, Elaine and Arnie Palmer's home. We visited friends and relatives close by until Wednesday afternoon. We had called home on Sunday and heard of the ice, blizzard and outages, but on Wednesday there was storm warnings for Iowa so we left and went on to Lakeville where we visited the David Vigstol family. On Thursday we visited Willis and Mabel Byer and came on home. Roads were good and here we are! A big "thank you" to Kathy for writing the news in my absence.

Kathy and Darol Brasgalla of Bismarck, ND visited over Easter weekend at the home of her parents, Carl and Eunice Koskela, and also with his father, Louis Brasgalla of Baudette.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson were supper guests of her sister, Celaine and John Hammer, of Thief River Falls last Wednesday.

Earl and Janice Melvie of Thief River Falls were Thursday evening visitors at the Lloyd Sorenson home.

Recent visitors of Charlotte Loining have been Amelia Eskell, Lorena Westerlund and Clara Hesse.

The Martha circle of Immanuel met on Thursday at the home of Alma Hanson. Esther Walter led the Bible study with eight ladies in attendance. Bernice Vallleson was a guest. Alma served a delicious lunch.

After returning to Miami, she worked for the Granums at the Dade County Fair and Expo. Her daughter, Cathy Samuelson of Salles, ND also joined them to help. While back at the Stanleys', she enjoyed their visit from Kim and Donna (Pederson) Wisniewski of Milwaukee, WI who were vacationing in Florida.

The weather in Northwest Minnesota has brought in so many blizzards this past season that it is more than we have fingers to count them on so they are beginning to call them by names. The one in which we were hurt the most was this last one called "Blizzard Hannah". Not only was it spelled the same both forward and backwards, it hurt when we ran out of water and when it came on it ran out of the pipes that had frozen and bursted. There was water everywhere and none to drink. In the first quarter of this century storms came and went and we didn't seem to notice because as long as there was wood for the stoves, plenty children to pump the water, plenty to eat and a telephone line with 22 neighbors to listen in on. That was the time to look in the wish book and pick out the dress that mother would make for us.

The Bethesda Lutheran Church is preparing for the wedding of Paula Rud and Neil Larson on Saturday. Here's hoping the weather will be as it should be for April 19th and everything goes well.

The seniors were hoping to be having their regular meetings by this time but many are yet snowed in. The last batch of snow that piled up on top of the old drifts is making it impossible to get roads opened, the buckets slide right on top of the ice in the lower part of the drift.

Coffee guests at the home Gayhard Nelson were Merlyn Nelson, Donavon Langnass, Myron Nelson, Brion Nelson, Kari Kasprowicz and Lois Kleinvachter.

Basil Bernard from Stewartville visited at Paul and Shirley Anderson's last Wednesday until Saturday.

Dinner guests at Bud and Marie Stellons on Sunday were Bob and Denise Berggren and family of Mason City, IA, Buddy, Anthony and Salina Berggren of Soudan, Lanna, Claudia, Jessie and Kali Berggren, Pete Kastruzowski, Judy, Lois and Kristin Kleinvachter, Lowell Lofrooth, June Kasprowicz and Alan and Jean Gohrts of Inkster, ND. They also celebrated Marie's birthday.

Dinner guests at Irene's Cafe on Sunday were Donald Nelson, Wade Johnson, Ben, Brenda and family, Kasprowicz and Ray Grochowski joined them for coffee later. Irene Nelson visited at Myron Nelsons on Monday morning.

June Kasprowicz, Claudia Berggren and Kali, Ellen Stromberg, Julius and Toni Kleinvachter visited at Judy Kleinvachter's.

Louise Lofstrom celebrated his birthday on Friday. Irene Nelson brought him greetings and had coffee and cake.

The home of Ellen Flaten south of town burned to the ground on Sunday. Ellen had gone to her daughters house to say over night during the storm. That is almost as bad as those whose homes are under water.

Peter Thompson went and got a big generator saying he isn't to be caught without electricity again. Peter went and stayed with LaVonne over night but he toughed it out until he could get to town. Cold is more cold when you get up in the 80s at least it seems to be that way. Isaac said Betsy was sitting party way in a chair with Isaac's overcoat on top of snowsuit until she looked like a Buddha. We laughed to our selves warm, the whole world was upside down.

Gordon Klogstad, Arlyn Coto and Randy Nelson and children visited at Gnyhrid Nelsons.

Ben and Brad Kasprowicz, Brion Nelson, Betty and Tony Piotruszewski and Lowell Lofrooth were recent visitors at Judy Kleinvachter's.

Gayhard and Irene Nelson enjoyed supper at Brion Nelsons home on Tuesday evening after the storm.

Take a tip from Peter and get a big generator just in case another blizzard could be in the making. Tip from me: Don't leave you own taxes to the last. Tomorrow is the last day to file and be able to sleep well.

Ann Abler of Andover and her children spent the week following Easter, at the Wallace Hanson home. Steve Abler drove up to get them last Friday evening but the storm held things up till Tuesday when they could leave for home. The Hansons were without electricity like everyone else also no telephone and Wallace was stranded in Grand Forks from Saturday evening until Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Anderson attended family services for Ella Larson at Green's Funeral Home on Monday night.

They are shoveling sand into traffic cones, which are inverted, and have had the tops cut off. The sandbags were then loaded onto semis and taken to Warren.

Water from the flooding Thief River surrounded the Dennis Wendlandt farm home along the rangeline road northeast of Thief River Falls this weekend.

Legislators tour flood sites and stop at NCTC

Friday afternoon legislators and college representatives toured several flood and flood relief sites in Northwestern Minnesota. At a news conference at Northland Community and Technical College, legislators and educators encouraged students who have dropped out to come back, thanked volunteers and tried to reassure and answer questions of flood victims.

Representatives touring the areas included Senators Roger Moe and LeRoy Stumpf, Dr. Orley Gunderson of Northland Community and Technical College, MnSCU President Judith Eaton, Interim President Morris J. Anderson, and Nils Hasselmo, president of the University of Minnesota.

Eaton assured the crowd gathered at the meeting that they were doing all they could to respond to the needs of staff and students of Minnesota State Colleges and Universities.

Eaton listed a summary of steps being taken including:

• working closely with the executive and legislative branches to ensure that adequate funding is provided for building repairs, assistance to flood-impacted students and employees and other flood-related needs;

• Assessing and responding immediately to the needs of students whose lives and education have been disrupted by the flood. We intend to provide students with financial support and educational options for completing their interrupted terms. Frankly, this is a time to bend the rules and do whatever is necessary to help our students.

• Recognizing the hardships of employees affected by the flood by "holding them harmless" for work missed. Many employees already have been victimized by the flood. Eaton said they want to ensure that they are not victimized again by losing compensation, and will work closely with employee unions on the issue.

• Targeting financial assistance and supplies to members of the MnSCU family who are flood victims. Eaton said she had assigned Karin Treiber in the system office to coordinate the relief efforts. She said they intend to establish a special fund through an existing flood relief organization, to collect needed clothing, foodstuffs and supplies and to provide whatever additional assistance is needed.

• Assisting in the massive clean-up effort by forming a MnSCU clean-up brigade composed of students and employees from throughout the system.

Eaton listed the contributions of many students and staff from colleges in the system and thanked them for their efforts. "I am incredibly proud of the work that has been done, and I know the Board of Trustees shares my deep sense of appreciation."

"Many of the same institutions that have given so generously to the flood relief efforts have themselves been devastated by this disaster. Minnesota West Community and Technical College-Granite Falls and Northwest Technical College and Moorhead State University all had to close for periods of time because of the flood. Faculty, staff and students at these institutions and others have had their lives turned upside down — both in terms of what is happening at the colleges and universities and at home. Our hearts go out to them, and we intend to reach out to them in every way possible," Eaton said.

Nils Hasselmo, president of the University of Minnesota, said "The Afternoon with the Arts at Lincoln Sunday afternoon

Amanda Clark turns a bowl on a potter's wheel in the art department at Lincoln high school. Pottery making will be demonstrated and finished projects shown during an "Afternoon with the Arts" Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. at the school.

Sixth annual "Afternoon with the Arts" will be presented by the Lincoln high school fine arts departments Sunday, May 4, from 1 to 5 p.m. There is no admission and members of the public are invited to come and go during the afternoon, viewing and listening to as much of the program as they like.

"Purpose of the festival is to promote the interdisciplinary aspects of the arts and the often multiple artistic talents of our students," stated Connie Stuck, speech and drama instructor.

"In our busy world we often attend only those functions which directly affect us, but by providing so much in one place, we hope to increase appreciation and awareness of each art area. Coffee, cake and punch will be served throughout the afternoon and there will be a virtual smorgasbord of arts pieces and performances to be offered."

Activities during the four-hour event include an art show displayed by the visual art department, literary pieces written in communication classes, featuring pieces by the magnet arts literary class, videopoems created in communication classes and photographs by photo club members— all displayed in the art room and down the hallways to the auditorium.

Featured on stage in the auditorium will be an interdisciplinary jazz piece involving live instrumental, poetry and movement performance, vocal, piano and instrumental solos, interpretation pieces by various speech team members, literary readings by the literary arts class, and German pieces from the language department.

A drama presentation will be performed at 3:30, called "Self-Portraits: Reflections of Who We Are," an original piece reflecting the issues concerning youth today. The audience will take a tour through a "museum" where the works of arts will come alive and express the images, relationships and choices that affect youth.

"It is a performance that will not only appeal to youth, however," Mrs. Stuck said. "Hopefully, it will bridge generations and personalities to communicate an important message of understanding.

"Visual art, poetry, monologues, scenes from daily life, musical selections and a movement piece reflecting the violence in students' lives, will combine to create this museum of self portraits," she added.

"Sometimes humorous and sometimes serious, the performance should portray something recognizable in each of our lives. This performance comes out of the Adolescent Health Week original student productions which began in 1989 to reflect issues in the lives of youth and their families. Sunday's performance will retain the original intent with an artsy flair."

The visual arts to be displayed have been created in the general art classes including design, drawing and painting, exploring arts sculpture and ceramics, and commercial art, as well as works created by the magnet arts students. A pottery-making demonstration will also be conducted during the afternoon.

The art classes are taught by Mrs. Marilyn Adams. Some individual pieces will be for sale by the artists after the show.

German language presentations are under the direction of Pawl Young; musical performances under the direction of Darcy Reese, Bruce Felt and Derek Druse; the literary arts class is taught by Lanell Dyrud, the media work is advised by Alice Holstad, and the drama presentation has been written in collaboration with students and compiled and directed by Connie Stuck. The movement pieces have been created with the direction of Mary Kay Conway, a dance initiative representative from the Minnesota Arts Education Resource Center.

After a long winter and a spring laden with natural disaster, this afternoon may be just what is needed for a fresh start," Mrs. Stuck said. "Through art we can look at the world with new eyes and a different perspective. Join our students as they share their perspective during an "Afternoon with the Arts."

Goodridge volunteers resurrect Goodridge hall

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Resourceful, persistent and somewhat patient, volunteers in the Goodridge community have saved their community hall from being demolished and turned it into a modern gathering place for a number of community activities.

Built in 1958, the 40x80 feet east end of the building was used as a community hall. It had a stage for a band and was used for wedding dances and even as a roller skating rink. But through lack of proper maintenance over the years the building fell into a state of disrepair.

The west end of the building, 40x50 in size, served as the city's fire hall. When the fire department moved into new quarters a number of years ago, even less attention was paid to the building. It was on the verge of being demolished by the city when community organizations including the Goodridge Lions and Lioness clubs and the Jaycees adopted it as a restoration project.

An estimated $20,000 has been spent on the building since the restoration began, but the improvements are worth several times that amount because of the resourcefulness of the organizations and the countless hours of volunteer labor expended.

In 1990 a new roof was put on the fire department portion of the building. In 1995 the hall area was reshingled and the entire building was enclosed with metal siding. Much of the interior work has been done in the past two years, although an electric furnace was purchased in 1991. A gas furnace was recently provided by John Lavly and heating ductwork was installed this spring.

"We're really pretty good at scavenging," chuckles Lions club member Merlin Drangstveit. He and others at the site offered the following evidence of that trait:

• The range hood in the enlarged and remodeled kitchen came from the Thief River Golf Club in Thief River Falls;

• The gas stove was refurbished and installed after being discarded by a former Goodridge cafe;

• The deep fryer was acquired for a pittance from the American Legion club in Stephen;

• The suspended ceiling replaced this spring utilized ceiling tile primarily from the Odd Fellows building being remodeled in Thief River Falls with a few extra from the Goodridge school;

• A 4 1/2x14 foot steel table to hold deep fryers for the annual smelt fry was built by Roger Huffman from the wall of an elevator bin acquired from St. Hilaire Cooperative Elevator Association.

• An eight-foot section of what had been a 20-foot wooden bar which was originally used in Hans Rud's cafe in Goodridge and had been dumped in the woods for at least 10 years was retrieved and restored by Albert Johnson.

Major improvements are included in the restoration effort. The kitchen area was more than doubled in size, cabinets and counters were built and fluorescent lighting installed.

Workers on the smelt fry and other projects wondered for years why the sink wouldn't drain after doing a few loads of dishes. It was discovered this year that the sink drain wasn't connected to piping and water simply ran out under the building until the space there filled.

This year volunteers chipped out a lot of concrete, installed plumbing for the drain and put in an elevated water heater with two self drains to prevent freezing.

Lioness club members painted the interior of the hall and refinished the paneling. They provided material for a number of tables which were built by Albert Johnson and have provided funding at several times as the project has gone along.

From early February of this year there has been someone working on the restoration nearly every weekday, usually with six to eight people at a time. The people worked well together and have enough different areas of expertise to handle most of what needed to be done.

One of the major projects recently completed was the enlargement of restrooms and installation of doorways, partitions and fixtures to make them completely handicapped accessible.

Most of the project monies has come from the annual smelt fry which attracts about 600 people and the community auction which draws consignments and bidders from a wide area. The auctions have had total sales of up to $58,000.

Other funds in addition to those provided by the Jaycees and Lioness clubs have come from the Good

Larry and Marlin worked as volunteers on the hall remodeling project on nearly a full-time basis for a couple of months. The greatly improved building was put to good use last Saturday for the annual auction, flea market, craft show and smelt fry.

Sixth grade Respect Team members sponsored by the University of Minnesota Extension Service has been teaching School District 564 fourth grade students about respect and conflict resolution. Members shown with advisor Valerie Larson are Nathan Browning, Kara Larson, Maggie Stock and Kate Levinson. The group attended a two-day workshop conducted at the Norwegian language camp at Bemidji to learn material and techniques for teaching the importance of not using profanity, respecting the rights and ideas of others and resolving disagreement peacefully. Their presentation demonstrates wrong and correct ways students can conduct themselves on buses, in the classroom, on the playground and in the hallway and locker areas. The group also attended a reunion and review session at the French language camp at Bemidji April 18.

Winners in the Thief River Falls Rotary Club Four Way Test essay contest recently received their prizes from Tom Grealls, club president. Students from left are Megan Browning, first place, $100; Sam Iana, second place, $75; and Jennifer Vad, third place, $50. Megan's entry was sent on to the regional contest. The contest is open to all students in the final two years of high school. The Four Way Test asks the questions: "Is it the truth? Is it fair to all concerned? Will it build goodwill and better friendships? Will it be beneficial to all concerned?"

Cenex distributes $80.3 million to members

The regional agricultural supply cooperative Cenex is returning $80.3 million in patronage to its member cooperatives this month, including those in Minnesota.

Checks totaling $7.2 million were mailed to 287 Minnesota cooperatives which did business with St. Paul, Minn.-based Cenex during its 1996 fiscal year. Patronage refunds vary by cooperative based on the amount and type of business they transact with Cenex. The cooperatives also earned preferred stock totaling $16.8 million for 1996.

The total distribution, which marked five consecutive years of record patronage returns, consisted of $24.1 million cash and $56.2 million in preferred stock issued to Cenex member cooperatives in 21 states. The patronage refund is based on record 1996 Cenex performance which included net income of $104.2 million on sales of $2.7 billion. Cash returns based on earnings for the fiscal years 1992-1996 total nearly $180 million.

"This cash return is an important milestone for Cenex and its member-owners," said Cenex President Noel Estenson. "It's an overall record, and it's based on record 1996 earnings our customer-owners helped us achieve. Most important, however, it's evidence of Cenex's ongoing effort to provide our customers and stockholders with excellent products, hassle-free service and a return on their investment in this system."

In fiscal 1997, Cenex will return a total of $52 million in cash to its member owner cooperatives — or 50 percent of 1996 earnings. During its 67-year history, Cenex owners have received cash returns of $477 million — 45 percent of the cooperative's cumulative net earnings.

Soil and water stewardship week planned

"Backyard Stewardship" is the theme for the 1997 Soil and Water Stewardship Week celebrated by the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District as well as conservation districts all across America. The observance will be held the week of April 27 through May 4.

Your backyard garden not only gives you peace of mind and hours of enjoyment, but it benefits the environment for all of us. You may not think of practicing responsible conservation while gardening, but some common gardening practices can be considered sound conservation practices as well. For example, backyard gardeners can terrace or contour their gardens, use drip irrigation, mulch bare soil, add trees and shrubs for windbreaks or protection from the sun and add a small pond for the benefit of wildlife.

Think of the stewardship potential as each of us takes care of the immediate surroundings where we work or live. That good "backyard stewardship" extends far beyond the backyard to the neighborhood, region, continent and world.

To learn more about conservation practices that can benefit your backyard, just as similar practices benefit farm and ranch land, contact the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water conservation District at Grygla at 294-6144.

Spanish students raise funds for travel to Costa Rica

Fifteen Spanish language students at Lincoln high school conducted a Bowl-A-Thon recently to raise funds for their trip to Costa Rica July 1-10.

Each of the students teamed with a partner from the Lincoln high school staff to bowl a three-game doubles series. Pledges were taken for the combined score of each team.

In addition, chances were sold to guess the highest team score. Prize in that competition was a bowling and pizza party for up to 12 people at the Family Bowl.

The team of student Rachel Greelis and Lincoln science instructor Vern Isaacson won the Bowl-A-Thon with a combined score of 983. The team used a combination of talent and determination, according to Lincoln Spanish instructor Sheryl Novacek, with Mr. Isaacson supplying the determination.

Terry Soine, who substituted for Jon Anderson as a bowling partner for student Jessica R. Nelson, guessed the closest to the total score, but deferred the prize to Jessica, who had the second closest guess.

Other teams included Kerri Bloom and Terri Staples, Josh Cahalan and Kim Madunich, Rick Domarski and Tim Olson, Reid Forland and Sheryl Novacek, Katrina Holtan and Helen Anderson, Rebecca Kenner and Roxi Nicholson, Melissa Meyer and Scott Hetherington, Becky Mooney and Lisa Semanko, Beth Nelson and Bill Stock, Michelle Mathson (substituting for Elizabeth Odette) and Jan Anton, Caryn Omdahl and Rosaline Hoffen, Tinesha Porter and Charlie Cornell and Stephanie Wiseth and Bridget Paulson.

Also in preparation for the trip and as a community service effort, the students who will be going to Costa Rica spent time last week along with other Spanish language students playing with and entertaining Hispanic children at the Evangelical Free Church, the primary Thief River Falls shelter for people displaced by the flood in Grand Forks, ND, and East Grand Forks.

Among the activities attempted by the students was reading in Spanish to the youngsters at the shelter—an effort that evoked much laughter from some of the older Hispanic youngsters. In general, however, it was difficult to tell which group was having the most fun from the project.

Mrs. Novacek summarized some of the plans for the trip to Costa Rica—which she described as "a beautiful, peaceful country"—as follows:

"We will be spending time in the capital of San Jose, on the Pacific coast, and on the Caribbean coast. We will visit a rain forest, an active volcano and a cloud forest.

"On the Pacific coast, on the tip of the Nicoya Peninsula, we will be guests at the private Curu Wildlife Refuge. On the Caribbean coast we will be traveling through the canals to the Tortuguero Turtle Reserve where we hope to see the threatened Green Turtle coming ashore to lay eggs on the beach at night.

"We will also be going on an aerial tram which will carry us through the rain forest canopy of the Braulio Carrillo National Park. For exercise we will be doing a lot of trail hiking, swimming and a day of white water rafting. In the capital we will also visit museums and monuments, and work more on our Spanish by shopping in the markets and stores."

An additional fund-raiser for the students is the "Rent-A-Costa Rica-Kid" project in which the students will do yard work and other projects in exchange for donations toward their trip.

Lincoln high school Spanish students who will be making a trip to Costa Rica July 1-10 held a Bowl-A-Thon recently to raise money for the trip. Pledges were taken for pins knocked down by students and school staff partners in three games. The team of student Rachel Greelis and science teacher Vern Isaacson used a combination of skill and determination to win the event with a 983 score. Isaacson is pictured at left supplying the determination. Principal Terry Soine won the Family Bowl pizza party for 12 by guessing closest to the winning score but passed it on to Jessica R. Nelson, second place guesser.

Goddard, Fox serve as high school pages

Beth Goddard of Thief River Falls and David Fox of Plummer are shown with Rep. Tim Finseth of Angus during their participation in the high school page program at the Minnesota House of Representatives in St. Paul.

Beth Goddard, daughter of Tom and Wendy Goddard of Thief River Falls, and David Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Fox of Plummer, recently serves as high school pages for the Minnesota House of Representatives at the State Capitol in St. Paul.

The page program gives high school juniors from Minnesota's public and nonpublic schools an opportunity to serve as pages for one week during a full legislative session. They serve in a nonpartisan capacity in the program which has the following five objectives:

(1) To provide high school juniors with a meaningful and exciting experience in state government,

(2) To promote the exchange of ideas among young people, their State Representatives, and others from different parts of the state,

(3) To give students firsthand learning experiences about the importance of the role legislators play and their influence in effecting positive change in the state,

(4) To have students share in assisting members of the House of Representatives as the lawmakers formulate and make decisions, and

(5) To have young people gain a better understanding of state government, the legislative process, and share this knowledge with others in their respective schools and locales.

Beth and David assisted in delivering materials in the House Chamber prior to and during sessions, attended important committee meetings that involved hearings on issues of concern to all Minnesotans, and met with State Representative Tim Finseth from District 1B.

"I am always pleased to have young people come to spend time at the Capitol," Rep. Finseth said. "Being here and assisting in the legislative process is a highly educational experience for them."

During each week, a total of 10 students from across the state learn the legislative process and participate in discussions and informal seminars with legislators and House staff members. They spend time with top elected officials of the Executive Branch, a Supreme Court Justice and meet with the Senate to learn its related functions.

Students who are juniors at the beginning of a school year may apply individually for the page program or be nominated by their respective schools. Once nomination cards are received, program staff make a "luck of the draw" selection of students so that all legislative districts are adequately represented. Once the participants arrive at the Capitol during a given week, they work with House members and staff on a nonpartisan basis to gain an objective viewpoint of Minnesota's two-party system of government.

Spring Clean-up Week is changed in Thief River Falls

Annual Spring Clean-up Week in Thief River Falls, as we have known it, has undergone a change," said Bob Jahlinske, city sanitation department supervisor.

This year, he said, the months of May and June will be clean-up time. City residents can obtain four special stickers from the Utilities Billing office and affix the stickers to the items they wish to dispose of. The items need to be placed beside the regular garbage for Sanitation Department pick up. All items need not be tied, bundled, or boxed. One special or regular orange sticker, placed on a small pile of boxes or items will be adequate. Large items will require one sticker each.

The special stickers are valid only during the months of May and June 1997. Residents will, beginning with the June 2 through June 6 garbage bag pick up, receive two extra stickers to be used anytime during the year.

Anyone with questions should call 681-4603.

Leaf Vacuum

The city's leaf vacuum will begin operating May 5. The ward system will again be used. It will operate in ward 1 on Monday, ward 2 on Tuesday, ward 3 on Wednesday, ward 4 on Thursday, and ward 5 on Friday.

Grass pick up

Grass clippings will be picked up after the leaf vacuum operations have halted. Residents are asked to place grass clippings in open garbage cans or containers and place containers alongside their regular garbage. Containers will be dumped a minimum of once per week.

Rummage and bake sale slated

A Remarkable Rummage and Bake Sale will be held in the basement of the United Methodist Church from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, May 3. A wide variety of items will be available, including baked goods, household and personal items, clothing, furniture, games, toys, and collectibles. A snack stand will be set up on site. Everyone is welcome. Proceeds from this sale will benefit the Youth Groups at the United Methodist Church.

April brings about many things, but the most important event is my birthday. The big 18 hit me on the fourth day of the month. This ripe age is considered a milestone and rightfully so. Besides being able to vote, I can gamble, buy cigarettes, purchase scratch-offs at a gas station, and rent "adult" movies. What more could a girl want?

I am an adult according to the law. What exactly are adults? To a small child, they are big people who use adult language, read adult books and magazines, and watch adult movies. Everyone knows what this special category entails and I don't find anything adult about it. We are always telling our children to act maturely, but when a movie comes on for mature audiences, it's not exactly something we would want them watching. When they are bombarded with "adult" material, they will obviously want to mimic the language and actions. After all, if they do, they will be "grown-up."

This exact topic came up at my birthday dinner with my family. My parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles were sick of hearing that categorization. They all said, "I'm an adult, and I don't act like that!" Actually, most of the adults I know don't cuss and swear with every other word. They don't read nude magazines or watch porn movies. If anything, that's immature. Believe me, the rest of my family agrees!

In a way, the adult category is offensive. It stereotypes every adult in the world. How would it be if they came up with a "blonde" rating for movies and books where everyone spoke with slow, simple sentences so they could understand? We blondes wouldn't stand for it, and neither should adults. The adult stage of life is being dragged through the mud.

Since adults haven't protested this subject enough, children automatically think that's the way adult life is. They look up to adults and want to live up to expectations, but most children are growing up with a distorted perception of what adult expectations are. I don't like it when people have the wrong idea about me, do you?

With the exception of voting, none of these newly granted privileges will have any positive impact on my life. If being called an adult comes with these negative tags, maybe I'll just stick with the "teenager" label. But there are horrible shows like "Saved By the Bell" that give teens a shallow, love crazy stain. With all the confusion of growing up, now I have to try to figure out why 18 is worth all the hoopla. Another year, another candle.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

We Have Wheels

After chasing my 6-year-old son on his bicycle last summer I decided I needed some wheels of my own. Last year, we would head for the grocery store, downtown or the park – he on his bike and me on foot. I'd have to walk a pretty good pace as he pedaled along, impressed with his new-found speed and freedom from training wheels.

Our rule was that he was supposed to wait for me at the corners so I could keep track of him and his safety. Now and then on the return trip he was lured away by other kids on bikes or just plain impishness. I'd find him at home 15 minutes later waiting for me on the front steps. "What took you so long?" he'd ask innocently. A leisurely outing frequently turned into a test of endurance which I did not enjoy or wasn't in shape for.

I knew I needed an alternative. I couldn't keep up with him, so I decided to join him.

This spring, both my husband and I bought bicycles (complete with an attached water bottle). It wasn't a cheap proposition as we also purchased the accompaniments like a bike carrier for the car, helmets and locks – everything but a horn and carry basket (which isn't a bad idea in case I come across a rummage sale).

We envisioned leisurely family bike rides – somewhere I decided to make a test run last week – just son and I in our little neighborhood. I soon realized that the vision of an idyllic afternoon bike ride was going to need some revision.

Before departing from the driveway we reviewed the rules: watch for cars (both parked and moving), ride on the right side of the road, watch for cars, don't fool around, ride single file, watch for cars, stop at the street corners, watch for cars. Yes, he said, he knew the rules. But knowing and remembering are two different things when you're a 6-year-old boy.

We traveled the first short block without problems – not much to get in the way or distract. The following blocks tested my patience. It crossed my mind that if I turned around soon it maybe wasn't too late to return the bike. This wasn't as much fun as I envisioned.

I reminded him about riding on the right side of the road, not the middle, no less than 50 times (it seemed like). And maybe he just forgot what single file meant. I was nervous as he rode circles around me.

In the short 20 minute ride, he stopped about 10 times to look at "stuff." Then he'd holler, "Wait for me!" as I continued to ride. When he wasn't stopped he rode into the curb, through the puddles and leaf piles, over the branches, and almost into me – more than once. All of this while whooping and hollering. Pretty much normal behavior for a 6-year-old.

Obviously he hadn't seen the picture in the magazine of the perfect family enjoying a bike ride together. We both harbored different ideas of what a bike ride should be, mine was the serene-enjoy-the-view adult version and his was the rough-and-tumble kid's version. We'll strive for a happy medium in the coming months.

Part of the problem could be that I wasn't too confident with my riding ability. It's probably been 15 years since I've ridden a bike that actually moves. Fear of falling onto hard pavement from that height definitely coaxed me into riding cautiously.

And I'm riding an 18-speed bike. I don't know what the speeds are for or what they're supposed to do. Even when I had just a 10-speed I didn't know when to change gears. I'd probably be better off with a "one speed fits all" bike like my mom's bright red Huffy.

This weekend my son and I invited dad to ride with us. With dad leading the way and mom bringing up the rear, we found that much is within reach on our bikes. We just have to make sure our 6-year-old pays attention and doesn't drive into a parked car.

LSS honoring seniors in May

Lutheran Social Service is honoring seniors across Northwestern Minnesota with its annual Apple Pie Award and Customer Appreciation Day, Wednesday, May 14, at senior dining sites in communities across the area.

LSS Senior Nutrition and Meals On Wheels, which administers nutrition programs in Region 1, presents the "Apple Pie Award" each year in recognition of special contributions to dining programs. However, Area Director, Elaine White, says, "There are more seniors who deserve special recognition than it is possible to individually recognize this spring. We are appreciative and indebted to the seniors and senior organizations who have helped with fund raising, equipment repairs and replacement, utilities, facility space and other needs."

White says May 14 has been proclaimed Apple Pie Award and Customer Appreciation Day for seniors across the area, with Apple Pie A'la Mode served at Senior Dining Sites and Meals On Wheels as the dessert of the day. "We want to publicly acknowledge and extend deepest appreciation from LSS for the countless favors, contributions and support which have made LSS Senior Nutrition and Meals On Wheels Programs one of the best, for many years, in the State of Minnesota."

May is also Older Americans Month across the nation, and White says the plight of many in the Red River Valley has made the Administration on Aging theme, "Celebrating Community: more than a Meal," even more poignant. "Our dining sites have welcomed people displaced by blizzard, power outage, and flood. Everyone has pulled together - the sense of community is so touching - a place to gather, a meal, yes - but, so much more. Thank you all."

Karl Bjerkman was recently presented with a Certificate of Appreciation for his many years of service on the Thief River Falls Public Library board by library manager Heidi Hoks. Bjorkman was active in automating the library and encouraging installation of additional databases on the mainframe computer as well as developing the library's homepage on the Internet.

PARENTING TIPS
Learning Good Manners

The very best place to start teaching manners is in the home. When adults are respectful to each other and to children, they are modeling good manners and setting an example much louder than words.

As important as a good model is, it is not enough. Children do not automatically pick up all the manners of civilized behavior. Example must be backed by explanation and instruction. Children need to be told exactly what is expected of them. It is useless to expect them to act like miniature adults, but only by knowing the rules can they follow them.

A fun way to learn rules is to play games. For examples, a pretend tea party may be appropriate. Act out a proper greeting ("Hello, Mrs. Bear. How are you?") and proper table manners ("Would you like some cookies?" "Please pass the milk." "Thank you very much."). A child can "teach" her doll how a good guest acts and in the pretending, reinforce her own good habits.

One instruction is not enough. Reminders are necessary over and over again. Friendly reminders work better than hostile ones. Ask pleasantly, "What do you say?" and don't let go of the treat until the child says, "Please."

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk to your children about what you expect of them, but remember it must be something each child is capable of. When they do remember their manners, praise them and let them know you appreciate it.

Norwest Bank takes donations for flood relief

In an effort to raise $500,000 for flood relief, a green ribbon program has been started by Karin Dahl, a senior from Forman, ND, attending Concordia College in Moorhead.

Suggested donation of $5 in exchange for a green ribbon to be worn on lapels may be made at Norwest Bank in Thief River Falls. The ribbons are to be worn as "a sign of hope and faith in a new growth and rebirth of our communities," Dahl said.

All costs of the program are covered by corporate sponsors and all donations will go directly to the Red River Valley relief fund.

Churches set May 4 to help flood victims

Thief River Falls area churches have designated Sunday, May 4, as a day of prayer and offering to aid flood victims. Funds collected will be divided equally between the Red Cross and Salvation Army flood relief efforts.

The special offerings taken in local congregations May 4 will be pooled and matched two-for-one up to the first $1,000 by Lutheran Brotherhood.

Persons who would like to contribute to the effort and are not affiliated with a local church may send monetary contributions to Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8129, PO Box 782, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Hans Heppner
Lincoln High School

It was early in April. It still snowed from time to time, but the creek had swallowed up most of the snow, and it was fat with yellow water. It was at this time of year that the northerns would swim upstream from the Lake of the Woods and finally up the creek that works its watery business by my house in Swift, Minnesota.

My dad prepared for this by sharpening the forks of a four-pronged spear. It was a garage-sale buy, and my Dad had affixed a hand-made wooden haft. He spent an hour or two, grinding down the rusted edges and buffing away the grit. When it was finished it gave the impression that it was an evil device. A longish barb trailed away from each prong in a menacing arc. The light seemed afraid to lick the grainy surface of the blades with its photonic tongue.

Despite a token resistance by my mother on my behalf, me being newly ten, my dad decided that he and I would wander into the moonlit night to spear a crucial ingredient for fish soup. One night, around twelve o'clock, my dad slipped into my room and shook me awake. Due to the secrecy of this mission, he urged me to wear some dark clothes, so I put on a navy turtleneck and draped a black trench coat over my shoulders and went upstairs.

Without preamble we boarded my dad's puke green Ford pickup truck around midnight, and began to rumble down the gravel road. The ideal place to fish the creek was in the neighbor's woods only a pair of miles away from our house. When we came to the turn my dad gave his Ford (termed the Green Yak Caravan) a final burst of speed, put in the clutch, and cut the engine and headlights. We coasted down the neighbor's driveway, past their house, and near a sandpit in their back yard.

As soon as the truck rumbled to a stop, I grabbed the Poseidon Rod while my dad grabbed an old army flashlight and we forayed into the wilderness. The brush snapped angrily at our blinded faces as we attempted to slide into the forest. The smell of recently thawed earth and melted snow permeated the thick undergrowth of hazel brush, ash and poplar.

It wasn't a long walk through the trees until we came to the lazy, swollen stream blindly gurgling its way out of our range of vision. The beam of the flashlight probed the tips of tree roots, imitating the alabaster moon, whose reflection stretched for the center of the creek.

We had trod up or down the muddy banks for nearly two hours before we saw our first target. It shone in the electric torch light like a silver pencil nosing its way up the stream. The water pushed fast over a submerged stump and the current stalled the fish for a time. I gently lowered my weapon into the water, leaving a curling wake downstream of the shiny spear tip. The shaft of the tool bent in a illusory rightish angle as the water curved the light. I paused to breath deeply, inhaling the moisture that swam in the air, and steadying myself, I made my sudden thrust. It was far too slow to compete with the Northern Pike's survival instincts. The lit cone of water clouded itself with silt.

I was dismayed I had missed, but more so that I was now losing my balance and swaying slowly and dangerously toward the snow-melt-temperature water. My right hand wrapped around a sapling, but slid off as my stature became increasingly horizontal. My dad reached for me, but it was too late. My left foot slipped on an impatient patch of wet grass and I toppled. In a survival instinct my hand circled around my father's wrist, and we were suspended for a split second between the ceramic smooth water and the muddy, sno-encrusted shore.

We both crashed into the creek with a cannonball KA-BLOOSH. Sputtering, I bobbed up as quickly as I could, my shoulder muscles already twitching with cold. Our fingers clawed the shore, and we climbed up the bank like pursued cats. We sat against a tree, heaving steam into the bracing night air. When we had finished giggling about our mishap, we tromped around the narrow shore, most of our resolve dissolved. Soon my Dad and I found our way back to the "Green Yak Caravan" and puttered home to a hot shower and then to our beds to partake of a much deserved sleep.

We never have gone "night fishing" again, but it was much more memorable as a single outing, and I'd prefer to keep it that way.

SPEAKING OF EDUCATION

by Jerry Robicheau
Superintendent
School District 564

Needless to say, our community has been impacted by the devastation that has happened to our neighbors to the west. They have experienced a tremendous loss and, yet, to see the resilience they have shown in their efforts to overcome the devastation renews our belief in the human spirit to overcome obstacles.

As a relatively new member of this community, it is heartening for me to see how this community has rallied to support our fellow citizens to the west and north of us. As Superintendent of Schools, I would like to publicly thank our students and staff for the tremendous support they have presented in this time of need. Our students were ready, willing and able to assist in any way they could. With only phone calls, our staff was available to assist in sandbagging as were many community members and also to do any volunteer work needed to help those in a state of need. People cannot fully understand the reaching out that is so evident in this community unless one experiences it first-hand.

This article is going to be a little bit of a potpourri of just some general comments regarding all the information you've heard regarding the whole issue of graduation standards and basic skills testing. I'd like to just share with you a couple of items. More information will be shared with you over the course of the next several months. First, I would like to talk about basic skills testing.

Beginning last year, every school district in the State of Minnesota was required to administer a reading and math test to eighth graders. based on those results and without going into detail, I will share some information with you. In the area of math, 62% of our eighth grade students who took the math test in 1996 passed the test at 80% correct. The state had a cut-off of 70% and we had 83% of our students pass the test at that level. We're extremely pleased with the results of that test. In 1997, 72% of our children passed the test at 80%.

Again, we are extremely pleased with the results of these tests and, in comparison to how other students are doing across the State of Minnesota, we found our students are doing very well. As a matter of fact, 14% more students in School District #564 are passing the test than the state average. This is a significantly higher number of students and a higher percentage of our students passing the test than at the state level.

In reading, however, we have another story. We have less than 50% of our students passing the test at the 80% level. We believe we do have some work to do in the area of reading. This is not to say that we are not doing a very commendable job—we believe we are doing an excellent job with our students. But we need to take a look at the whole reading program and to improve and significantly increase the number of students who are passing the reading test. It is not unrealistic to expect students to pass the reading test at the same percentage as they do in the area of math. Moreover, we feel that we cannot be complacent regarding our math program and we need to continually strive for improvement in that area as well.

The second area I'd like to address is that I am in the process of developing goals for our school district. We need to set a direction for our school and continue our pursuit of excellence. What I'm going to do is list goals that are tentatively being established for the district. I would like for you to consider these and give me any feedback you might have. These goals are taken directly from our Strategic Plan which was approved by the School Board in 1994.

(1) To create a Thief River Falls Partnership Center for Learning—The intent here is to create an environment within our community—not just within our school systems, but within our community —where learning is the highest priority.

(2) To expand the technology network to include community access and utilization, instructional use, information resources, communications link and management tool—Technology is becoming a vehicle by which most of our information is going to be received and will be used to enhance learning. It is our intent to involve the community and to participate with the community as it relates to expanding use of technology.

(3) To develop a quality learning system—This is intended to say that learning is, in fact, provided through a quality process. It is created and provided in a safe, nurturing environment for all students and all adults who interact in our school system. We want to make sure that we are improving communication between home and school and imbed values into education and civility into the curriculum.

(4) To develop a human resource program—We want to hire the best qualified, knowledgeable and enthusiastic staff and establish employment standards for all individuals in our district.

(5) To develop an efficient process for fiscal resource allocation—We want to make sure that we are allocating our resources to continue to get the best educational program and system we can.

At this point, these are just draft goals. We'll be discussing these at future community forums. I invite citizens of School District #564 to give me a call or drop me a note regarding other areas you think we should focus on.

My first six months in this position have been very rewarding and, through my involvement in the community, I continue to reaffirm the quality we have. However, we must make this system better. The way we do that is by asking for your participation, your input and your thoughts regarding how we can give students in our educational program the quality they deserve and provide them with the skills necessary to become productive citizens. In subsequent articles I will be sharing with you more on the development of these goals.

Spring and warmth are finally here. This winter was but one where positive human character was reestablished.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

Invaded by Cats

If you have walked past my house the past week, you will see I have cats in my windows. They are visiting. It's been a while since I had a cat in the house, and now I have two of them living with me since the flood. It takes some getting used to.

My dog doesn't seem to mind the kitty invasion. Once he got his nose clipped a little, he decided that the cats weren't something to be played with and figured as long as they didn't interfere with his food dish, he would leave them alone. Since the cats prefer their kitty food to his dog food, peace reigns in the house - most of the time.

The cats are very different from one another. One of them is an outdoor cat and came with the house my daughter and son-in-law bought. They agreed that she could live there with them, coming inside whenever she wished, and they would feed her and see that she got her shots. She only wishes to come inside on the coldest days of winter. Otherwise they set her food and water outside and she is perfectly content to live out there. In fact, she shrieks and claws the door when she has had enough of indoor living.

Her name is Tiger. They were told she would answer to two names, one was Tiger and the other was Fluffy. They chose to call her Tiger because Fluffy was just too - fluffy, I guess.

My cousin says Tiger is the most "mismatched" cat she has ever seen. The cat is a mixture of black and grey splotches, with some white and orange thrown in to make the mixture interesting. She is very furry - fluffy, if I dare say the word - but her furry coat is filled with mats that she pulls out when she gets the urge to groom herself. They lie around the house like little dead birds or mice. Needless to say, it is very difficult to try to brush the mats out of her fur because she doesn't like other people doing her grooming for her.

She isn't the wild cat you think she would be. Actually, she is very gentle and quiet. She sleeps a lot - mostly on my bed. When she sleeps on the floor she just collapses into a flat mass of fur - like a rug - and she doesn't move when someone walks near her. I have nearly stepped on her several times because she blends into my dark green carpet so well that I don't notice she is there. I don't think she would mind if I did step on her, but I turn on the lights when I walk up and down the stairs because I would be the one to break something if I stepped on a cat in the stairway.

The other cat I have visiting me is Moochie. Moochie is a black and white cat and she is not such a lazy cat as Tiger and she is very well-groomed (probably because she has short hair). Even though she is hardly ever outside, she loves to stalk around the house, pretending to be a hunter. No matter how small the bug, Moochie will see it and watch it and wait, hoping that it will come near enough to grab.

Moochie likes to devil the dog. She stalks in front of him, waving her tail in his face as if to say, "See me, here I am, and I am the Queen!" The dog is not impressed. He would like to bite that waving tail, but he doesn't. Tiger doesn't ever bother with the dog. She just pretends he doesn't exist.

Moochie is also a noisy cat. She makes a funny little "burring" sound to announce that she is doing something cute, such as when she jumps up or down off of something, or prances particularly pretty, or wants food, or is upset with someone. She rarely sleeps during the day because she is too busy watching things out the window and getting into mischief all over the house. She likes to climb on things and knock them down from tables and shelves. She eats pins (well, pulls them out and chews on them) if I don't hide my pincushions. She is a mischief-maker.

Oddly, the cats seem to have changed places at my house. The one who is the indoor cat has been outside a few times on a leash. She now wants to go outside all the time. The outdoor cat appears to have no desire to go outdoors. Once in a while she will jump up into an open window and peruse the neighborhood. Evidently I don't have anything interesting in my neighborhood, because she seems perfectly content to flop herself down on my bed again and sleep all day.

The dog appears befuddled by this feline invasion. He desperately tries to hold on to his few remaining strongholds - the end of the sofa, his bed, and his food dish. He sleeps with one eye open, watching for cats. He tries to make friends with the cats, but is rejected every time. Sometimes he does a little devilment himself, like snatching a tissue from the garbage and chewing it into little pieces, or jumping into any available lap, just because he needs to show that it is still his house, after all, despite the fact that it has been invaded by cats.

Wheat Growers like CRP plan

A special bill to give eligible grain farmers an option to enroll in a one-year Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) has been given strong endorsement by the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG). The bill was introduced by Chairman Bob Smith of the U.S. House Agriculture committee.

"Wheat growers have been seeking legislation like this for months," states Phil McLain, NAWG president "and we're glad to see the bill moving. If enacted, it will give wheat producers currently enrolled in the CRP a fair shot at participating in the new program."

Sign-up for the CRP program ended on March 28, but the agriculture department is not expected to be able to notify farmers if their offers to be in the program were accepted until mid-June. This delayed notification will make it impossible for many grain growers currently in the CRP to produce a 1998 crop, since it will be too late to prepare their land if their re-enrollment offers are rejected, McLain said.

Without the legislation, wheat growers must be willing to either plant next year's crop on CRP ground at risk while they wait for USDA's decision on whether their bids have been accepted, or return land to production that would have qualified for reenrollment.

The bill would give farmers with an expiring CRP contract who had offered to put land back into the reserve an option to participate in a one-year program. If USDA later notifies them that their 10-year contract bid has been accepted, the one-year contract would be replaced by the long-term contract. Rental payments would be the smaller of the maximum county rental rate or the grower's CRP offer.

United Hospital, G.F. Clinic staff needed

Individuals residing in the Crookston area who are employees of United Hospital, Grand Forks Clinic or UND Family Practice Center, all in Grand Forks, and are interested in working temporarily at Riverview Healthcare or Northwestern Clinic in Crookston are asked to call the Human Resources department at Riverview. Erica Haglund works on finishing touches on her paper dragon creation in the art room at Lincoln high school. It will be one of a number of projects on display during an "Afternoon with the Arts" at Lincoln Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Some of the participants in the original drama "Self-Portraits: Reflections of Who We Are" are pictured during a rehearsal for the production scheduled for Sunday, May 4, at Lincoln high school auditorium. The presentation will be part of an "Afternoon with the Arts" planned for 1 to 5 p.m.

Wheat Growers like CRP plan

A special bill to give eligible grain farmers an option to enroll in a one-year Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) has been given strong endorsement by the National Association of Wheat Growers (NAWG). The bill was introduced by Chairman Bob Smith of the U.S. House Agriculture committee.

"Wheat growers have been seeking legislation like this for months," states Phil McLain, NAWG president, "and we're glad to see the bill moving. If enacted, it will give wheat producers currently enrolled in the CRP a fair shot at participating in the new program."

Sign-up for the CRP program ended on March 28, but the agriculture department is not expected to be able to notify farmers if their offers to be in the program were accepted until mid-June. This delayed notification will make it impossible for many grain growers currently in the CRP to produce a 1998 crop, since it will be too late to prepare their land if their re-enrollment offers are rejected, McLain said.

Without the legislation, wheat growers must be willing to either plant next year's crop on CRP ground at risk while they wait for USDA's decision on whether their bids have been accepted, or return land to production that would have qualified for reenrollment.

The bill would give farmers with an expiring CRP contract who had offered to put land back into the reserve an option to participate in a one-year program. If USDA later notifies them that their 10-year contract bid has been accepted, the one-year contract would be replaced by the long-term contract. Rental payments would be the smaller of the maximum county rental rate or the grower's CRP offer.

Clinic expands in Crookston

As a result of the recent flooding in Grand Forks, ND, the closures of United Hospital and Grand Forks Clinic have brought about the expansion of services at Northwestern Clinic in Crookston. Northwestern Clinic, a branch of Grand Forks Clinic, is expanding its complement of doctors and the hours they will be treating patients. They will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Grand Forks Clinic medical specialists who have begun practicing at Northwestern Clinic in Crookston include orthopedic surgeon Dr. Robert Clayburgh, oncologist Dr. Christian Dehranin, pediatricians Dr. William Bock and Dr. Eric Lunn, and obstetrician/gynecologist Dr. Eric Reinertson. Appointments can be made with these doctors, as well as the medical staff routinely at Northwestern Clinic by calling 218-281-9100.

Dr. Leslie Soine, a radiologist with Grand Forks Clinic, will be practicing in Crookston serving the radiology needs of both Northwestern Clinic and Riverview Hospital.

Physical medicine/rehabilitation specialist Dr. Genaro Tiongson, who is affiliated with the Rehab Hospital in Grand Forks, will be practicing out of the Rehabilitation Department at Riverview Hospital in Crookston. Appointments can be made with Dr. Tiongson by calling that department at 218-281-9463. Psychiatrist Dr. Jacob Kerbeshian, an independent physician from Grand Forks, will also be available in Crookston.

Other Grand Forks-based doctors who will be seeing patients at Northwestern Clinic in Crookston include family practicioner Dr. Tom Carveau, associate director of the UND Family Practice Center in Grand Forks, and family practice resident Dr. Ken Sullivan.

Additional physician specialists may be transferred to Northwestern Clinic in the near future but specific specialities have not yet been determined. Efforts are also being made to access Grand Forks Clinic's medical records information system, but as yet they are not available in Crookston.

In terms of hospital services, Riverview Hospital is making arrangements to expand numbers of staff, equipment and supplies to meet the needs of the additional doctors who will be temporarily practicing in Crookston. Anyone needing medical attention should call Northwestern Clinic at 218-281-9100.

Packets of 12 seedlings offered by environmental education committee

Agassiz Environmental Education Committee is offering a packet of 12 trees and shrubs especially selected to attract wildlife and add color to the landscape. Each packet includes three each of four different species: hackberry, paper birch, buffaloberry and Russian almond.

The seedlings are bare root stock, packed in moist cedar shavings and wrapped with plastic. They can easily be transported in the trunk or back seat of a car.

The prepaid tree packets may be picked up Saturday, May 10, at any one of five northwestern Minnesota sites: Old Mill State Park east of Argyle; horticulture department of the University of Minnesota-Crookston; Bud and Betty Johnson farm near Roseau; Maggie Anderson residence, Thief River Falls; and from Gretchen Mehmel, Williams.

Assistance and information about the trees and shrubs will be available at each site. The tree packets are being offered for $15 by the Agassiz Environmental Education Committee.

The 14th annual tree seedling sale will help fund environmental education programming in Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Pennington, Norman, Polk, Marshall and Roseau counties.

Since 1984 about 39,000 seedlings have been distributed through this annual spring tree and shrub sale. Checks for $15 per packet should be made payable to Agassiz Audubon and mailed to Tom Feiro, 817 Sampson Street, Crookston, MN 56716.

Orders should indicate which pick-up site is preferred. A confirmation notice and directions to the chosen site will be sent. A limited supply of packets is available on a first come, first served basis.

Hasselmo, Eaton visit flood areas

University of Minnesota President Nils Hasselmo, Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) Chancellor Judith Eaton, MnSCU Chancellor-designate Morrie Anderson and legislative leaders visited flood-damaged higher education sites in Northwest Minnesota on Friday, April 25, to thank volunteers, to assess needs of flood victims at the institutions and to encourage students who have dropped out to come back and reassuring employees who had to miss work.

Several hundred students with home bases in the flooded sections of North Dakota and Minnesota have had their classes disrupted since the flooding started; one purpose of Friday's visits is to encourage those students to finish out the school year and inform them of the help that is available for alternate housing, computer replacement and other special financial assistance.

Sites visited included Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls, the University of Minnesota-Crookston (UMC), Moorhead State University and the Grand Forks/East Grand Forks area.

Legislative leaders taking part included State Senate Majority Leader Roger Moe, Sen. LeRoy Stumpf and Rep. Tim Finseth. Officials of the affected institutions were also be there to answer questions.

The legislators and education leaders toured the evacuee area at Northland Community and Technical College and were expected to conduct a news conference after that. (The event had not been concluded as of printing of this edition of the Northern Watch.) Following the news conference at 12:15 p.m. they were expected to travel to the Grand Forks airport terminal to conduct a news conference, then tour a flood support center at the University of Minnesota at Crookston and then conduct a news conference there and at Moorhead State University.

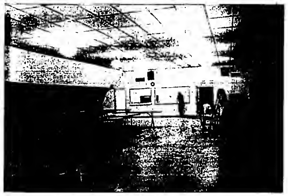
Volunteers from the Goodridge Lions Club recently completed a remodeling project at the Goodridge hall. Marlin Kotrba, who worked nearly full-time on the project for a couple of months, is shown fitting a base for a divider in one of the handicapped accessible restrooms.



Interior of the Goodridge hall is newly refurbished with an enlarged and equipped kitchen, new suspended ceiling, painted and refinished walls, heating and speaker systems and handicapped accessible restrooms. The ongoing project of the Lions, Lioness and Jaycee organizations has cost about $20,000, but with expert scavenging, a lot of patience and untold hours of volunteer labor, the work was accomplished "without borrowing a dime!"

"We seem to be able to find ways of making money without spending money," Dragsteit added. "A grain trucker hauls our smelt back from the Duluth area. Most of our 58 Lions club members volunteer in one or more areas during the auction and smelt fry."

Lions, Lioness and Jaycee members are justifiably proud of their refurbished hall which they expect to be used frequently for teen dances and wedding dances, suppers, auction sales and other community events, including the Lions' Christmas tree sales.

And one recurrent theme runs through all of the members' comments about the project:

"We never borrowed a dime!"

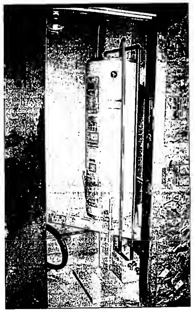
University of Minnesota, Crookston, the Northwest Experiment Station the Minnesota Extension Service, and the full range of the resources of the University of Minnesota must and will be available as active partners in the rebuilding efforts. Our UMC colleagues have set a shining example of community service, an inspiring example to all of us."

There were several announcements made regarding students and faculty. The following is a list of those announcements:

- All Northwest Technical College students from the East Grand Forks Campus should register with the College at 1-800-492-4836.
- All NTC-EGF faculty should check in right away (1-800-492-4836).
- NCTC-EGF faculty were asked to meet on the Moorhead Campus of NTC on Tuesday, April 29, at 11 a.m. to provide faculty with assistance and services, vehicles, cellular phones, direct cash assistance, laptops, and work together to refine and complete planning.
- Northwest Technical College is planning on opening and maintaining a campus on each side of the Red River until the bridge is usable (Grand Forks Air Base, and University of Minnesota at Crookston).
- Students are asked to attend a planning session on Thursday, May 1 at 10 a.m. at the Grand Forks Air Base or the University of Minnesota at Crookston. Faculty and/or staff will meet with students and work out a schedule for the remainder of the quarter. The following services will also be available: support services, financial aid counseling, and a FEMA representative.
- Students staying near one of NTC's campuses or near another state institution offering the same program may complete their program on that campus. Please visit the local campus for information.
- Donations to assist NTC faculty staff and students may be sent to NTC Flood Relief, 1103 Roosevelt Rd SE, Bemidji, MN 56601.



An appreciated addition to the Goodridge hall is the new water heater. It is elevated and equipped with two faucets to allow it to self drain and be protected from freezing.

Retrieved from outdoors where it had been dumped 10 years or more before, this portion of a bar from Hans Rod's Cafe in Goodridge many years ago has been refurbished and is now located in the restored Goodridge hall.

Gov. Carlson urges flood area caution

Governor Arne Carlson is urging Minnesotans to exercise caution in the flood-stricken areas of the state when driving, preparing for floods and during clean up efforts.

Commissioner James Denn of the Minnesota Department of Transportation asks motorists to exercise extreme caution on the roadways. "Water covered roadways can be dangerous. Motorists cannot determine who deep the water is, how rapidly it is moving and the condition of the roadway. The road could be washed away."

Denn also asked people to watch out for maintenance workers as the clean up begins.

Commissioner Don Davis of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety said, "As people return to their homes, we ask them to check on the status of electrical and gas lines to assure they are safe. Sometimes this will mean waiting a little longer before going in to begin clean up." Clean up kits will be made available through the American Red Cross.

Sturgeon fishing contest memorializes D. Jenson

Family and friends of Darren Jenson, who was killed in an automobile accident Sept. 14, 1996, at the age of 24, are organizing a sturgeon fishing contest Saturday, May 3, in his memory. The contest will take place at the mouth of the Littlefork River on highways 11 and 71, 11 miles west of International Falls.

Darren's father, Maynard Jenson of Thief River Falls, said his son was an avid outdoorsman and one of his happiest days was May 3, 1996 when he caught a sturgeon weighing more than 70 pounds while fishing at the mouth of the Littlefork River with his father, brothers and friends.

His friends and family say they wish to remember him as he was in his happiest days, so they have arranged the fishing contest. All of the ticket sale proceeds will be paid out in prize money—50 percent for the longest sturgeon caught, 30 percent for the second longest and 20 percent for the third longest.

Entrants purchasing the $5 tickets may fish from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. with prizes to be awarded at 7 p.m. If fewer than three sturgeon are caught, prize money will be distributed in a drawing from among tickets sold. In addition, hundreds of dollars worth of merchandise prizes will be awarded by drawing and a pig roast will be conducted for all.

Thief River Falls' Amanda Hruby crossed the plate as she scored a second-inning run on a Moorhead throwing error during Monday's high school softball game played at the Pennington County fairgrounds diamond. Moorhead catcher Amber Valan picked up the late throw while Spuds coach Karen Schumacher and Thief River Falls batter Heather Torstveit watched the action.

Spuds handle Prowlers

Moorhead started and finished with a bang Monday in a 12-2 five-inning high school softball win over Thief River Falls.

The Spuds scored on a pair of wild pitches and a passed ball during a five run first inning, then capitalized on a pair of Thief River Falls errors during a game closing four-run fifth.

"We played really good ball in the second, third and fourth innings," explained Thief River Falls coach Ken Fletcher, "but we got off to a shaky start, and they got away from us in the fifth inning."

It was the 1997 home opener for the 0-3 Prowlers. It was also the start of a busy week that also included a Tuesday doubleheader vs Crookston, a Thursday game at Roseau, a Friday contest at home against Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, and the Prowlers Invitational Saturday.

Warroad, Crookston, Marshall County Central/Tri-County, Red Lake County Central, Roseau, Kittson Central, and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart are scheduled to join Thief River Falls in the Saturday event that begins at 9 a.m.

Pioneers involved in close softball games

Close, low-scoring games were the norm Saturday as Northland Community and Technical College competed in a quadrangular softball outing hosted by Central Lakes.

The Pioneers lost to the home team Raiders 3-1, beat North Hennepin 5-4 and fell to Fergus Falls 5-3. All games were scheduled as five-inning affairs, with a one-hour time limit.

Northland is 5-8 overall, 3-3 in the Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division. Central Lakes and North Hennepin are MCCC Southern Division members. Fergus Falls is one the Pioneers' Northern Division rivals.

"There is a lot of parity in the league, both in the north and the south, this year," pointed out Northland coach Rick Nikunen.

The Pioneers turned in three solid games, noted Nikunen, but a few defensive lapses proved costly. The four runs they gave up to North Hennepin and the five scored by Fergus Falls were all unearned.

"All season, our errors have come at the worst possible times and have really hurt us," explained Nikunen.

With Carisa Meyer, half of the Pioneers' pitching combination, sidelined by a sore arm, Angie Vagle did all the Northland throwing during the day.

Hibbing sweeps Northland

Hibbing knocked Northland out of the NJCAA Region 13 playoff picture Saturday with a 5-2, 15-14 Minnesota Community College Conference baseball sweep on the Cardinals' diamond.

The Pioneers would have advanced to the mid-season regional playoffs with a pair of wins, but instead fell to 4-4 in the MCCC, while 6-2 Itasca and 5-3 Vermilion emerged as the Northern Division Region 13 qualifiers.

Northland carried a 2-0 lead into the fifth inning in Game 1 before two Hibbing home runs put the Cardinals ahead 3-2.

"We had chances to score, but we just didn't get that hit we needed," pointed out Northland coach Terry Wiseth.

The nightcap was more wide open. "It was a messy game," noted Wiseth. "The top of the line-up did a good job, but we got no support from the bottom. We couldn't sustain anything."

Northland's 1-through-5 hitters scored 11 of the Pioneers' 14 runs and had 11 of of the team's 13 hits.

The losses dropped the Pioneers to 6-10 overall.

Track teams return to action

First place finishes in the girls' portion of the meet by Becky Mooney and Rachel Mathson led Thief River Falls efforts Friday at the Moorhead Athletic Association Invitational high school track meet.

Mooney, a junior, won both the 800 and 1600-meter runs. Mathson, a freshman, won the 400.

Held at Concordia College, the meet was the first outdoor competition of the season for the Prowlers, and their first outing this month. After opening the year with indoor meets at Bemidji State University and Concordia College March 22 and 27, respectively, Thief River Falls was weathered out of five successive outdoor meets.

Senior Kyle Nelson led the Thief River Falls boys with a second place finish in the 400.

"We had some good runs," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "We had some excellent times. Rachel and Kyle both had great times in the 400."

Alexandria boys won team honors with 153 points, followed by Fargo South with 132, Moorhead 104, Grand Forks Red River 56, Fergus Falls 34, Grand Forks Central 18 1/2, Thief River Falls 17, and West Fargo 9 1/2.

Moorhead and Fargo South shared the girls title with 114 points each, followed by Alexandria with 90, Grand Forks Red River 78, Thief River Falls 49, Fargo North 39, Fergus Falls 31, and West Fargo 11.

Six-inning Friday game won by Bemidji . . .

Lumberjacks beat TRF baseball team by 12-2

Bemidji scored early and often Friday in a 12-2 high school baseball win over visiting Thief River Falls.

The Lumberjacks, after spotting the Prowlers a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning, came up with four runs in the bottom of the first and scored six more times in the second en route to the 10-run rule victory.

"We had way too many walks (9) and too many errors (3)," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Charlie Cornell. "Those kind of numbers generally add up to a five-inning game."

Bemidji was coming off an 8-7 extra-inning win over highly regarded Detroit Lakes the previous day. Three Thief River Falls regulars missed the game for various reasons.

First inning trouble costs TRF ball club

Thief River Falls had trouble getting an out in the first inning Monday, falling behind 6-0 and eventually losing a rain-soaked 12-4 high school baseball game to Roseau at Irv Wilson Field. The Prowlers' water-logged 1997 home debut was called after 5 1/2 innings when the rain, gusty winds and scoreboard spread produced a mutual decision to wrap things up early.

Roseau sent 11 batters to the plate in the top of the first inning when three hits, two walks, two errors, and a hit-batsman added up to a half-dozen runs.

Thief River Falls tried to bounce back from its shaky start by chopping the difference to 6-4 on two first inning runs and a two-run second inning double into the left-center field gap by Jeremy Swanson.

But Roseau, after a pair of walks, an infield ground-out and a run-scoring wild pitch made it 7-4 in the third, broke it open again with a four-run fourth. It all started with a two-out, solo home run by Eric Lins, and included an RBI single by Jamie Simmons and a bloop two-run double by Eric Hallie.

A sixth inning single to left by Mark Fabian drove in the final run of the game.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 0-4.

TRF track teams in action Monday...

Mooney, Kopari lead Prowlers

Personnel losses due to the senior banquet cost the Thief River Falls boys, but didn't slow down the girls Monday as the Prowlers competed in the Crookston VFW Invitational high school track meet.

The boys wound up with just 26 points and finished seventh in a field of 10 teams. The girls, however, collected 87 points and placed fourth.

"We had some good performances," reported Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "We had good times and good throws. The kids did a nice job. It was a good meet for us."

The meet was originally scheduled to be held at the University of North Dakota, but the flooding in Grand Forks forced a switch in sites to Park Rapids.

Becky Mooney and Nicole Kopari were both double event winners for the Thief River Falls girls. Mooney won the 800 and 1600 meter runs. Kopari won the discus and the shot put – breaking her own school record in the shot with a throw of 38-2.

Rachel Mathson also supplied the Prowlers with another first place finish with a victory in the 400.

In the boys competition, Park Rapids Area collected 203 points, Tri-County 100, Crookston 97, Marshall County South 79, Grygla-Gatzke 50, Roseau 42, Thief River Falls 26, Win-E-Mac 20, Red Lake County Central 17, and Marshall County Central 11.

Crookston girls won team honors with 179 points, followed by Park Rapids Area with 126, Roseau 95 1/2, Thief River Falls 87, Tri-County 61, Win-E-Mac 37, Red Lake County Central 28, Marshall County South 18 1/2, Marshall County Central 11, and Grygla-Gatzke 0.

Pioneers, Cobbers wind up with split in Monday twinbill

Gary Hill threw a one-hitter as the Northland Community and Technical College baseball team shut out the Concordia College junior varsity 5-0 in the first game of a Monday nonconference doubleheader played in Thief River Falls.

The Cobbers won the nightcap 14-3 when five Northland pitchers issued 14 walks.

Hill, who walked four and struck out six, carried a no-hitter into the seventh, but gave up a lead-off single.

Northland had a 3-0 lead in Game 2 before Concordia turned eight fourth inning walks into an 8-3 lead.

The split leaves Northland at 7 and 11 for the year. The Pioneers host Vermilion Saturday in a double-header starting at 1 p.m. on the Northland diamond.

Bear Hunt Applications

Applications for the 1997 Minnesota black bear hunting season were made available April 1 from licensed agents throughout the state. Applications for the computerized drawing will be accepted through May 2. There are 11,370 permits available in 11 quota areas. The 1997 bear season will run from Sept. 1 to Oct. 12.

Application forms are available from license vendors throughout the state. Hunters may apply in parties of up to four individuals. All hunters in a party must apply on the same form. Each hunter who entered the 1995 lottery has been sent a pre-printed label for use on the application forms. Hunters are encouraged to use the labels to help reduce errors and processing costs. Due to a printing error, permit area 51 is not listed at the top of the application form. Hunters interested in this permit area should write-in and circle "51" on the form.

There is no application fee. Bear licenses cost $35 for residents and $166 for nonresidents but hunters should not send money with their applications. Successful applicants will be notified by May 30 to submit the appropriate fees to receive a license. The bear permit drawing is based on a preference system similar to the system used for antlerless deer permits and turkey permits. Hunters receive preference for each year that they apply but do not receive a permit. Permits are drawn first for those applicants who have the highest preference.

All applicants who have reached their 18th birthday by May 3 must provide a driver's license number, Minnesota Public Safety ID number, or a 13-digit firearms safety certificate number to apply for the drawing. Those applicants under age 18 who do not supply one of those numbers will have a number assigned and will be automatically entered into the drawing. Applicants must be at least 12 years of age prior to Sept. 1 to apply.

Portions of the bear range in east-central and northwest Minnesota will be open to an unlimited number of hunters. Licenses for this no-quota area will be available after July 1 at county auditor offices, and at license vendors in Pine, Kanabec, Chisago, Isanti, Mille Lacs, Roseau and Marshall counties. Hunters may purchase only one bear license per-year.

In 1996, there were approximately 30,000 applicants for 12,030 quota area licenses.

Flooding creates partnership of education, nursing

by Ginger Kaufman
Director of Marketing
Northland Community and Technical College

An unusual and possibly the first partnership of its kind in Thief River Falls has resulted because of the flooding in Grand Forks, ND and East Grand Forks. It's the partnership of education and nursing care as Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls became the temporary home of approximately 125 residents and 71 employees of the Good Samaritan Center and Apartments of East Grand Forks on Saturday, April 19.

According to Good Samaritan Center's administrator, Sandra Bentley, "this may be the first partnership ever of education and nursing care. What a unique and challenging situation partnering with Northland."

Bentley spoke to a group of Northland staff and faculty Sunday evening as well as representatives from Northwest Medical Center, Dakota Clinic, Minnesota Job Service/Workforce Center, the sheriff's department and Thief River Falls police department.

This partnership of education and nursing care has offered additional training sites for Northland Practical and Registered Nursing students. They have joined Good Samaritan Center nursing staff to work with the nursing home patients and residents. This will meet the requirements of their internship required to graduate.

Decisions Leading To New Guests' Arrival

The request for temporary housing was presented to Dr. Orley D. Gunderson, president of NCTC, early Friday afternoon, April 18, to become a possible site for the center and its residents and staff. Northland staff and faculty were assembled at 2 p.m. to inform them of the possibility.

President Gunderson was informed of the decision to evacuate the Good Samaritan Center and Apartments in East Grand Forks at approximately 7:20 p.m. The evacuation plan was activated and seven National Guard trucks and several Thief River Falls school district vehicles were loaded with equipment, supplies, mattresses and other items at the Good Samaritan Center in East Grand Forks. The loaded trucks departed for Thief River Falls at 11 p.m.

Volunteers from Thief River Falls quickly turned the college gymnasium into a large bedroom with rows of cots, bedding and other essentials. The first three Thief River Falls school busses began loading residents and staff at 11:30 p.m. with the last bus leaving East Grand Forks at 1 a.m. Saturday.

At Northland college, volunteers helped to unload the last busses and assist Good Samaritan Center staff to move residents, many in wheelchairs, to their temporary home. All residents were tucked into their beds by 4 a.m.

A call for volunteers to assist with getting the residents up and ready for breakfast was announced on the radio and quickly the campus filled with caring community members and college employees. Organization and leadership were the first issues addressed as volunteers kept pouring in. A volunteer center was set up in the student senate office and an information table was assembled to help direct traffic, answer questions and assist the nursing home staff, volunteers and visitors.

Soon donations began pouring in and calls from people wanting to volunteer time, energy and homes. The phones rang non-stop with concerned relatives and friends trying to locate their missing relatives and to get messages to nursing home staff and residents.

The administration and nursing staff from Good Samaritan demonstrated the caring attitude, dedication and advocacy to their profession as they quickly turned the makeshift areas into an atmosphere of comfort for nursing home residents. Many of the staff had left behind flooding areas, not knowing what happened to their family members, friends and homes.

President Gunderson expressed his appreciation to the community, the volunteers and the faculty, staff and employees of Northland who pulled together to help in this disaster.

Students Affected By Northland's Guests

Life for students, faculty and staff has taken on an added dimension at Northland as students returned to classes on Tuesday, April 22. Classes were canceled for Monday to allow time for faculty and staffs to set up alternative sites for areas that were unavailable to students due to nursing home use.

Tuesday, Northland students were greeted at each entrance by an NCTC employee and given an information sheet that included a map of restricted area. Most students are understanding of this temporary situation, but some expressed concerns regarding access to cafeteria food and gathering place.

The gymnasium, which the previous week accommodated students in athletics and class activities, has been restructured to provide a dorm-style setting with makeshift walls and room dividers to function as rooms for each resident. The men's and women's locker rooms, the training room and restroom now accommodate the needs of the residents.

Music can be heard in the theater lobby as various groups from high school and the community entertained the Northland guests. Conference chairs were replaced by mattresses and cots in rooms that were used for meetings and for students.

The student senate is now operating in the library conference room after surrendering its space for the volunteer center. Marketing and enrollment department was displaced to give office space for the nursing home administrator, directors and nursing staff. These Northland employees were moved to the student services area.

Biggest change that has impacted current students is the use of the college cafeteria. The students are no longer able to use this area for food and for studying. Instead, student lounges have been set up in the west and east ends of the campus. These areas include tables, food and beverage vending machines, microwave ovens, television and conversation. The cafeteria now overflows with seniors, Good Samaritan staff and volunteers playing cards, reading, watching television or having their meals there.

Northland would like to assure students that they will continue to receive quality education while attending Northland. Administration, faculty and staff are dedicated to your success and appreciate your understanding in the minor inconveniences you may find while our relocated flood guests are housed on this campus. Any concerns, comments or suggestions may be directed to the president's office.

Dr. Gunderson has stated that, "as a college, we plan to do everything possible to maintain the integrity and the mission and goals of Good Samaritan Center and to make every resource available to them during this emergency."

He went on to say that "we are committed to making sure that Good Samaritan Center's staff and patient needs are met. Our faculty and staff will continue to provide quality education to our students."

Floodwaters from the Thief River caused problems for this farmstead northeast of Thief River Falls during the past week. Flood waters spread out over many farms in the area of the Thief River below Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge.

Flood cleanup presents concerns

As many Minnesotans begin cleaning up flooded homes and offices, indoor air quality may appear to be the least of their problems. However, the American Lung Association of Minnesota warns that serious long-term health effects can be caused by micro-organisms that thrive in standing water, wet materials and high humidity. A flooded home can become a breeding ground for viruses, bacteria and mold. People with asthma or any lung disease are especially at risk.

Homes and buildings need to be dried out as quickly as possible. Standing water should be removed. Proper procedures should be taken to open up and dry out ceilings, walls and floors; otherwise, a musty odor, signifying microorganism growth, can remain long after the flood. If soaked items cannot be thoroughly cleaned and dried, they should be discarded, as they can remain a source of microbial growth. Fiberboard, fibrous insulation and disposable filters should be replaced if they become soaked. The drying process will take several weeks.

Walls, floors, closets, shelves and house contents should be thoroughly washed and disinfected. Air conditioning and heating ducts should be sanitized and disinfected. When using cleaning products, follow label directions carefully. Do not mix chlorine bleach with ammonia, as doing so would cause a toxic gas to form. Disinfectants contain toxic substances and should be used with fresh air from open windows and doors. If it is safe to use electricity and the home is dry, use fans before, during and after the cleaning process.

Do not use combustion devices such as gasoline-powered generators, camp stoves and lanterns or charcoal burning devices indoors. They can cause a rapid build-up of carbon monoxide that can be lethal at high levels.

Asbestos can contaminate the air if asbestos-containing materials in the home are disturbed.

If lead-based paint was used in the home, special precautions need to be taken if it is removed, as poisonous lead dust can contaminate the air.

Kevin and Sheila Tharaldson were among producers earning Quality Awards at the annual meeting of the Farmers Co-op Creamery Ass'n. of Goodridge. The awards went to dairy farmers whose herds maintained a bacteria count under 25,0000 and somatic cell count under 400,000 for all 12 months of 1996.

Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Farm implement stolen from Rollag April 20

Clay County Sheriff's office is currently investigating the theft of a farm implement from the Rollag Implement on Sunday, April 20. Rollag is located on State Highway 32 south and east of Hawley.

On the morning of April 20, 1997, at about 6:30 a.m. a vehicle was seen pulling a stolen farm implement, a new Landoll model 1200 rigid frame Soil Master II (9-shank/bottom) bright yellow in color with black lettering, north out of Rollag, on Highway 32.

Information indicates that the vehicle was seen in Twin Valley at about 8 a.m. that same morning.

The vehicle pulling the farm implement was described as an older pickup, possibly light blue or silver in color and was also described as dirty with rounded front fenders. It may be a late 50s or 60s model pickup. The driver was described as being a white male with facial hair.

Anyone with information can contact Sheriff Larry Costello or Det. Jeff Brown at 218-299-5151.

Power distribution plans implemented for City of EGF

East Grand Forks Water and Light Commission met April 25 and instructed its Superintendent of Distribution to proceed with a formula and plan to check electric services for safety and to restore power to the residents within the city of East Grand Forks.

The Minnesota Municipal Utilities Association is cooperating with the restoration and examination of the electrical services. The cities involved to date, are Thief River Falls, Moorhead, Wadena and Elk River.

The help and support of many electrical contracting firms has been enlisted to assist the city in the restoration of electricity to the homes as rapidly as possible.

The buildings with the highest priority will be public buildings which are needed to expand all operations of the city as they were provided to all residents in the past.

At the present time there are approximately 40 people checking on electric services and meters. Some of the services will be temporary to assist homeowners in a quicker access to their homes.

Security is being provided to the homes during this operation as well as periodic informational updates to residents. Homeowners are asked not to ask for exceptions to these procedures, as it will slow down the restoration to the city.

Crews are working seven days a week to get residents back in their homes.

Goodridge baccalaureate services scheduled May 21

Arden Hyland, 1974 GHS graduate, will be guest speaker

Arden Hyland, a 1974 graduate of Goodridge high school and coach of the successful Minnewaska Area high school girls basketball team, will be guest speaker for the community baccalaureate services at the Goodridge community center Wednesday, May 21, at 7:30 p.m.

Other participants in the service will be Rev. Bob Dahlen, Rev. Tim Lundeen, Rev. Bob LaPlante and Goodridge high school seniors Jenny Asp and Jenny Johnson.

Special music under the direction of Kristin Buckley will be performed by students attending Goodridge high school. "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Friends" will be performed by Windfall, a Goodridge high school female singing group. "Moderato and Allegro" will be performed by a saxophone trio comprised of Crystelle Johnsrud, Christy Nelson and Danelle Hyland and "The Lord's Prayer" will be sung by Penny Frederick and Jessica Vettleson. The Prelude will be performed by Jason Nelson and hymns will be accompanied by Melanie Mutnansky and Crystelle Johnsrud.

Arden Hyland received his BS degree in mathematics in 1980 from Moorhead State University and his Master's degree in 1992 from St. Cloud State University. He taught at Kasson-Mantorville, Vendale and Glenwood. For the past six years he has taught Algebra II, Trigonometry and Calculus at Minnewaska Area high school in Glenwood.

Hyland has been the girls varsity basketball coach at Minnewaska for the past six years. During this time his teams have compiled a record of 130 wins and 38 losses, won three sub-section championships and three section championships. This year his team defeated Roseau for the sectional championship and finished second in the State Class AA tournament.

Arden also coaches football at Minnewaska, moving up to the varsity level this past year. The football team was undefeated in 10 games before losing to Albany for the sectional championship.

Arden is married to Shelly Wisch, a 1978 graduate of Goodridge high school, and they have four children: Robbie, 14, Kiley, 13, Kasey, 11, and Derek, 9. He is active in community events and activities in Glenwood and said he is looking forward to talking with the 1997 graduates and others in his home community.

Everyone is invited to honor and congratulate the Goodridge high school seniors by attending the baccalaureate service. Lunch and fellowship will follow the service.

Arden Hyland, 1974 graduate of Goodridge high school and coach of the Minnewaska Area high school girls basketball team for the past six years, will be speaker for Goodridge high school baccalaureate services Wednesday, May 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the Goodridge community center. Hyland's teams have reached the state tournament three times, placing second in '97.

Snow, flooding and cold delay spring farming start

Field activities so far this year have been nil in many areas and minimal in the rest of the state as the harsh winter of 1996-97 proved at least as slow to release its hold as the previous winter, reports the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Adding to the difficulties this year versus last is the presence of major flooding plus snowbanks whose sheer size makes them slow to disappear, the service adds. The remainder if the release reads as follows:

The average date full-scale fieldwork is expected to begin in Minnesota is April 29. The Northwest District, which produces most of the state's spring wheat and barley and a large portion of the sugarbeets, potatoes, edible beans and other crops, will see a much later average start-up date.

Much of the cropland which lies within the valleys of the Red River and its tributaries has been inundated by floodwater as the record snowpack over northwestern Minnesota melts slowly. The latest Red River Valley plantings in living memory are likely (to occur) this year.

For fields now under water to be ready to plant will require time, first for natural drying to allow access, then more time for producers to restore flood-damaged soils. The flooding is a major catastrophe, causing evacuations of residents and livestock, damaging crop storages and halting road travel. It has disabled infrastructure of every kind, both in towns and in the countryside.

Areas of the state where the snow has melted and recent precipitation has been light have fields and temperatures favorable for planting of small grains. Through Sunday, April 20, three per cent of the oat crop in the state had been planted.

Spring field preparation for the corn and soybean crops has barely begun. Counties along the western edge of the state and south of the Red River Valley still have extremely wet topsoils, with some snow drifts and standing water in the fields.

Elsewhere across the southern half of the state, fields are generally firmer and drier than last year at this date, but unseasonably low soil temperatures are expected to hold back planting dates for these crops. Other crops, green peas and sugarbeets, which are usually among the first to be planted, have also been delayed. During the week, in the southwest, combines were active in some fields of 1996 corn left over the winter.

The actual commencement of full-scale field activities will depend upon weather conditions. Additional moisture could prolong flooding in river valleys and delay entry into fields elsewhere.

A serious issue in many areas is the condition of hayfields. In the Southwest District, there has been concern about suffocation of alfalfa by a winter-long covering of thick ice. More widespread damage to alfalfa stands may have been done by record early-April cold which followed a warm spell at the end of March, during which greening up and budding had started.

Angela Rud obtains degree

St. Cloud State University conducted winter commencement ceremonies February 28, 1997. A total of 466 students were graduated at the conclusion of winter quarter.

Angela Fay Rud of Thief River Falls obtained a master of science degree.

MDA advises farmers to protect storage for farm chemicals

Minnesota Department of Agriculture reminds everyone, and especially those in flooded areas, to protect the condition of agricultural chemicals in storage.

"Facilities took precautions ahead of the flood to protect their inventories and it is paying off," says MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson. "We know of only one facility where rising water got into bulk fertilizer and have no reports of flood-related damage to stored pesticides."

"Pesticides, fertilizer and other products made unstable by water or other causes retain hazardous characteristics," he added. "If you find damaged agricultural chemicals do not throw them into the trash or otherwise discard them. Treat damaged agricultural chemicals carefully to protect people and our environment from the hazards they pose."

Pesticides and fertilizer products particularly at risk from water damage are those stored in bags. Any damaged container should be repackaged or covered immediately to protect the contents. A double layer of heavy-duty plastic garbage bags effectively contains a 50-pound sack. Write the name of the product on the outside of the new container. Precautions like covering exposed skin and use of gloves and eyeglasses reduce exposure risk and are recommended for anyone handling agricultural chemicals.

Contact the Minnesota Duty Officer at 1-800-422-0798 if pesticides or fertilizers have been released into the environment.

Contact the county solid waste office or the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 90 West Plato Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107-2094 or at 1-800-657-3986 for information about disposal of damaged agricultural chemicals.

Gully Community News

Sanne Brovold

Ethel and daughter Darlene Rouland flew from Minneapolis to Baltimore, MD April 3 to attend the wedding of Aaron Rouland to Erin Spellard. Aaron is the son of Franklin and Mary Rouland of Crownville, MD. They spent a week there and also enjoyed sightseeing and visited Washington, D.C., Annapolis and Baltimore areas. Aaron is a 1994 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis and has recently completed Naval flight training. He will be into more training as a Naval fighter pilot in Florida. Ethel and Darlene flew back to Minneapolis and spent a couple of days with Darin and Mauri Melander before returning to their home in Gully.

Spring must be here - there seemed to be thousands of white swans in the rice paddies north of Gully.

It was good to see light up at Florence Berg's house again after it has been dark since the middle of last November. She didn't seem to mind missing out on our deep snow. She has caught up on a lot of visiting but she had hardly gotten home before she had orders for her home baked goods. She spent about a month with son Dick and Shirley at Monticello. She flew out to Oregon and stayed with daughter Carol and Bruce Johnston at Clatskan and had a chance to visit grandsons Shawn and Lori Vigoren and their two daughters Brittany and Alexis and Dwight Vigoren and also Vern and Patti Vigoren all of Rainier, OR. Carol and Florence spent a few days at Boardman, OR and visited Florence's sister, Amanda Vandeventer and her son Don and family. Don took them north to Othello, WA where they spent a day with Florence's brother Roy and Joan Ringstad and family. Bruce and Carol took Florence to see the ocean and Mount St. Helens, the mountain that erupted in 1982, but was still snow covered. On Easter Sunday Florence had a chance to attend the baptism for her great-granddaughter, Alexis Mackenzie, daughter of Shawn and Lori Vigoren. The little baby wore the dress that her great grandfather, Floyd Berg had worn for his baptism. In fact, several generations of babies have worn the heirloom dress including the Berg children Darlene, Carol and Dick, the grandchildren and now the great-grandchildren.

Visitors at the Irene Carlson home this week have been Doris and Richard Ware of Duluth, Petra Eck of Gonvick and Gladys Haugen also of Duluth. They were here to attend the funeral services for Elmer Enerson at the Vernes church of McIntosh on Saturday. Elmer died Tuesday April 15 at Greensview Nursing home at Bagley. Many learned to know Elmer as an agent and director for Kingtown Insurance. He is survived by his wife, Mabel and daughter Darlene Sollie, grandchildren and great grandchildren. Our sympathy to the Enerson family.

Wendt and Cathy Senger and Sarah Brovold visited at the Don and Marge Bolme home in Fosston. Marge has had surgery on her shoulder lately and was happy with company and get well wishes. We're hoping for a complete recovery soon.

Mrs. Jon Handy and Sara from Grand Forks, ND, Marion Handy from Fosston and Lyn Turenne from Thief River Falls visited with Effie Handy on Saturday.

We heard from Ed and Ayleen Erickson from Bellevue, WA with a gift for Nazareth church up in Hickory in memory of John Nelson. John and Ed lived on adjoining farms. It's more than 78 years ago since the Erickson family moved west in an older car with roads not so good across the mountains. It's good to know even being gone from here for so long, people like Ed still remember the little log church where his folks belonged and he was baptized.

101 Useful Things You Can Do With The Paper

Credit the Grand Forks Herald for a supreme effort in maintaining publication despite the flood and fire which did such tremendous damage to the company office and printing plant in downtown Grand Forks. Recent issues have been much reduced in number of pages from the ordinary, which is certainly understandable, and that reduces the accumulation of old papers around the house.

Recently the Minnesota Newspaper Association provided a list of 100 useful things you can do with the newspaper. With some modification, this is what the list includes:

(1) Cover your head when it rains.
(2) Line the bird cage.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

"Class Act" is a term that Lincoln high school band director Bruce Felt often uses to describe how he wishes his students to function. I can think of no better way to put into words how I feel about the Lincoln High School Wind Ensemble spring trip to Las Vegas.

As a chaperone, I spent six days with these 52 band students. The itinerary included two very long bus rides, numerous performances, a clinic session with Dr. Suzuki, band instructor at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, as well as musical shows, sight-seeing and other experiences too numerous to mention. Not once was I disappointed at the actions and decision making of these students!

Were they perfect? Of course not! But they were really great! They joked, they laughed, they messed up the bus floor, they were sometimes personally a bit unorganized, they were even pests sometimes, but they treated everyone, including one another, with respect and dignity.

Who is responsible for all this good stuff? First the students themselves. They took responsibility for their actions. They performed well at all times, both on and off the stage. They worked as a team. They were concerned about, and helped, each other. They didn't whine when they were tired or not feeling well. They didn't blame others when things didn't go according to their expectations. Again, they were a "Class Act."

Second: Parents. When we educators get your kids, their values are already set. They learned them from you. You taught them well! You can be proud of your kids. Your kids should be proud of you too!

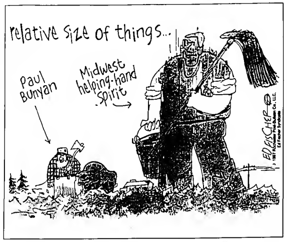
Third: All the teachers and other adults who have had a positive impact on their lives. Adults need to set good examples for our youth. Our community can be proud of the fact that our young people have many adults in their lives who care, help them set goals and assist them in molding their lives.

Fourth: Director Mr. Bruce Felt. He is the hub of the wheel that envisions, plans and works incredibly hard to insure the success of this group. He respects his students and they respect him! Again, a "Class Act."

Finally, I need to share the reason I find it so important to write this letter. I am not always motivated to pay compliments when they are due. If all of us would go out of our way to say, "good job," "terrific work," "you're great" and "thanks" when we see our fine young people in action, our school would be even better and our community would be an even greater place to live.

It is so easy to be negative or say nothing. This is my way of saying "thanks" to the Wind Ensemble, my students, and all of our young citizens who do fine work every day!!!

Sincerely,
Mike Lehrer, band instructor
Franklin Middle School



LETTERS

To The Editor:

On behalf of myself and family, who were evacuated from the city of Grand Forks and temporarily residing at the C'mon Inn in Thief River Falls, I would like to thank the compassionate people, churches and businesses for their support and helpfulness during this difficult time.

Special recognition should be extended to Carol Nieland, Arctic Cat Inc., Challenger school and students, Grandma Neva Appel and other anonymous friends who donated birthday cake, cards, gifts and efforts to make sure my son, who turned six on April 25th, had a very special birthday and party to celebrate with gifts.

In addition, thank you Wendy and the entire crew at the C'mon Inn for doing a wonderful job providing for a very hospitable atmosphere to live, and their many efforts to accommodate every special need, including making it possible to give my son a place for a party with all the trimmings.

Thanks again. My son's day was extra special! Thank you again to a community that will always have a special place in our hearts!!

Sincerely,
Julie Nordsven

Jared J. Sunsdahl, a senior at Goodridge high school, has joined the United States Army under the delayed entry program and will report to Fort Leonard Wood, Waynesville, MO, for military basic training June 4.

Jared is the son of Gerald L. Sunsdahl of rural Goodridge and Christie Meek of rural Warroad. The delayed enlistment program gives young men or women the opportunity to delay enlistment into the army for up to one year before reporting to basic military training.

The Northwestern Bell Telephone company, serving this and adjoining states, was reported this past week as having offered a pay increase of $2.50 per week to the N. W. Purchase Of Bicycle And Dog Licenses Is Lagging

"With dog licenses due April 1, only 65 licenses had been purchased up to the first of the week, compared to 209 issued last year, it was announced by W. K. Knight, who has his headquarters in the assessor's office in the basement of the auditorium. He added that the purchase of bicycle licenses is also lagging, only 157 having been issued to date compared to a total of 460 last year."

The draglines and backhoes may range from 3/4 cubic yards and larger and must be equipped with a boom, bucket and counter weights appropriately matched for the type of machine. All equipment must be equipped with a servis recorder.

The works to be done consist of but is not limited to the clearing and disposal of trees and brush and the removal of sediment from drainage channels, disposal of rocks and the leveling of spoilbanks. The work required and the locations of work will be designated by the engineer of the district.

The equipment must be modern and in good operating condition and furnished with capable and experienced operators. Deficient operations or maintenance which results in reduced production or poor workmanship will be cause for contract cancellation.

All equipment proposed will be considered and evaluated based on many factors including but not limited to the following: price, horsepower, machine rating, machine weight, track length, track width, track gauge, buckets available, boom lengths available and counter weights available.

Work will be paid by the hour and payment will be based on the time recorded on the Servis Recorder discs which must be turned over to the Engineer. Payments will be made on a monthly basis. The minimum hours per week will be 40 unless delayed by weather or equipment operating problems.

In addition to the payment for hourly work, the contractor will be eligible for a demobilization payment. The amount will be equivalent to 5 hours rental rate for each type of equipment authorized for use by the Engineer.

Demobilization will be included in the last payment for hourly work satisfactorily completed.

The District may cancel the contract at any time without cause by paying the demobilization payment.

The contractor may cancel the contract at any time without cause but forfeits the demobilization payment.

The type of equipment best suited for this project is dependent on the weather and other unknown job conditions. The district intends to rent equipment which in its opinion, will perform the required work at the least cost. Its evaluation factors will depend on conditions expected and encountered which will likely change along the course of the work. The District will release and rent different equipment from time to time as it deems necessary to economically perform the required work.

The contractor, in making this proposal, promises to furnish the equipment listed for the prices shown subject to its availability. He does not promise to make or keep the equipment available to the district. He understands, however, the equipment availability may be a factor in the district's evaluation of equipment.

The contractor will be required to furnish certificates showing that he has workman's compensation insurance and liability insurance.

The Middle River-Snake River Watershed District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to award contracts to other than the apparent low bidder.

Dated at Warren, Minnesota this 21st day of April, 1997.

What Can Your Child Learn From You?

Kids May Be "Picking Up" More Than You Realize!

Children are very observant. They pick up the smallest details. And they watch closely so they can do things just as they saw them done.

While this is natural, it can create problems. Have your children ever observed you using alcohol or other drugs?

Talk to your children and explain that not everything you do is something they should do-at least not yet. Ask them how they feel about drug use and tell them how you feel, too.

This can be a delicate situation, especially if it appears you're telling your children to "do as I say, not as I do."

But if you approach them in a rational manner and listen to their point of view, you should be able to get your message across without putting them off.

By talking to your children instead of lecturing them, you will gain their respect and help them avoid the dangers of drug abuse.

Talk to your children. The message they need to hear is one only you can send.

Jennifer Vad to attend International contest

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

For Jennifer Vad of rural Goodridge, the 11 days beginning this Thursday should be among the most exciting and memorable of her young life. Along with teacher and advisor Patti Johnson, she will be attending the International Science and Engineering Fair in Louisville, KY.

Jennifer earned the right to attend the fair with a strong showing at the regional science fair held this year in Bemidji. She qualified for the regional event by winning at the Lincoln high school science fair in Thief River Falls.

Science fair competition for Jennifer is not a one shot deal. She has qualified for the regional science fair longer than there has been a Lincoln science fair, and her project has expanded and focused along with her experience in the program.

Through ninth grade Jennifer was a student in the Goodridge school system. Her parents, Lynn and Laurie Vad, live in the Goodridge school district just west of Highlanding. But when she wanted to get three years of German language to fulfill a requirement to attend the college of her choice, Lincoln became her only area option.

She enrolled at Lincoln under the state's open enrollment program as a sophomore in the fall of 1994. It was coincidental that her Goodridge school science teacher, Patti Johnson, took a teaching contract in Thief River Falls that same year, but the coincidence was fortuitous for both.

"Jenny had shown an interest in science projects in Goodridge," Mrs. Johnson said, "and it was probably just natural that the interest continued to develop in Thief River Falls. Lincoln hadn't had a science fair for quite a few years, and we worked to develop an interest among the students, the science faculty and the school district administration."

In 1994-95, Jennifer conducted her science fair project on results of the use of fertilizer in crop production by growing grain in pie plates. Purpose of the experiment was to check the value of fertilizer on growth and yield. With Mrs. Johnson's assistance, she participated in the regional science fair.

Pie Plates To Soil Plots

As a junior in 1995-96, Jennifer expanded her experiment from the laboratory pie plates to 20x20-foot plots on the Vad farm. Three of the plots were used—one of which was left unfertilized, one fertilized at the recommended rate according to soil test, and one fertilized at double the rate recommended.

From the plot preparation through the growing season and harvest, Jennifer kept a careful record of her project. She took photographs on a weekly basis as well as during special activities such as planting and harvest. Her results showed that the properly fertilized and over-fertilized plots had nearly the same yield, but the plot fertilized according to recommendation was a little better and production costs were less.

Display Well Presented

Not only did Jennifer put a lot of time and effort into conducting and

Jennifer Vad, a senior at Lincoln high school, will leave with her instructor Patti Johnson Thursday for Louisville, KY, to attend the international Science and Engineering Fair. She qualified for the trip by winning high honors at the regional science fair at Bemidji State University.

Spanish students make friends while learning

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

For a number of Spanish language students at Lincoln high school, the flood which displaced residents from the Greater Grand Forks area to Thief River Falls has provided an opportunity to learn and to make new friends.

Among the thousands of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks residents who were forced to flee from their homes when the Red River spilled over dikes and set a new record crest were a number of Spanish-speaking people. Some of these families came to Thief River Falls where they have been among [illegible] at the shelter at the Evangelical Free Church [illegible] Washington Elementary school.

While it is sometimes difficult for adults to [illegible], children [illegible] that excess [illegible] and are [illegible] the opportunity of the [illegible]. So it has been for the [illegible], and the Hispanic children [illegible] new [illegible] companions.

Spanish language instructor Sheryl Novacek sympathizes with the families who were forced from their homes, but thinks the opportunity for her students to interact with the families is the greatest thing since soft shell tacos. And judging by the reaction and comments of the students, her sentiments are multiplied.

On April 23 Lincoln principal Jerry Stone received a call from volunteers at the Evangelical Free Church asking if there might be Spanish students at the high school interested in working with the Hispanic evacuees. He passed the question along to Mrs. Novacek with his approval to explore the possibilities.

Tim became the first and only hockey player from Thief River Falls to be drafted by the NHL. He was chosen by the Washington Capitals in the fourth round. His pro career started in 1988 with the Binghamton Whalers. He has had playing stints with Baltimore, Washington, Tampa Bay, and recently with the Chicago Wolves. Tim has played in several Stanley Cup and Turner Cup Playoffs. He also had the privilege to be a member of the 1995 U.S. National team at the World Championships in Sweden.

Stanley G. Newland graduated from Lincoln High School in 1938. He is recognized as the person directly responsible for creating the Panther as the symbol for the Prowler Athletic teams. As an artist for the school yearbook, he introduced the Panther to illustrate various sections and over the years it was adopted as the team symbol. In addition, the Panther has also become a symbol for the City of Thief River Falls.

After serving in the Navy during World War II, he attended the New York Phoenix School of Design where he graduated Magna Cum Laude. From there he launched a successful career as an artist.

What Can Your Child Learn From You?

Kids May Be "Picking Up" More Than You Realize!

Children are very observant. They pick up the smallest details. And they watch closely so they can do things just as they saw them done.

While this is natural, it can create problems. Have your children ever observed you using alcohol or other drugs?

Talk to your children and explain that not everything you do is something they should do-at least not yet. Ask them how they feel about drug use and tell them how you feel, too.

This can be a delicate situation, especially if it appears you're telling your children to "do as I say, not as I do."

But if you approach them in a rational manner and listen to their point of view, you should be able to get your message across without putting them off.

By talking to your children instead of lecturing them, you will gain their respect and help them avoid the dangers of drug abuse.

Talk to your children. The message they need to hear is one only you can send.

Jennifer Vad to attend International contest

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

For Jennifer Vad of rural Goodridge, the 11 days beginning this Thursday should be among the most exciting and memorable of her young life. Along with teacher and advisor Patti Johnson, she will be attending the International Science and Engineering Fair in Louisville, KY.

Jennifer earned the right to attend the fair with a strong showing at the regional science fair held this year in Bemidji. She qualified for the regional event by winning at the Lincoln high school science fair in Thief River Falls.

Science fair competition for Jennifer is not a one shot deal. She has qualified for the regional science fair longer than there has been a Lincoln science fair and her project has expanded and focused along with her experience in the program.

Through ninth grade Jennifer was a student in the Goodridge school system. Her parents, Lynn and Laurie Vad, live in the Goodridge school district just west of Highlanding. But when she wanted to get three years of German language to fulfill a requirement to attend the college of her choice, Lincoln became her only area option.

She enrolled at Lincoln under the state's open enrollment program as a sophomore in the fall of 1994. It was coincidental that her Goodridge school science teacher, Patti Johnson, took a teaching contract in Thief River Falls that same year, but the coincidence was fortuitous for both.

"Jenny had shown an interest in science projects in Goodridge," Mrs Johnson said, "and it was probably just natural that the interest continued to develop in Thief River Falls. Lincoln hadn't had a science fair for quite a few years, and we worked to develop an interest among the students, the science faculty and the school district administration."

In 1994-95, Jennifer conducted her science fair project on results of the use of fertilizer in crop production by growing grain in pie plates. Purpose of the experiment was to check the value of fertilizer on growth and yield. With Mrs. Johnson's assistance, she participated in the regional science fair.

Pie Plates To Soil Plots

As a junior in 1995-96, Jennifer expanded her experiment from the laboratory pie plates to 20x20-foot plots on the Vad farm. Three of the plots were used—one of which was left unfertilized, one fertilized at the recommended rate according to soil test, and one fertilized at double the rate recommended.

From the plot preparation through the growing season and harvest, Jennifer kept a careful record of her project. She took photographs on a weekly basis as well as during special activities such as planting and harvest. Her results showed that the properly fertilized and over-fertilized plots had nearly the same yield, but the plot fertilized according to recommendation was a little better and production costs were less.

Display Well Presented

Not only did Jennifer put a lot of time and effort into conducting and

Jennifer Vad, a senior at Lincoln high school, will leave with her instructor Patti Johnson Thursday for Louisville, KY, to attend the International Science and Engineering Fair. She qualified for the trip by winning high honors at the regional science fair at Bemidji State University.

A number of the Lincoln students have been interacting with Hispanic children at the flood relief center at the church, gaining language skills and cultural insight.

Spanish students make friends while learning

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

For a number of Spanish language students at Lincoln high school, the flood which displaced residents from the Greater Grand Forks area to Thief River Falls has provided an opportunity to learn and to make new friends.

Among the thousands of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks residents who were forced to flee from their homes when the Red River spilled over dikes and set a new record crest were a number of Spanish-speaking people. Some of these families came to Thief River Falls where they have been among those staying at the shelter established at the Evangelical Free Church, formerly Washington elementary school.

While it is sometimes difficult for adults to put aside their pre-conceived biases and prejudices, children often don't have that excess baggage to carry around and are able to enjoy the opportunity of the moment. So it has been for the Lincoln students and the Hispanic children who simply have enjoyed one another's company.

Spanish language instructor Sheryl Novacek sympathizes with the families who were forced from their homes, but thinks the opportunity for her students to interact with the families is the greatest thing since soft shell tacos. And judging by the reaction and comments of the students, her sentiments are multiplied.

On April 23 Lincoln principal Terry Spine received a call from volunteers at the Evangelical Free Church asking if there might be Spanish students at the high school interested in working with the Hispanic evacuees. He passed the question along to Mrs. Novacek with his approval to explore the possibilities.

Induction of the 1997 Prowler Hall of Fame candidates will take place May 10 at the Best Western in Thief River Falls. The social hour begins at 6 p.m. The dinner and program begins at 7 p.m. Tickets are $15 each and can be purchased at the Lincoln High School Activities office.

Thirteen individuals will be inducted into the Hall of Fame. Those individuals include Tim Berglund, Elaine Charlson Bredehoft, Morris Bye, Frank Hemerlinck, Paul Ihle, James Jaranson, Sheldon Joppru, Stanley Newland, Michelle Olson, Gary Paulsen, Joey Poole, William Saetre and Lester Vigness. Introduction of the inductees will be made by Lincoln High School students.

The program includes a welcome by Dr. Jerry Robicheau, superintendent of schools, an invocation by Luke Davis and dinner music provided by "Resonance". Maryel Anderson will be the mistress of ceremonies. The benediction will be given by Megan Browning.

Tim Berglund, a 1983 graduate of Lincoln High School, attended the University of Minnesota where he studied business in the Carlson School of Management.

While in high school Tim was active in hockey, baseball, and cross country. In his senior year, he captained the Prowler Hockey team, was the Most Valuable player, and was named to the All-Section and All-State Hockey teams. He also was a member of the first North Team in the Minnesota Super Hockey series and a member of Team Minnesota for the National Super Series played in Boston.

In college Tim was a four year letterman for the Gopher Hockey team. He was the team captain in 1987, played in two NCAA tournaments, where Minnesota finished third both times. He was named to the WCHA All-Academic team in 1986 and 1987.

Tim became the first and only hockey player from Thief River Falls to be drafted by the N.H.L. He was chosen by the Washington Capitols in the fourth round. His pro career started in 1988 with the Binghamton Whalers. He has had playing stints with Baltimore, Washington, Tampa Bay, and is currently with the Chicago Wolves. Tim has played in several Stanley Cup and Turner Cup Playoffs. He also had the privilege to be a member of the 1995 U.S. National team at the World Championships in Sweden.

Stanley G. Newland graduated from Lincoln High School in 1938. He is recognized as the person directly responsible for creating the Panther as the symbol for the Prowler Athletic teams. As an artist for the school yearbook, he introduced the Panther to illustrate various sections and over the years it was adopted as the team symbol. In addition the Panther has also become a symbol for the City of Thief River Falls.

After serving in the Navy during World War-II, he attended the New York Phoenix School of Design where he graduated Magna Cum Laude. From there he launched a successful career as an artist.

As a freelance artist based in documenting her project. She did an attractive job of presenting the results in her display. At Lincoln's revised science fair early in 1996, she won a champion ribbon and advanced to the regional event, where she qualified for the state science fair.

After reading in a farm magazine about the results some farmers were getting from using high levels of phosphorus, Jennifer decided to confine her experimentation to that aspect of fertilizer application. In the summer of 1996, she again used 20x20 plots but in addition to a rotation to avoid any carryover from the previous experiment.

One of the plots was fertilized according to soil test as a control unit. Another was fertilized with a mixture with reduced phosphorus and a third with more phosphorus than the control plot. Again, the control unit performed best, with the additional phosphorus fertilization not justifying its cost.

From Region To International

And again Jennifer earned a championship at the Lincoln science fair and judges at the regional event in Bemidji thought enough of her work to send her directly from the region to the international fair. She also participated in the state science fair with both a research paper and her project.

In addition to advancement to the international event, she received several special awards at the regional fair.

Familiarity Key To Success

Is there a key to Jennifer's success in science fairs?

"I think it helps that I'm familiar with my topic," Jennifer said. "I'm from a farm and I know the purpose of my project. I think I can explain it clearly to the judges and I can answer their questions, usually with my documentation and photos. And if they have time, I have a brief video tape that Alice Hofstad in the Lincoln media center helped me to edit that I can show them on a small TV set with a VCR that is part of my display. The tape adds to the regular photos in the display."

The display itself will be a challenge to transport to Kentucky. It was built by Lynn Vad and is 4x4 feet in size with 2x4-foot wings on hinges that fold in to form a cover. There is also a 1x4 foot title board that attaches to the top of the display. Since Jennifer and Patti Johnson will be traveling by bus from St. Cloud to Louisville, they will have to find a place to transport the display. If it doesn't fit in the luggage compartment, Jennifer may have an extra traveling companion.

"There will be people there from all over the world," Jennifer says about the international event. "Part of the activity is to wear and trade pins, which is a way to help the exhibitors get to know one another. The fair itself is a week long, from May 10th through the 16th."

Jennifer Has Other Interests

Successful as Jennifer has been in her science activities, it is not her only interest. She has been on the speech team for two years, was on the golf team as a sophomore and junior, participated in mock trial and basketball as a sophomore and has been in the business club and a member of the National Honor Society chapter as a junior and senior. She also traveled to Washington, DC, this spring as part of the Close Up project.

Jennifer has worked part time at the Pamida store in Thief River Falls for the past two years. Carrying a 3.9 grade point average, she is in the top 15 of her 176 member graduating class.

She is a member of the Ekelund Lutheran church and its Luther League. Her brother, Jeremiah, is married to Holly Sustad of Viking.

This fall Jennifer will attend North Dakota State University in Fargo where she plans to major in engineering, but for the next week or so she will have other things on her mind.

How do you design a health plan to satisfy a bunch of beancounters?

Good question. Brian Ortale and his brother Andy, run the Bean Counter Coffee Company. Not surprisingly, they wanted a health plan that gave their small business the most for their money. They picked Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota. They could choose from eight plan options, from traditional coverage to managed care, delivered by an extensive network of providers. Plus, this year they can take advantage of a number of programs available to small businesses for the first time; things like 24-hour nurse phone care, discounted child safety items, community health program discounts and more.

Now, isn't that grounds for you to call? Call your local agent or 1-800-382-2000, ext. 1500 or 612-456-1500.

'The Blenders' in concert at Lincoln Mon., May 12

Postponed earlier this year due to a blizzard and widespread electrical power outage, a concert by "The Blenders" will be presented on Monday, May 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Lincoln high school choirs are sponsoring the concert and tickets at $10 each are available at Kezar Music Company in advance or will also be sold at the door. Doors will open one hour before concert time.

"Singing human voices are the most powerful and passionate instruments anywhere," states an information sheet on the quartet. "These four funky young guys from Fargo, ND, prove again how potent and sophisticated that human instrument really is. With a vocal virtuosity that spans many music traditions, 'The Blenders' create a genuine sound of their own."

Darren Rust, who sings bass with the group, says it has been influenced by just about every musical style from jazz and classical to pop, rock, doo wop, hip hop and a cappella music.

"As long as it packs an effect, we'll sing it and blend it to make music everyone can relate to. That's what 'The Blenders' are all about."

Darren and Allen Rust, Ryan Lance and Tim Kasper have been using their voices since high school to blend these varying musical influences into a style that has become uniquely their own.

In 1994 and 1995 they won consecutive Contemporary Artist of the Year Awards from the National Association of Campus Activities.

"Treat yourself to a night of top notch musical entertainment," suggests Lincoln vocal music instructor Darcy Reese. "And bring friends!"

Tech College faculty contract

Faculty members on 34 Minnesota technical college campuses April 17 approved the first statewide contract to be negotiated with MnSCU (Minnesota State Colleges and Universities.) More than 1,500 faculty members voted in the election and approved the contract by a 75 percent margin.

"This vote is the result of two years of long and hard bargaining," said Bruce Hemstad, president of United Technical College Educators (UTCE) which is the statewide faculty bargaining unit. "This is a contract that provides a starting point for future negotiations."

New negotiations will get underway in the near future, since the period covered by this contract runs from July 1, 1995, to June 30, 1997. Faculty have been working since the earlier date without a contract. UTCE and MnSCU held their first bargaining session on the just-approved contract in January of 1995. The contract must now be approved by the MnSCU Board of Trustees, as well as the legislature.

UTCE is one of three faculty bargaining units under the MnSCU umbrella. The other two are the Community College Faculty Association and the Inter-Faculty Organization of the Minnesota State Universities. MnSCU is the state administrative unit for all public higher education systems in Minnesota except the University of Minnesota.

Earth Day celebrated at St. Bernard's on April 21

Earth Day for St. Bernard's fourth grada class includad o stop ot tha playground. Tha students took thair parada to Hugo's in Thief Rivar Falls. Reduce, Recycle and Reuse were three key words learned by Laura Brickson's fourth grade of St. Bernard's School this past week. They learned how their actions affect not only their own homes, and in a small but important way, the entire Earth. The students worked on an Environmental Awareness plan for both their school and community. On Monday, April 21, they created a rain forest complete with humidity (from borrowed steamers), plants, and fourth grade student "animals". The rest of the students of St. Bernard's went on "safari" and learned a bit about endangered animals from the animals themselves.

Then, on Tuesday, April 22, in collaboration with Hugo's Grocery Store, the students chanted environmental slogans and carried posters in an Earth Day parade. They had decorated Hugo's paper bags throughout the week which were made available for distribution to the public.

The fourth grade of St. Bernard's would like to thank Gary and Wally at Hugo's for their wonderful help, and ask everyone to remember the spirit of Earth Day: Reduce, Recycle and Reuse!

ON MY MIND

Food For Thought

As I'm trying to stifle an urge to eat a hot fudge brownie dessert, I wonder: Why do we have to eat? Why do we have to consume food? I know that if I eat that brownie with hot fudge, ice cream, whipped cream and a cherry on top it means an extra hour walking on the treadmill or an extra pound on my right thigh.

Life would be simpler, I muse, if we didn't have to eat. Say, for example, that we could swallow a pill in the morning that would take care of the day's nutritional requirements and we wouldn't be hungry. Or maybe we wouldn't need food at all and could subsist on just air.

Food and eating are time-consuming. Just think what we could accomplish during the time it takes us to plan a meal, shop for the groceries, prepare the food, eat it and clean up afterward (not to mention removing the leftovers from the refrigerator after they've turned green).

Planning the meal rates as one of my least favorite chores. The biggest question at my house everyday is: What are we going to have for lunch? Not peanut butter sandwiches again? What are we going to eat for supper? There are only so many ways to disguise hamburger and chicken. I try to be creative, ripping recipes from magazines and having my husband be the guinea pig. Julia Child I'm not.

And unfortunately, what tastes good is usually not good for you. For me, it takes a lot of self control to abstain from my favorite foods like French fries, potato chips, hamburgers, pizza, tacos and ice cream treats. It takes discipline and self-sacrifice to make healthy food choices like fruits, vegetables and lean meats. What's the fun of eating if it doesn't tickle the tastebuds and add an extra inch to the waistline?

Oftentimes I wish I could have an appetite like my 6-year-old son. He's much too busy to eat and can survive on just the smallest amounts of food. In fact, he'd rather not eat – no wonder he's so skinny. (My mom usually chases him around with a peanut butter sandwich asking: Are you sure you're not hungry? Here, eat something.) Most adults have to count every calorie that goes into their mouth (or have an extremely high metabolism) in order to keep the same wardrobe from day to day.

Even though food and eating has its drawbacks, I'm aware of the role they play in our society. It's the social center of almost everything we do from the day we're born: baby showers, baptisms, first communions, confirmations, graduations, bridal showers, weddings, anniversaries, family reunions, Christmas, Easter, Valentine's Day, Fourth of July, birthdays, retirements, and funerals. Food is fellowship.

Business deals are sealed over power lunches. Engagements are proposed over candlelit dinners. Families grow stronger by sharing mealtimes.

There's always a really good reason to eat and if one of the standbys aren't available, we create a new occasion.

Food is comfort; it's what brings friends and families together. It's what we offer to new neighbors, people in distress, and to celebrate. It gives grandmas something to do, nobody cooks better than grandmas.

And if we didn't eat, what would be the point of going on vacation? Eating out is the focal point of many vacations (mine anyway). It's exciting to taste and compare the foods from different restaurants in different cities and in different countries.

If we didn't eat, what would be the fun of the fair without a corn dog or cotton candy? What's the Renaissance Festival without a turkey drumstick? What's a movie without popcorn? What's Halloween without candy? What's summer without Oof-da tacos? What's the Minnesota State Fair without cheese curds? What's life without food?

As long as we have a nose to breathe in the aroma, tastebuds to taste, teeth with which to chew, and a tongue to help us swallow, we may as well eat.

Make a List; Check It Twice

If you're taking over-the-counter medication in addition to prescription medication or purchasing prescription medication from more than one pharmacy, it is important to keep your pharmacist informed of your medication history. If your pharmacist is aware of all the other medications you are taking, whether over-the-counter or prescription, he or she can take the proper precautions to ensure that you will not experience any harmful drug interactions.

To help keep your pharmacist informed of your medication history, it's a good idea to make a list of all the medications you are currently taking – both prescription and non-prescription. For each medication listed, you should include the name of the prescribing doctor, the amount you take (plus specific instructions on how it's taken), expected side effects and the number of times you take it each day.

In Loving Memory Of Our Son, And Brother

Tom Raymond

A cluster of precious memories sprinkled with love and tears, wishing you had been with us, if only for a few more years
You left a precious memory and sorrow too great to hold, and to all who loved and lost you, your memory will never grow old
No farewells were spoken, no time to say goodbye, you were gone before we knew it, and only God knows why
To the grave we travel, the flowers are placed with care, but no one knows the heartache as we turn and leave you there.
If tears could build a staircase, and heartache make a lane, we would walk the path to heaven and bring you back again
May 8th would have been Tom's 28th birthday.

We love you Tom, and miss you so very, very much.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES
Start Your Engines

Your children will zoom over to this magnetic raceway to practice eye-hand coordination. Draw and color a racetrack on a large piece of tagboard. Then draw, color and cut out several car outlines from tagboard. Slide a large paper clip onto each car. Tape the ends of the tagboard raceway to the edges of two tables or chairs (don't use wooden veneer furniture unless you're sure the tape won't damage it) so that the track is suspended in air. Place the cars on the track. Invite your child to use the raceway by moving a magnet underneath the tagboard.

PARENTING TIPS
Accenting The Positive

Next Sunday is Mother's Day. This is a good time to remember how important it is to teach helping behavior in a positive way to children.

So let your children know you appreciate it when they do things that are important to you. For example, thank them for helping keep the house neat by cleaning up toys and clothes. If they forget, gently remind them that they make parents' work harder when parents have to do all the work themselves.

Ask children for their help and compliment them when they take responsibility for themselves in any way, even if their efforts are awkward. Point out the times they do things the way you ask them to. For example, thank them when they ask for something instead of whining. Watch for any occasion when you can say, "Thank you for helping. Great job!"

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Be specific: tell your child exactly what pleases you. For example say, "Thank you for picking up your toys. It helps me a lot when you remember by yourself."

Another reason to honor senior citizens this spring

Virginie Hensen with the Region I Senior Meals Program, says seniors and senior dining sites across the area deserve a Grade A for courage and tenacity this spring.

As Lutheran Social Service prepares to honor seniors for exceptional support and contributions to senior dining and Meals On Wheels, Virginia Hanson, with LSS Senior Nutrition in Region I, says they have another reason to honor seniors this spring.

Earlier this year, Lutheran Social Service recognized seniors in Northwest and West Central Minnesota with their "Annual Apple Pie Award" and proclaimed Apple Pie & Customer Appreciation Day, Wednesday, May 14 in Region I. Shortly after that proclamation the region was faced with severe power outages, flooding, and the care of flood evacuees.

Hanson says seniors were not hesitant to step forward. "LSS Senior Dining Sites have served as designated emergency shelters, as meal preparation sites for National Guard troops and displaced families, and as good neighbors welcoming seniors from centers forced to close because of flooding. Seniors and nutrition staff deserve a Grade A for courage and tenacity in the face of incredible odds. The stories are almost unbelievable."

According to Area Director, Elaine White, the Lake Bronson Senior Dining site served an entire community after an April 6 ice storm that knocked out power to the area and disrupted service at the Senior Dining Site in Shelly. That was only the beginning.

As flood waters overwhelmed centers in Breckenridge, Ada, and East Grand Forks, LSS staff prepared meals for National Guard troops in Oslo, American Red Cross and Salvation Army workers in Crookston and delivered frozen meals in spite of overland flooding in Warren. LSS staff from Middle River supported meal preparation for the East Grand Forks Good Samaritan Home, which was evacuated to Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

White says centers unaffected by flooding welcomed displaced seniors. "Our centers in Warroad, Gary, Twin Valley, Crookston, Thief River Falls — are all serving additional meals. No senior is ever turned away and we have been very happy to help."

White says Senior Dining Sites in Warroad, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, Erskine, Fosston, Greenbush and Karlstad have been designated as disaster shelters or as food providers for disaster workers.

White says two centers that were forced to close have been reopened, and centers in Oslo and Halstad, both surrounded by water, maintained and carried on throughout. "The staff and seniors just made it happen. We didn't miss a meal. The dykes held, and so did our food supplies. Our Shelly site was able to reopen last week along with the site in Breckenridge." White says the Park Manor Community Room in Breckenridge is now their central dining location with meals five days a week provided through the Fergus Falls Dining Site."

White says, with more than 100 dining sites across the area, only two remain closed. "Our dining centers in Ada and East Grand Forks were devastated. We are attempting to assess damage and plan to reopen as soon as possible."

White says many of these displaced seniors are finding meals, friendship, and support at LSS Dining Sites in Twin Valley, Gary and Crookston. "When we serve up apple pie this month, it's going to be a real tribute to the hard work that has gone into this spring. We welcome seniors across the area. You deserve it."

Apple Pie Award and Customer Appreciation Day will be held at Senior Dining Sites Wednesday, May 14, in Region I. Apple pie will be served as part of a special proclamation to publicly acknowledge countless favors, contributions and support toward LSS Senior Nutrition Programs in 1996 and 1997 in Northwest and West Central Minnesota.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

Welcome...and Watch Out

Those of us who live here know that driving in Thief River Falls may be hazardous. For those of you who are visiting our fair city, whether shopping, just stopping by, or waiting to get back to your flood-damaged homes, here is a partial list of the driving hazards you may encounter and might want to watch out for.

Never trust a turn signal. Some TRF drivers do not use their turn signals to signal turns. I don't know what they use them for, perhaps they are trying to change the station on their radios or trying to turn on their lights. Nonetheless, never expect that the driver signalling a right turn in front of you will turn right. Always expect the unexpected. TRF drivers may signal right, but really mean left .. or...they may signal right when they have no plan to turn at all.

Then again, some TRF drivers like to put their turn signals on several blocks in advance so they are well-prepared. By the time they get to where they want to turn, they have often decided to turn left or not turn at all and forget to do anything about the right signal. Then, too, sometimes they put their turn signals on so long in advance that they forget the signals are on, and they drive all over town signalling a turn that they may never make.

Other TRF drivers do not want to wear out their turn signals or burn out the little light bulbs in them, so they never put them on until they are stopped at an intersection and waiting for the light to turn green. I have never heard of a turn signal wearing out, have you? Nonetheless, many TRF citizens are frugal people and certainly don't want to have to get their turn signals repaired or change the little light bulb, so they make sure they are not wasteful and signal too far in advance. Heavens, half a block away from the turn would be entirely too extravagant!

Most people learned how to be polite and say "please" and "thank you" from their parents, but it appears that the common courtesies don't always extend to driving, especially here in TRF.

If it rains or snows, always wait for traffic to clear before trying to enter your vehicle if it is parked on the street. Some drivers like to make a little game out of how fast they can drive past you as you try to enter your car and see how much dirty muck they can splash on you and in your car. These drivers are not polite at all.

Remember, in Minnesota we have a law called "Right Turn on Red." We are allowed to turn right on a red light if we have stopped and checked for other traffic (unless, of course, there is a sign that says, "No Right Turn on Red.") Anyway, some Minnesotans do not know about this law, even though it has been in effect for several years now. I often wonder what these people who do not know about the Right Turn on Red law think when they see other drivers doing right turns on red lights. Do they think we are breaking the law? Perhaps they don't think at all.

Anyway, the Right Turn on Red law has revealed some very impolite drivers. Here comes Rude Driver along the road in front of Driver Turning Right. Rude Driver is coming from the left, just where Driver Turning Right is looking for traffic coming. Rude Driver can see Driver Turning Right's little head, looking at him, watching and waiting for him to pass by. But Rude Driver is going to turn one way or another at the intersection before he passes Driver Turning Right's car. Driver Turning Right could have turned long ago if only Rude Driver had used his turning signal. Rude Driver is certainly not polite.

Some TRF drivers never worry about lanes. They remember the good old days when everyone drove all over the road and now they say, "To heck with these lane-things and arrows and dotted lines - I'm driving on the right side of the road (some of the time) and that's all that matters!"

These are the people in front of you whose cars are usually taking up both lanes. When you are behind one of these drivers, whatever you do, don't try to pass them. You will more than likely find your car being run off the road or scraped, because the drivers who drive in both lanes NEVER, EVER look in their rear view mirrors. In fact, if I remember right, most of them don't have rear view mirrors because of all the close encounters they have had with other drivers . and parked cars - and other things.

One of the most terrifying things you may encounter in TRF is something I call the double left turn. You are sitting in the middle lane at a red light, planning to go straight ahead once the light turns green. Across the street, facing you, are three lanes of traffic. TWO OF THE VEHICLES ARE SIGNALLING A LEFT TURN DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF YOU! If this happens to you, DO NOT MOVE. This phenomenon happens quite frequently in TRF, and the drivers usually work the problem out by themselves. Just stay out of their way and you will be fine. I repeat: stay out of their way and you will be fine. Proceed AFTER the two vehicles have turned.

Good luck to you and may you enjoy your visit to our fair city.

Second graders lined up to water a Bur Oak planted during Arbor Day activities in Thief River Falls Friday, May 2. The tree was planted at the Thief River Falls Campground in honor of the American Legion and VFW of Thief River Falls.

Emergency food stamps available

Emergency food stamp benefits are available to flood victims. Applications for the food stamps can be completed May 8, 9 and 12-14 at the Welfare Department at 318 North Knight in Thief River Falls between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Applicants for the emergency food stamps must be from the 21 Minnesota counties and eight North Dakota counties affected by the flood. They must also meet eligibility requirements.

Current burning regulations are now restricted

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources at Warroad and Wannaska have announced that burning regulations are now restricted to piled debris and between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. Permits to burn are restricted to vegetative debris only.

Burning outside these constraints is possible but requires a special permit. Local township fire wardens may issue special permits with forester authorization.

Fire departments commissioned to issue permits to burn have authority to issue special permits within their protection districts.

Under no circumstances may permits be issued to burn such things as rubber, plastics, tar paper, garbage, et cetra . . .

TRF fire dept. issues permits for burning

Thief River Falls Fire Chief has announced that burning regulations are now restricted to evenings, by permit only and only in rural areas. Burning yard refuse within the City of Thief River Falls is not permitted.

Permits to burn piled vegetative debris can be obtained at the Thief River Falls Fire department for the townships of North, Norden, Rocksbury, Smiley, Excel and Silverton.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Mackenzie Carriere
Lincoln High School

Well, everybody, this is my last On The Other Hand. Seems so weird! It's like FINALLY! I guess time went faster after I forgot about how bad I wanted to graduate and be on my own. I'm going to miss these little articles, although sometimes I was in quite a jam because I could never think of a topic until the last moment. I managed, and some weren't that bad, were they?

I am such a procrastinator! But there's nothing wrong with that. I think everyone in this world has a little procrastinator inside them. It does, however, put a lot of stress on me during the last days of high school. I absolutely hate stress. When I am stressed I let it control me, knots are twisting, and I begin to feel sick. These last few days, however, have been more than harsh on me. They make me see how harsh this world really can be. But, hey, we all live through it! We just have to keep surviving.

Anyway, I was thinking. What should I write for my very last article? Hmmm... I don't know. I could babble like I usually do. I think I'm good at that. Nah, I won't cause you guys to suffer with my crazy mind this time.

This is a time to look at the future, my future, that is. My plans are simple. I'm registered at Northland College and plan on majoring in English. Time to end procrastination. Is that possible? I don't really know what I want to be. I guess any kind of writer, or maybe an English teacher. Who knows? I'll decide later! That's always been my motto: "Maybe Later." I'm not sure about anything after that. I can only handle so much school and payments. Oh, goody me, I get to enjoy paying bills just like all of you. Hopefully, I'll be able to handle it. Saving money is not too important in my life, but spending money is great, so maybe paying bills won't be so bad. Yeah, right!

My biggest plan, or most important plan, is to get out of this place as soon as I graduate from college. I need to be somewhere hot or at least lukewarm. These winters are driving me crazy, and spring seems to be getting later.

My sympathy strongly goes out to all you flood victims. You all seem to be handling this disaster with great strength. What a way to bring a community together. I wonder if this happened for a reason? I guess we all know the true powers of mother nature. Don't mess with her!

That's another thing. I am going to find some place where mother nature can't be too harsh on me. Actually, though, I can't run from her. There are always tornadoes in Kansas, hurricanes in the Carolina's, volcanoes in Hawaii, earthquakes in California, and whatever else everywhere else. Is there a place to fit my satisfaction out there? Probably not. I guess it will be whatever I make my destiny to be.

Visitation plan for evacuees announced for GF, EGF

FEMA officials and local representatives of East Grand Forks and Grand Forks have announced a temporary visitation plan to the flood zone.

Two people per household will be allowed to visit their homes for a short period of time to check on the condition of the home and remove a few personal belongings. A schedule will be developed that will open neighborhoods one at a time. People will be allowed in their areas in two different ways. There will be a bus scheduled to leave from Crookston to the neighborhoods. An alternative method for neighborhood visitation is that at a stated time and location an escorted convoy will be led into the area. For anyone with special needs arrangements will be made to transport them to their home. Visits will last about one hour. Only small personal items and clothing should be removed because of limited time. Space on the buses will also be limited. People may remove working vehicles that were left at their home. It is necessary to limit the visit to an hour so that as many citizens can get to their homes in the shortest period of time.

People in Bemidji and other remote locations should plan their own transportation to Crookston.

The first of the entry areas is the Valley School Area. The north end from 7th NE northward may enter the area from noon to 2 p.m. The south and west sides of the area from 1 to 3 p.m. Citizens will enter the visitation area at the intersection of 7th Street NE and 5th Avenue NE. The exit to the area will be onto business US 2 from 5th Avenue NE.

Citizens will come into East Grand Forks along US 2 (not Business US 2). They will encounter a road block on US TH2 and 5th Avenue NE. This is in the same location as the National Guard's road block. There will be one East Grand Forks police unit at this road bock. At this point, the citizen will be given a prenumbered card. The citizen will write their name and address on the card. They will drive down to a second road block at the entrance to the area (7th Street NE and 5th AVenue).

Citizens will stop at the second check-in point and turn in their address card and show identification. An official at the second road block will copy the number from the address car to a Post-It note and will give that to the citizen. The citizen will be told to turn in the Post-It note number as they leave the area. The second road block will have a National Guard Unit and three additional helpers. At 2 p.m. this group will move to the third road block and will pick up the Post-It notes.

As the citizen leaves the area at the road block at 5th Avenue NE and Business US 2, they will turn in the Post-It note with the number.

Security on the perimeter will be provided by two roving National Guard units and one roving DNR County unit. The back-up will be provided by the Polk County Sheriff. All of the roads on the outside of the vicinity area will be blocked. Security within the visitation unit will be provided by two East Grand Forks Police Patrol units with two people in each unit.

There will be two ambulances on stand by in the area. A fire truck and fire rescue unit will also be in the visitation area.

A CISD roving patrol will be roving in the area.

Power to the entire area will be off prior to citizens entering the area.

Two garbage trucks will be located beyond the check point for perishable material that citizens have removed from their homes.

A disinfectant station will be provided at 5th and Business US 2 when citizens are leaving the area so that they can wash their hands after handling flood contaminated material.

Safety guidelines for citizens entering the area are also being issued.

- Please don't try to pump out basements. It needs to be done slowly. Rapid removal of water may cause unequal pressure on basement walls which could lead to the collapse of basement walls. People have been injured pumping out basements too quickly.
- Please take items needed only to live, such as clothes, money, personal items, jewelry — no furniture.
- Please stay in your designated area.
- If you encounter a gas ordor do not enter or stay in your building.
- If you encounter structural defects, leave the building.
- Do not drink the water, except for bottled water, or water known to be pure. Assume most of the city water has not been decontaminated.
- After handling flood contaminated material, wash hands as frequently as possible.
- Do not attempt to use appliances in wet areas. Most power systems have been deactivated, but if you encounter a live line, use caution.
- There will be no smoking allowed. There is a potential for natural gas leaks — smoking could lead to fire or explosion.
- Please keep the door of your building open so that officials know someone is in there.

FEMA answers questions about mobile homes and travel trailers

The following questions and answers regarding mobile homes and travel trailers were provided by FEMA on April 28.

Q. Where are these units coming from?

A. The travel trailers are purchased from a supplier in Indiana. The mobile homes are being redeployed from FEMA's inventory in Bluegrass, KY.

Q. Why weren't these units purchased in Minnesota?

A. Because of a flooding disaster which struck the Ohio Valley earlier this year, FEMA has an open contract with a supplier. This enables FEMA to obtain the travel trailers in the fastest possible way.

Q. How many mobile homes and travel trailers are on the way?

A. The initial order is for 200 mobile homes and 400 travel trailers.

Q. Are more available if needed?

A. Yes. FEMA has approximately 500 more mobile homes available in inventory, and we can purchase additional travel trailers and mobile homes if necessary through our normal acquisition channels.

Q. How do you know these units are needed?

A. FEMA, working with state and local representatives have had teams of people making assessments of the available rental housing resources in affected counties. When compared with the number of people needing temporary housing assistance, there is a shortfall.

Q. Where will they go?

A. We are developing a plan with state and local officials for the best deployment of these and subsequent units. Some may go to private sites, others to commercial parks and still others to group sites.

Q. Who will receive the first units?

A. Residents of declared counties whose homes have been verified to be unlivable and who cannot be placed in other types of available rental housing may be considered for a mobile home or travel trailer.

Q. Will everyone who wants one get one?

A. Probably not. First, FEMA will attempt to find appropriate existing temporary rental housing. Only if none can be found will FEMA consider using travel trailers or mobile homes.

Q. Will a homeowner be required to accept a mobile home?

A. No one will be required to accept a mobile home or travel trailer. However, in some cases this may be the only temporary housing available within a reasonable distance from the resident's community.

Q. Will residents be able to purchase the units?

A. In some cases, after the need for temporary emergency housing is met, the units can be sold. It is too early at this time to know if this will be possible here in Minnesota.

Q. Will residents have a choice of mobile home or travel trailer?

A. Family size and other factors are used in deciding which option to use.

Q. Will the units be set up on my property?

A. Local and state authorities will determine the placement procedures for travel trailers and there may be existing ordinances for mobile homes. A mobile home CANNOT be placed in the flood plain, for safety reasons. In some cases travel trailers or mobile homes can be set up on a homeowner's property, provided adequate utilities are available.

Q. Do people need to make special application for this temporary housing?

A. No. If you are in a declared county, and have already registered for assistance by calling FEMA's toll-free registration number (1-800-462-9029) you need do nothing more.

Q. How long will the mobile homes and travel trailers be in place?

A. FEMA considers these to be "interim housing" and will leave them in place for as long as needed. All disaster recovery actions are undertaken with the hope that people can return to their own home or acquire permanent housing.

Q. What other housing options were explored?

A. FEMA first strives to return flood victims to their own home by providing grants to make minimal repairs when this step can quickly restore the home to a livable conditions. If that is not possible FEMA can provide grants to be used to rent housing. If rental housing is not available, FEMA can request mobile homes and travel trailers to provide temporary accommodation until permanent housing becomes available.

Q. What if a community does not want mobile homes or travel trailers?

A. Local communities have no obligation to accept mobile homes or travel trailers. However, they are only offered where there is a verified housing shortfall. Therefore, excluding this option will reduce housing opportunities available to residents.

Q. Who is moving the mobile homes and travel trailers?

A. Contract haulers will move and set up the units.

Q. When will the first units be available for occupancy?

A. Pre-placement work is already under way. FEMA hopes to have units available for occupancy within 14 days after the first units arrive (on or before May 16).

Q. What procedures are followed in the placement of the mobile homes and travel?

A. The placement of these units will be in compliance with all federal, state and local government roles and regulations for zoning, building, health and safety.

Q. How much do these units cost?

A. Travel trailers cost about $9,000 per unit; mobile homes about $19,000 per unit.

Q. What size are these units?

A. The travel trailers are approximately 8x30 with one bedroom. The mobile homes are approximately 12x60 with three bedrooms.

Q. Do they have washers, dryers, air conditioning?

A. No.

Q. Who pays for the utilities?

A. The resident.

Q. Can residents take their pets?

A. Yes.

Q. How will my children get to their home school?

A. FEMA and the statetries to keep families in their original school district whenever possible.

Q. Where will the units be stored in the Twin Cities?

A. At the Twin Cities Army Ammunition Plant.

Q. Will the new media be able to photograph the arrival of these travel trailers and mobile homes.

A. Yes. Contact the FEMA news desk in St. Paul at 612-970-3090 to coordinate media coverage or for answers to additional questions you might have.

Disaster housing needs in RRV addressed

As flood waters in the Grand Forks region began to recede and residents return home, local, state and federal disaster officials are aggressively pursuing a number of options to meet the longer-term housing needs of those displaced by the devastating flood.

"Our top priority is to provide a safe and sanitary place for affected residents to live," said Federal Coordinating Officer Lesli A. Rucker of FEMA. "If we can help them return to their homes, that is obviously our first choice. But in many cases, we will have to consider other housing possibilities until damages can be repaired."

FEMA generally provides two types of disaster housing aid: grants for emergency repairs to make the home livable and rental assistance for persons whose homes are uninhabitable. Low-interest loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration are also available for major repairs to damaged property.

To address the lack of available rental properties in the Grand Forks area, housing officials have identified a number of alternate housing options, including travel trailers and available dormitory space at the University of North Dakota. FEMA is continuing to work with state and local counterparts to identify other possibilities. Pre-existing resources that can quickly be made habitable will be the first choice for temporary housing.

Area residents who have already applied for assistance via FEMA's toll-free number, 1-800-462-9029, will be contacted in regard to the type of housing assistance that might be most appropriate.

"We will be working with individuals and families in the weeks and months ahead to find a living situation that works for them," Rucker said. "This recovery will take time and teamwork, and we want to assure folks in Grand Forks that we will do everything within our means to help them on the road to recovery."

In addition to its focus on longer-term housing, FEMA is recognizing the unique needs of Grand Forks residents by:

- Expediting the delivery of housing assistance to those from areas that remain inaccessible because of flood waters.
- Reimbursing eligible hotel and motel expenses for those mandatorily evacuated from the city; residents should keep their receipts and contact the FEMA Disaster Helpline, 1-800-525-0321.

State Coordinating Officer Major General Keith D. Bjerke of the North Dakota National Guard said the provision of adequate long-term housing for Grand Forks flood victims remains a top priority.

"We have an effective partnership at the federal, state, local and volunteer level, and we will continue our efforts to move residents out of shelters and other interim accommodations into more comfortable living environments," he said. "It will require patience and cooperation, but it is possible if we just keep working together."

Red Cross opens service centers

American Red Cross has opened service centers in Bemidji and Crookston.

A Red Cross service center is not just an application center. The Red Cross provides direct financial assistance to individuals for emergency needs. Family Service workers meet one-on-one with flood victims to discuss their specified disaster-related needs. The interview process gives disaster victims an opportunity to tell the Red Cross about their immediate needs, to ask any questions they might have and to express feelings they may be experiencing. Red Cross nurses and crisis counselors are also located at the service centers to assist with health-related needs.

Flood victims will be asked to furnish identification such as a driver's license, or utility bill which shows they reside in the affected area. Disaster victims with verified needs may be issued disbursing orders (vouchers) to purchase emergency items they need most such as lodging, new clothing, groceries, medical needs, basic household furnishings and supplies and minor home repairs. Purchases may be made at a local merchant of the disaster victim's choice. Using the voucher system, the millions of dollars the Red Cross is spending helps in the recovery of the local economy, which is often impacted by the disaster.

All Red Cross Disaster Services are free, a gift of the American People.

Mobile telephone facility at UMC

In conjunction with American Red Cross recovery efforts, MCI Communications has set up a mobile telephone facility near the Red Cross shelter at the Sports Center of the University of Minnesota at Crookston.

Families needing assistance during this difficult time can call their loved ones, insurance representatives and other agencies they need to contact so that they can rebuild their lives. "As of now, MCI will remain at this location until May 10, and will make a decision later whether to stay on longer or move north, depending on the need and weather conditions," said Ken Gilbert, supervisor of MCI's mobile telephone facility in Crookston who is one of five technicians assigned there. The facility will be in operation 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

There will be a satellite uplink to a Dallas-Fort Worth teleport in Irving, TX. All calls are directed to the Irving "switch" into the MCI network. With satellite communications, callers may experience a delay. MCI has answered American Red Cross calls for help in the past, responding to requests to set up mobile telephone facilities in Oklahoma and California.

The American Red Cross has housed more than 5,400 people in 10 shelters. There are service centers located in Grand Forks, West Fargo, Breckenridge, Ada, and St. Paul. More are scheduled to open to provide assistance to families in affected areas.

For more information, call the American Red Cross Helpline at 1-800-272-2864 (TTY 1-800-366-8888). To donate to the American Red Cross "Disaster Relief Fund," mail checks to P.O. Box 28326, Oakdale, MN 55128-0326.

Space still available at Camp Hope

Camp HOPE, a weekend camp for children ages 8 through 12 who have experienced the death of a loved one, will be held again this summer June 13-15. Due to the flood, the registration deadline has been extended to May 30, and space is still available.

Campe HOPE is sponsored by Hospice of the Red River Valley, and held at YMCA Camp Cormorant near Lake Park. The camp offers traditional camp activities such as swimming, boating, hiking and horsemanship intermingled with discussions, games, and crafts designed to help children understand and work through their grief. There is no cost to campers for the weekend, however a $25 registration fee is requested. Those interested should contact the Fargo office of the Hospice as soon as possible at 701-237-4629 or toll free at 1-800-237-4629.

Health officials respond to concerns in wake of flood

State and local public health officials are offering reassurance about potential infectious disease risks to residents of flood-stricken northwestern Minnesota.

"We're working on a number of fronts right now to prevent any potential public health problems in connection with the flooding," said Anne Barry, Minnesota Commissioner of Health. "People in the community have expressed concerns about a variety of potential health issues, particularly in the area of infectious disease. Fortunately, many of those concerns are unfounded."

"People living in the flood area have just been through a heroic and exhausting struggle to save their communities," Commissioner Barry said, "so it's understandable that they might be prepared to believe the worst about the threat of infectious disease. But I can tell you that, as of right now, we have no reason to anticipate any kind of flood-related outbreak. We're doing everything we can to keep it that way."

Health-related rumors and concerns currently circulating in the community include the following, according to Commissioner Barry:

Contact with Flood water. Although flood water may in fact be contaminated, simple skin contact — even with raw sewage — generally won't make you ill. You generally have to ingest flood water, or something that's been contaminated with flood water. If you simply wash your hands before you eat, drink or put anything in your mouth, you can usually prevent any potential problem.

Infectious Disease Outbreaks. No outbreaks of giardiasis, hepatitis A, or any other infectious disease have been reported in connection with the flooding — contrary to rumors that have circulated in various parts of the state. There is no reason to believe that there is currently any risk of such an outbreak.

Tetanus Shots. Although public health officials routinely recommend getting a tetanus shot every 10 years, there is no special reason to have it done right now. There is also no reason to get a shot for typhoid, polio or any other vaccine preventable disease because of the flooding. There is simply no increase in the risk of getting these illnesses. People who sustain puncture wounds should talk to a physicians if they haven't had a tetanus shot within the last five years — regardless of where or how they got the injury.

Animal bites. Various pest animals have been driven from their normal habitat by the flood, and the health department has begun getting reports of animal bites, involving rates or other pest animals. Despite concerns to the contrary, these bite incidents do not pose any risk of rabies. The bite area should simply be washed thoroughly, and otherwise treated like any other injury.

Sandbags. A number of people have expressed concern about the handling and disposal of sandbags, once they've been saturated with flood water. Used sandbags pose no special health risks, and can be handled and disposed of as local officials see fit.

Mosquitoes and Encephalitis. It's still not clear whether the flooding will have any effect on the risk of encephalitis this year. Flooding does potentially affect the breeding habitat for the mosquito that carries one type of encephalitis. However, weather conditions before and after the flood could have an even greater impact on mosquito breeding conditions. At this point, there's still no problem. Officials at the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH) will continue to monitor the situation.

"Black Fungus." A type of fungus known as Stachybotrys — the "black fungus" — has been associated with serious health problems in young children, in the wake of flooding in other parts of the country. However, the risk associated with the "black fungus" can be addressed through careful cleaning and disinfection of your home before you move back in — including the removal of any insulating material that may have been saturated with flood water.

The public health response to the flood is a collaborative, community-wide effort, Commissioner Barry noted. MDH is working with local public health agencies — as well as other state and local agencies, and private sector organizations like the Red Cross — to address potential flood-related health concerns. "We're providing public health support in the flood response effort in a variety of ways," she said.

Staff from the MDH district office in Fergus Falls are working with volunteers at evacuation shelters to address food safety issues and other health concerns. Efforts are also underway to ensure that health officials are aware of all the sites that have accepted evacuees.

State and local public health officials are monitoring carefully for any cases of infectious illness that might be connected with the flooding, so they will be prepared to respond quickly in the event of an outbreak.

MDH officials are monitoring efforts to evacuate hospital patients and nursing home residents from the flood area, in an effort to ensure that their care needs are being met. They are also tracking local community water supply systems, so they can assist local officials in dealing with any potential contamination problems.

Private water well owners can have their wells tested for contamination free of charge, if they live in one of the counties included in the federal disaster area, and their wells were actually affected by the flooding. Local health departments can provide test kits for people who want to make use of the free well testing program, as well as detailed instructions for disinfecting and testing your well.

A free brochure — "Protecting Your Health During a Flood" — is available from local health departments and MDH district offices statewide.

Kathy Juneau

I enjoyed Kathy's write up about son Steven Vigstal's wedding which we had to miss. A week later the couple hosted another reception in St. Francis for folks who couldn't make it to Itasca. Among the many guests were Neil Vigstol and Margit Paulson of Omaha and Council Bluffs, and David and Sue Vigstol of Lakeville.

The community turned out in force on Tuesday to honor the life of Bud Fossell. His funeral was held at Immanuel Lutheran Church with Redeemer Lutheran's Pastor Rev. David Brockopp officiating. Again sincere sympathy is extended to his wife Karen, children Gregg, Brian, Steven, Deana and Catherine all of whom attended school in Plummer.

On Wednesday, the funeral for Erling Anderson, long-time resident of Plummer was held at the Green Funeral Chapel in Thief River Falls with Pastor Clarence Johnson officiating. our deep sympathies go to his wife Sophie and children Wendell, Jon and Hetty, their family and friends. May God give rest and comfort to all those who grieve for loved ones.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson attended the funeral for Katherine Kvasager and later were callers at the Karl Sorenson home.

Sunday dinner, to celebrate the 90th birthday of Octavia Brekke of Fosston, was enjoyed by her son Lowell and Wife Karen and grandson Nick all of New York Mills, Amelia Eskeli, Eddy Eskeli and Edna Hyde. The party was held at Third Base in Brooks.

Hazel Dille, Jerry and Marian Koltenberg visited John and Evelyn Kuiper of Red Lake Falls on Sunday. Jerry and Marion returned to their home in Crookston after spending a week with Hazel during the flood threat.

Birthday for Abigail

A birthday party was held on Sunday for Abigail Gerardy, who turned 2 years old. It was held at the home of her parents Tony and Sheila Gerardy, sister Mallory and brother Brett. She received many nice presents and her mom even made Abby her favorite character, a Barney cake. Dinner guests were grandparents Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson, Jerry and Carol Gerardy, great grandparents Eugene and Willie Prestegaard of Thief River Falls; Godparents Tricia Willett, Russell Sorenson of Roseau, Brian and Mary Esposeth of Thief River Falls. Also Tom, Rebecca and Todd Willett, Barbie Konickson, Kevin, Kyle and Jeremy Gerardy, Jason, Ben and Jordan Esposeth all of Thief River Falls. Afternoon guests were Tammie and Josh Gerardy, John, Delaine and Maren Hammer of Thief River Falls; Virginia, MCaulie and Madison Burns of Oklee. They also celebrated the 75th birthday of Great Grandpa Eugene Prestegaard! Happy Birthday to all!

Family Night

The Youth group of Immanuel served a spaghetti supper on Sunday at the Plummer Hall and this was followed by a family night program night at the church. There were various musical selections form all age groups and a skit entitled "Dr. Steward Ships Clinic" which was presented by members of the Shadrach circle. The skit had been written 30 plus years ago by the late Tabby Grorud whose husband Milton had been a pastor here. Another skit was given by Pastor Johnson, Don Fox and Jim DuChamp. Both were humorous, thought provoking and inspiring. Thanks to all who participated and attended.

Merle and Beth Foster of St. Paul visited over the weekend with Art and Avis Froiland and Also attended a wedding in Roseau.

Immanuel Quilters gathered on Monday for another work day. It is soon Ship out Day and this was probably the last session for the winter's project.

Goodwin and Lucille Kvasagar attended the funeral for John Keck on Monday at Zion Lutheran Church of Thief River Falls.

Annie and Milton Mathei of Grand Forks have been visiting her sister Garda and Arlan Koskela from time to time. They are among the many who had to flee the flood waters and are staying with brother Einar Kvasager of Oklee.

David Ellis of East Grand Forks spent time with his sister Connie and Roger Hughes as a result of the flood waters there.

Supper guests of Edna Hyde on Monday were Eleanor Hodgson, Dorothy Myhre, Adolaid Naas, Chet and Lorraine Brown of Terrebonne.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson attended the prayer service for Bud Fossell on Monday night at the Petterson Funeral home of Red Lake Falls.

Bertha Hughes was hospitalized for a few days at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls.

Art and Avis Froiland were supper guests of the Byers on Wednesday.

Fine Arts Night

A program on Monday evening was shared by Plummer Music Department and the Drama Club. Lynn Burns, Music teacher, presented the Junior high band playing "Stonehenge Overture", "The Muppet Show" theme and high lights from the "Little Mermaid". The senior high choir sang "And So It Goes", "Send Down the Rain" and "Homeward Bound". Ross Arlt, Sylvia Lallier and Joe Linder had starred in music competition recently with "Send Down the Rain". The Junior high choir sang "Rockin Robin" and "A Hamburger and an Order of Fries" with narrator Stephanie Borberich. The Senior high band played "Ja- da", "Romanesque" and "Pevensy Castle".

After a short intermission the Drama Club under the direction of coach Andrea Liston, gave its one-act play "Bridal Terrorism". It was a comedy play and very well given. Acting were Joe Linder, Laurel Hagge, Phil Zimpel, Sheena Groenwald, Steph Borberich, Ross Arlt and Sarah Hagge.

Seniors honored for their band, choir and acting were Rebecca Demarais, Catherine and Joe Linder. Refreshments were served following the program.

Emergency farm loans available through FSA

To help cover production and physical losses in counties declared as disaster areas by the President or designated by the Secretary of Agriculture, Emergency (EM) loans are made through the Farm Service Agency (FSA). For physical losses only, the FSA Administrator may authorize EM assistance.

Emergency loans at an interest rate of 3.75 percent may be made to farmers and ranchers who:

- Are established family farm operators;
- Are citizens or permanent residents of the United States;
- Have the ability, training or experience necessary to repay the loan;
- Have suffered a qualifying physical loss, or a production loss of at least 30 percent in any essential farm or ranch enterprise;
- Cannot obtain commercial credit;
- Can provide collateral to secure an EM loan; and
- Have repayment ability.

Emergency loan funds may be used to:

- Restore or replace essential property;
- Pay all or part of production costs associated with the disaster year;
- Pay essential family living expenses;
- Reorganize the farming operation; and
- Refinance debts.

Repayment period for crop, livestock and non-real estate losses is from one to seven years. Loans for physical losses to to real estate are normally repaid within 30 years. Borrowers are expected to return to conventional credit sources when it is determined they can "graduate" to commercial credit.

All emergency loans must be fully collateralized. Applications for emergency loans must be received within eight months of the disaster declaration date.

Creating dolls is a home business for Kathy Carlson of rural Thief River Falls. Her daughter Sunny, recently crowned Minnesota Angus Queen, created this doll for a 4-H project.

Sunny Carlson reigns as Minnesota Angus Queen

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Since she attended her first Pennington County Fair livestock show in a stroller at four months of age, Sunny Carlson of rural Thief River Falls has never missed any of the annual summer events.

Because she was too young to participate in 4-H club activities, she started showing Angus cattle in open class at the age of six.

She was two years old when she became a member of the American Angus Association and she became a member of the Minnesota Junior Angus Association at the age of seven. (The Carlson farm is officially registered with the state and national associations as CarlSons Angus.)

And Sunny was the only junior in a group of four finalists when she was crowned Minnesota State Angus Queen at the annual meeting and sale of the Minnesota Angus Association in Rochester March 25.

Her coronation continues a northern Minnesota hold on the title previously held by Katie Strickler of Euclid. Katie was the fourth daughter in her family over a period of years to reign as Minnesota State Angus Queen.

Strong Interest In Angus

Sunny's extensive background in showing Angus cattle and her interest in them likely weighed heavily in the interview portion of the competition which emphasized how cattle relate to the contestants' lives. The contest is conducted by the Auxiliary to the Minnesota Angus Association and is open to girls 16 years of age and older. An entry form with information about the candidate is also mailed in advance of the contest.

Responsibilities of the position as Minnesota Angus Queen include attendance at the National Angus Show in July in Georgia; the 4-H, FFA and open shows at the state fair in September; and the annual Angus Heifer Classic in Rochester. She is also encouraged to attend as many area county fairs as she can to assist with award presentations.

County Fair Takes Precedence

Attendance at the national show this year will be waived because Sunny will be showing that same week at the Pennington County Fair. And when she finishes a full day of showing Friday, her brother Todd will drive her to Chicago where she will catch up with the bus carrying area teens to the National Youth Gathering in New Orleans, LA.

Through her 4-H projects and other involvement Sunny has accumulated eight of her own registered Angus cattle which are part of the 65-cow herd on the Carlson farm southeast of Thief River Falls. There are several others in which she has part ownership with her parents, Charles and Kathy Carlson.

Unique Shared Ownership

With a wide smile, Sunny described the shared ownership as her parents owning the front half—which requires the feed and water, and Sunny owning the back half—which produces the calf. It is a comfortable arrangement for Sunny's personal herd increase.

In the showing of Angus cattle, Sunny follows in the footsteps of older brothers Todd, 28; Troy, 26, and Matt, 22—the sons in CarlSons Angus—but she has been no less successful than they were.

In addition to the Pennington County Fair, where she has a perfect attendance record going, she has shown at the Roseau County Fair, Red Lake County Fair, Red River Valley Winter Shows and three times at the Minnesota State Fair.

Shows State Fair Champion

Sunny's top accomplishments in the show ring came in the last two years. Her junior yearling 'CSA Western Blanche' was the reserve champion female at the Red River Valley Winter Shows and the grand champion female at the Minnesota State Fair in 1996, and grand champion two-year-old at the livestock show in the Winter Shows building in 1997.

In her 10 years of membership in the Happy Acres 4-H club, she has consistently earned beef cow-calf, heifer, steer and veterinary science projects. In fact, she typically carries 13 or 14 projects per year, including creative arts, several divisions in clothing, flower garden, health, dog, demonstrations and others.

A Sheltie Named "Sugar"

Her dog is a six-year-old Sheltie named 'Sugar.' It was offered to Sunny the same year she was diagnosed as diabetic, but her dad didn't think the farm needed a dog. Sunny expressed her disappointment that the puppy was 'one more thing that I'm not supposed to have.' She got to keep the dog and gave it the appropriate name.

Sunny is president of the Happy Acres 4-H club and vice president of the Pennington county 4-H leaders council, but 4-H provides only part of her activity.

A swimmer since sixth grade, mostly in freestyle sprints, she has lettered every year and is a captain of the team for 1997-98. She has been a cheerleader for the wrestling team since 10th grade and was a tri-captain in 1996-97. She is a member of Project-4-Teens, was inducted into the National Honor Society as a sophomore and received a volunteer service hour award this year, and participated in the musical as a member of the concert choir.

Sunny has earned her Water Safety Instructor certificate and will teach swimming lessons this summer at the Franklin pool where she has been a lifeguard.

And for those who wonder, yes, Sunny is her real name. Her dad was called "Sonny" by some of his aunts, and on the cloudy day when she was born there were about 15 minutes of sunshine at the time of her birth.

Sunny Leigh Carlson, Minnesota Angus Queen. There is a nice flow to the name and the title....just like it is another thing Sunny is supposed to have.

Flood poses potential problems for livestock

There are a number of environmental consequences of flooding that can directly affect animal health and indirectly, human health, according to Dr. Ashley Robinson of the University of Minnesota College of Veterinary Medicine.

For example, water sources can become contaminated with fecal material, feeds can be spoiled, agricultural chemicals stored in barns or other buildings may be washed into pastures and there may be problems in disposing of animal carcasses. Later, vector borne diseases may also become a problem.

Anything that flood waters contact should be considered contaminated regardless if the item appears dirty or not, Dr. Robinson said. Exposed items or premises should be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected.

Cattle yards, pastures and paddocks that have experienced recent flooding will present ongoing problems for producers. Cattle and calves, in particular, that aren't able to find dry ground on which to lie, will lose a considerable amount of body heat when lying on cold, wet ground. For young calves, this stress increases their susceptibility to calfhood diarrheal diseases.

As lots begin to dry out, animals will concentrate on the dry areas first. The concentration of animals in limited areas will increase potential for the spread and severity of disease problems in the calves. Any practice which can provide a clean, dry area in which animals can lie down will reduce stress and the risk of disease.

As flood waters recede, cattle may be fed hay and grain on the ground when feed bunks and bale feeders are not available. The contamination of feed will increase the risk of problems with coccidiosis. If feed is being fed on the ground, it would be a sound management decision to feed compounds such as Rumensin, Bovatec or Deccox in some grain for the prevention of coccidiosis in cattle. Caution: Both Rumensin and Bovatec are toxic to horses, Dr. Robinson notes.

Poor feed quality will also be a problem to some livestock producers. Hay that has become soaked in the recent flooding is prone to molding as water recedes and the temperatures increase. If environmental conditions are suitable, some of the molds could produce mytoxins. Moldy feeds should not be fed to livestock. Water damaged feed also is going to be of reduced nutritive value.

Certain diseases may be more likely to occur following flooding. Any sudden deaths or abortions should be investigated by a veterinarian who will, if necessary, submit samples to the diagnostic laboratory at the University of Minnesota.

Carcass disposal is important following flooding but is seldom easy. Rendering is preferred, but other legal options in Minnesota include burial (at least three feet deep and five feet above high water level), composting (poultry, swine and small ruminants only) and burning. Emergency disposal in landfills generally requires county or township approval. Call the Minnesota Board of Animal Health at 612-296-2942 for additional information.

Flood evacuees' dogs can receive free dog food

Hill's company, manufacturer of the Science Diet line of pet foods, has donated a supply of dog food for distribution to Grand Forks and East Grand Forks residents who were evacuated with their pets.

Dr. Bruce Pierce of Valley Animal Hospital said a limited supply of Natural Formula dog food in five-pound and 20-pound bags is available at his offices at 1906 East Greenwood near Kordel Furniture in Thief River Falls and at 214 South Main in Crookston.

The offices are open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Evacuees wishing to check on the supply before visiting the offices may call 681-6511 in Thief River Falls or 281-4231 in Crookston.

Maintaining herd records is necessary in a registered cattle operation. Sunny Carlson, recently crowned Minnesota Angus Queen, owns eight of her own registered Angus. She is shown with the herd registry for CarlSons Angus at the family farm located southeast of Thief River Falls.

Ada recipients express thanks

Response of Thief River Falls area residents to needs of flood victims in the Ada community met with great appreciation from those who received the needed supplies.

"Thank you to the people of the Thief River Falls community, to Trinity Lutheran Church and those who brought the needed supplies to centers at Borup and Ada," wrote Rev. Earl Schmidt of Ada, whose church was not flooded and which served as a flood relief center.

"You all helped us in our time of need, not only once but several times," he continued in the note sent to Trinity church shortly after the supplies were received. "As you have helped us, we hope to be able to help others in the Valley, especially during the days ahead."

Argyle, Warren offer spaces for relocation

Cities of Argyle and Warren have prepared a list of available commercial spaces for businesses looking for temporary relocation, according to the joint economic development authority of the two cities.

According to Craig Molstad of the Available Space Inventory Office in Warren, these offerings include office space with telephone hookup, cold storage space and manufacturing space. Companies looking for space during the rebuilding of their own facilities should contact Molstad at 126 West Johnson Avenue in Warren or call 218-745-5343.

Mayors of Argyle and Warren also have directed the economic development office to begin actively marketing their communities as possible building locations for people looking to build outside of the flood plain.

According to the development authority, Argyle is completely encircled by a dike that did not have water approach it from any side in the past flood and none of the community was affected by last season's floods. There is a new development area for home rebuilding being created at this time.

In Warren, overland flooding caused by the Snake River leaving its channel did cause considerable flooding this year and twice last year. There are a number of neighborhoods, including a newly-platted residential development, that lie outside of the 100-year flood plain and were not affected by the past flood.

Nearly a quarter of the existing workforce in Warren and Argyle is presently commuting to jobs in Grand Forks, ND, and Thief River Falls. Both cities are exploring programs that would permit people to purchase lots for little or no money down, and will help arrange financing.

Molstad said the effort is to provide a solution for people who are wondering, 'What area is safe?'

Small grain crop planting lags

Planting of wheat and barley in Minnesota is well behind average with oat plantings right on the average mark, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Through last Sunday, only one percent of spring wheat acreage and two percent of barley acreage had been planted, compared to the five-year average for those respective crops of 18 percent and 14 percent. Oat seedings are 25 percent complete, the same as the five-year average.

Field conditions in south central Minnesota were excellent for planting and corn producers are said to be getting off to the best start of this decade. In the northern Red River Valley, however, flood water covered hundreds of square miles.

Alfalfa and over-wintered grain fields are showing evidence of winterkill. Across the state alfalfa is rated as eight percent very poor, 16 percent poor, 39 percent fair, 35 percent good and only two percent excellent.

Noninsured crop disaster assistance program open

Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) is available through the Pennington County Farm Service Agency and provides crop loss protection for growers of many crops for which federal crop insurance is not available, according to Glenn Schafer, director of the FSA in Pennington county.

Unlike previous disaster assistance programs, producers must file an acreage and production report with the local FSA office prior to the crop reporting date. If acres and yields are not reported on time, producers may not be eligible for assistance, Schafer added.

"It's local, it's funded and the price is right," Schafer said. "There are no administrative fees and the only cost is the time it takes a producer to annually report acres and yields to the FSA office."

Eligible crops are commercial crops grown for food and fiber, as well as floriculture, ornamental nursery, Christmas tree crops, turfgrass sod, seed crops, aquaculture and industrial crops.

Losses resulting from natural disasters not covered by the crop insurance policy may be eligible for NAP assistance. Not covered are trees grown for wood, paper or pulp products.

NAP crops are eligible when the expected "area yield" is less than 65 percent of normal. Payments are made to eligible producers when individual crop losses are in excess of 50 percent of the individual's approved yield at 60 percent of the crop's average market price (determined by FSA). Producers must report losses within 15 days of the crop loss.

Payments to any one producer under NAP cannot exceed $100,000 for any given crop year. The payment rate will be reduced for any crop which is unharvested or prevented from being planted, to reflect the decreased costs incurred.

NAP yields are an average of actual yields for a four to 10-year period. A minimum of four consecutive yields is needed to calculate the NAP approved yield. If acceptable production records are not provided, a yield will be assigned. Most producers will find the assigned yield to be low. For most producers, providing production records will increase their NAP protection.

Spanish language students learn from friends

Amanda Closo, a Spanish language student at Lincoln high school, made several new friends during a visit to the flood relief shelter at the Evangelical Free Church in Thief River Falls. Among them was Jesse Iberre, shown in the photos above. Also in the top photo are Anna Gonzalez and Constentino Iberra. In the middle photo is Jered Brendt, another of the Lincoln Spanish students interacting with Hispanic children at the shelter group of students over to the church during six period (2-3 p.m.) to look at the situation and examine their needs," Mrs. Novacek said. "I first invited the students from my combined Level II and Level IV sixth period class, then the students who will be making this summer's trip to Costa Rica, and finally a few of my more eager and adventuresome Level II students."

Included in the group were Keren Bloom, Jared Brandt, Jacob Broten, Amanda Close, Laura Follett, Reid Froiland, Kelly Hanson, Katrina Hollan, Melanie Johnson, Rebecca Kenner, Melissa Meyer, Kim Morris, Beth Nelson, Jessica R. Nelson, Elizabeth Odette, Tinesha Porter, Jessica Pream, Amie Rumple and Stephanie Wiseth.

Also with the group was Julio Martinez Clark, Amity scholar from Colombia, South America, who has been at Lincoln for the current school year.

"We spent that first hour getting to know the children—reading to them, coloring with them, playing outdoor games with them, and in some instances simply carrying them or rocking them," Mrs. Novacek said. "The youngest was a baby girl less than two weeks old and several of the girls instantly fell in love with her."

The children of families staying at the shelter are being cared for in a variety of ways. Some are transported by bus to Challenger elementary school classes and some are involved in programs such as Head Start, but many are left without organized activities. Visits by the Lincoln students provide a new interest and diversion in their day.

"I don't know who had more fun getting to know one another that first day, the children at the shelter or my students," Mrs. Novacek said. "It was hard for our students to leave, because they didn't want to let go of their new-found friends.

"Before leaving, I spoke with Wendy Mattson, who invited us back on a regular basis. When I mentioned coming back again to the shelter again to the students, they were pleased. 'Do you mean we can continue to work there?' they asked. 'That would be great!'"

From that first visit the project developed into a Level III-IV class project, with students expected to plan lessons and instructional materials. It provides a cultural interaction that cannot be simulated in the classroom and a rare chance to practice their Spanish speaking and comprehension skills. The visits will likely continue as long as the need exists.

The Spanish classroom was also set up as a collection point for items that are needed by the children at the shelter, such as school supplies and back packs. As special needs arise, announcements are made on the school public address system and students and teachers have been generous in their response.

Last Thursday evening a group of students went to the shelter to care for children while their parents attended a meeting at Lincoln with representatives of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). There was a much larger group of children than there is during the afternoon class, and this provided a new experience for all concerned—especially the members of the Lincoln Honor Society who are not Spanish students but volunteered for the experience and to earn volunteer credit hours.

"It went well," Mrs. Novacek said. "Several of the older Hispanic children worked with us and some of my students—bless their hearts—helped with such necessary tasks as changing diapers and wiping faces."

All of the young people now look forward to each of the sessions and there will be a sense of loss as the families leave the shelter to return to their homes or other living space.

"We think that together we have been able to resurrect some good out of a very sad and trying experience for these families who have been the guests of or community," Mrs. Novacek said. "We thank them for their patience as they helped us learn."

Jacob Breten of the Lincoln high school Spanish language class watches as Joseph Ochea takes a hefty swing at a plastic ball on the playground at the Evangelical Free Church. At Jacob's side is Kevin Genzalez and waiting for his turn to bat is Ramire Ochoa.

Tinasha Porter gives two of her new young friends a ride on the merry go round on the playground at the Evangelical Free Church in Thief River Falls.

Elizabeth Ddette helps Eddie Hernandez and Anna Mario Ibarra share containers of liquid for making bubbles on the playground at the Evangelical Free Church. Blowing and chasing bubbles was one of the activities provided by Lincoln Spanish language students to children staying at the church while displaced from their Greater Grand Forks area homes by the flood.

"Kids On Disney" revue set

"Kids on Disney," a musical revue featuring songs from classic Walt Disney shows as well as new productions from Disney Studios, will be presented Saturday, May 10 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, May 11 at 2 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Thirty-eight youngsters in grades three through six are involved in the program made possible with funding from an after-school enrichment grant from the Minnesota Department of Children, Families and Learning and administered through the Thief River Falls Community Education office.

"These grants are targeted at children ages nine through 12, states Patricia Soli, director of community education. "Their purpose is to promote healthy behavior and discourage at-risk behavior in children. This particular program is interesting because it not only provides a positive environment and activity, but also establishes relationships among a variety of children. It can promote acceptance of diverse groups of children and individual self-esteem long after the program has been presented."

Admission is available at the door at a cost of $5 for adults and $2 for students in kindergarten through grade 12.

Concept for the "Kids on Disney" production came from director Kari Frisch and co-director Kristin Buckley. Both are from the Brainerd area where they participated as children in the Windows program, an annual children's musical revue. Buckley now teaches music in the Goodridge school system and Frisch has been involved with several local productions through her company, That's Entertainment.

"I felt there was a need for more art opportunities for the youth in this community," Frisch said. "An experience like this can really make a difference in a child's life. I know the art experiences I received as a child are things I'll always be grateful for, and I wanted to return the favor for these youngsters. Maybe some day they will do the same for the next generation."

Whatever the young people learn from the experience, they know they are having fun. "It's great!," says Brook Mattila.

"It's a fun learning experience," adds Danny Christensen. "It's fun to learn all the music and get to know all the Disney songs."

"It's very, very fun!" exclaims Jillian Larson.

Peter Hoks enjoys "doing choreography and making new friends."

"It's all a lot of fun," says Josh Brekke, "but I think the choreography is the best....or maybe the music ...or maybe because everything is rolled into one."

Frisch and Buckley harbor visions of expanding the experience to all elementary students

"It's a wonderful experience for adults working with these children," Buckley said. "I have been so impressed with how professional they are, so enthusiastic and filled with positive energy. I can be tired at the end of a day of teaching, but within five minutes of being with these kids at practice I'm totally re-energized."

"You know it's a good sign when you get chills listening to them even when you've heard the same songs for four weeks," Frisch adds. "It is so much fun to see it all come together. The kids are doing a great job and they really are having fun."

Participating in the show are the following:

Grade 3—Peter Hoks, McKenzie Comstock, Alyssa Novak, Dane Jenson, Sallie Wiseth, Douglas Brekke and Korbi Fisher;

Grade 4—Ashley Langevin, Brook Mattila, Madi Mills, Jillian Larson, Leah Trontvet, Samantha Rader, Kayla Johnson, Tyla Pream and Danielle Martin;

The program will be presented Saturday, May 10 at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, May 11, at 2 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Admission is $5 for adults and $2 for students in grades K-12.

Mesabi catcher Tommy Kuth couldn't come down with a high throw as Northland runner Angie Vagle completed her slide across the plate in the first inning of Friday's Minnesota Community College Conference softball double-header opener in Thief River Falls.

NCTC softball team sweeps

Mesabi was missing its only pitcher Friday, opening the door to an 18-6, 20-1 Northland sweep of the Minnesota Community College Conference softball doubleheader played in Thief River Falls.

Siri Gilness, who had pitched in high school, but wasn't playing college ball this spring, was persuaded to join the team during the week so Mesabi could play twinbills at Northland and Fergus Falls instead of handing over forfeits. She gave it a shot, but couldn't keep the Pioneers off the bases.

And while the Mesabi pitching situation might have benefitted Northland on Friday, it wound up hurting the Pioneers on Saturday when they needed at least a Mesabi split at Fergus Falls to latch on to a Region 13 tournament spot this weekend. But the Spartans, like the Pioneers, won two.

It was the second straight sweep and fifth straight win for the Pioneers, who climbed above .500 for the first time this spring at 9-8. They are 7-3 in the MCCC Northern Division.

Prowlers run at Detroit Lakes

Thief River Falls entries came up with a half-dozen first place finishes Friday at the Detroit Lakes Eagles Invitational boys and girls high school track meet.

Senior Kyle Nelson led the Thief River Falls boys with a win in the 400 meters and a second place effort in the 200.

Freshman Rachel Mathson joined them in the winner's circle with a victory in the 400.

"They were running with a strong wind in their faces, so the times weren't really what we were looking for," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson. "What we need is some warm weather and no wind so we can really see what the kids can do."

Fergus Falls boys collected 157 points, Park Rapids Area 145, Detroit Lakes 101, Waubun 50, Thief River Falls 46, and Frazee 4.

Moorhead girls took top honors with 164 points, followed by Detroit Lakes with 135, Thief River Falls 78, Fergus Falls 50, Park Rapids Area 45, Waubun 28, and Frazee 26.

Boys golf in two Friday meets

Thief River Falls was involved in a two-part boys high school golf outing at Park Rapids Friday – the Park Rapids Invitational, which featured the usual four-man team scores, along with a two-man scramble format.

In the two-man scramble, each school counted three two-man scores, with Bemidji again winning, this time by a 191-196 margin over Staples-Motley.

The Dick Tyler-coached Prowlers came in with a seventh place 203. Nordin and Nordhagen combined for a 64, which placed them eighth in a field of 84 two-man teams.

Skjerven, Harbott lift Prowlers past Red Lake County

First, Casey Skjerven threw strikes, then Andy Harbott showed his arm Monday as the Thief River Falls battery combined to spark the Prowlers past Red Lake County 6-4 in a wind-blown high school baseball game at Irv Wilson Field.

Skjerven turned in a complete-game pitching performance – a tidy job that included six hits, five walks and three strike-outs. His biggest asset was the ability to throw strikes, especially early, as the junior right-hander walked just two over the first five innings.

With the strong wind blowing in, Harbott found throws to second difficult, at best, as the frustrated Thief River Falls catcher watched Red Lake County steal three bases in the first three innings. But he threw out runners trying to steal in the fourth and fifth, putting a quick end to the visitors' running game.

Harbott also produced the game's big play offensively. With the Prowlers leading 3-2, the junior came up with a two-out, two-run fourth inning double.

A perfectly-executed hit-and-run play provided Thief River Falls with a 6-2 cushion in the fifth as Skjerven singled up the middle to score Wade Chiodo, who had walked and was stealing on the pitch to Skjerven.

Red Lake County, a combination of Red Lake Falls, Oklee and Plummer, converted two walks and an error into a pair of sixth inning runs that scored on an infield single by Andy Raymond and a bases-loaded walk issued to Chris Swendra. But Skjerven got out of the jam with a strike-out and a fly ball out, and managed to keep Red Lake County Central away from the plate in the seventh, despite an inning-opening error and a two-out single.

A second inning bloop single by Swendra scored the first run of the game, and a third inning single to left by Matt Wavra gave Red Lake County a 2-0 head start.

Thief River Falls took the lead in the bottom of the third on an run-producing error and back-to-back sacrifice fly balls by Ryan Rogalla and Chiodo.

It was the first of a back-to-back, home-and-home match-up between the two teams, who met again Tuesday in Red Lake Falls. Monday's outcome put Thief River Falls at 3-6 and Red Lake County, coached by Lincoln High School graduate Chris Nelson, at 3-3.

All seventh, eighth and ninth graders who plan to take part in the program must attend an orientation session. You will not be allowed to use the Lincoln facility if you do not attend orientation. "There will be no exceptions to this rule whatsoever," said Mumm.

Those attending the orientation will receive a strength training pass that must be presented to gain access to the weight room.

New York City, he has done illustrations for major television commercials, books, magazines, heraldic art, and educational films.

In the latter part of his career, Mr. Newland worked for Goldryer, Ltd., as an art restorer helping to restore and preserve the collections of museums and private collectors. He has helped restore the works of such artists as Picasso, Norman Rockwell, Grandma Moses, Andy Warhol and many others. His lifelong career in art illustrates what can become of a Thief River Falls farm boy who simply loved to draw.

Sheldon Joppru graduated from Lincoln High School with the class of 1969. He attended the University of North Dakota and was awarded his B.S. degree in social science in 1973.

Mr. Joppru continued his athletic career at the University of North Dakota where he received a four-year football scholarship in football. He was a starting tight end for four years and had the opportunity to play in the Camelia Bowl in Sacramento, CA.

Gary Paulsen is a 1957 graduate of Lincoln High School. At an early age, a librarian at the Thief River Falls Public Library awakened in Paulsen a desire to read that inspired him to become one of America's leading writers of adolescent fiction.

A vagabond adventurer who has lived in several states across America, Paulsen writes about what he has experienced with exciting realism. "If I write about what it's like up here, it's because I've been up here. And if I write about what it's like to take a dog team to Nome, it's because I did it. . .Everything in these books is realistic."

In 1983 and 1985, Paulsen ran the Iditarod, the grueling 1200 mile dog sled race from Anchorage to Nome, AK, which inspired such books as Winterdance and Dogsong.

Internationally acclaimed, Paulsen's fame was established when he won Newberry Honor Awards for Dogsong (1986), Hatchet (1988), and The WinterRoom (1990). He has captivated young people across America with his "exciting, nonstop action" stories that include more than 140 novels written over the past 30 years. Though he is most famous for his adolescent work, he is also branching out into adult literature with Eastern Sun, Winter Moon (1995).

Mr. Paulsen current resides in New Mexico with his wife Ruth who illustrates his works.

Accidents and thefts reported to local law enforcement officials

Law enforcement officials are investigating the theft of a stolen vehicle and have charged two individuals in connection with the theft of another. They also responded to a number of accidents in the past week.

On April 28 at 8:41 a.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a stolen vehicle from Baker's Acres in River Falls township. The 1993 Ford Probe, valued at $10,400 had a personalized license plate — MIKED. Through investigation, police now believe the vehicle was delivered to Brainerd. It has not been recovered. Charges are pending against Patrick Jerome Myhrer, St. Hilaire, 23, and Donald Earl Anderson, 20, Oklee for theft over $2,500. Both appeared on the charges last Friday and were released on their personal recognizance. While in booking, Patrick Myhrer was found in possession of a substance believed to be marijuana seeds. He was charged with possession of a small amount.

Law enforcement officials are looking for assistance from the public in locating another missing vehicle. The 1985 Buick Riviera, license plate 103 GOA, maroon in color, was reported missing on April 24.

Accidents. On April 30 at 9:47 p.m. law enforcement received a report of an accident at Petro Pumper. James Michael Smsky, 19, Thief River Falls, backing a vehicle out of a parking spot and collided with a pump. No fuel was spilled, but damage to the pump was estimated at $1,500. Smsky was cited for driving after revocation.

On May 1 at 12:53 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Highway 32 and Greenwood Street. Shannon Ratliff, St. Hilaire, was driving on Highway 32 when the car collided in the intersection with a car driven west on Greenwood by Paula Rae Jensen, Thief River Falls. Damages were estimated at $1,200 to the Ratliff vehicle, and $1,000 to the Jensen vehicle.

On May 2 at 10:36 a.m. police received a report of an accident at First and Crocker. Megan Rae Forbargd, Thief River Falls, was driving a car west on First when the vehicle collided with a van being driven by Eileen Cora Stenberg, Thief River Falls. Stenberg was stopped in traffic. She complained of neck pain. Forbargd complained of chest pain and was cited for violation of an instructional permit and inattentive driving. Damages were estimated at $3,000 to the Forbargd vehicle, and $2,100 to the Stenberg van.

On May 2 at 8:38 a.m. police received a report of an accident in the Lincoln High School parking lot. Nicole Marie Bulger, Thief River Falls, was backing a car from a parking spot, while Dallas Aaron Germundson, Thief River Falls, was driving a car northeast in the parking lot and the vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $1,000 to the Bulger vehicle and $1,500 to the Germundson vehicle.

On May 5 at 6:12 p.m. police received a report of an accident on Third Street near Knight Avenue. Darlene Wiseth, Thief River Falls, was driving a van east on Third Street, when Kelly Lynn Almquist, Thief River Falls, pulled from a parking space and the vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $2,000 to the Wiseth van, and $400 to the Almquist vehicle.

Assault. On May 3 at 8:42 p.m. police received a report of a domestic incident. Jeffrey Wayne Boe, Thief River Falls, was cited for fifth degree assault.

Driving while intoxicated. On May 3 at 1:48 p.m. arrested Gary Ervin Klemetson, Sr., Thief River Falls, 47, for driving while intoxicated.

On May 3 at 10:03 p.m. Brenda Kay Baker, 26, Thief River Falls, was arrested for gross driving while intoxicated.

On May 4 at 1:45 a.m. the sheriff's department arrested John Brian Knudson, 36, Grand Forks, for driving while intoxicated.

On May 2 police charged a 14-year-old male with criminal damage to property following a report of damage to the Chief Red Robe Park restrooms. Damage to the restroom was estimated at $200. On April 29, police received a report of the damage which included damage caused by fires started inside the structure, damage to a trash barrel, sewer drain and toilet.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Flood victims paid to clean up communities

An emergency employment aid grant from the U.S. Department of Labor is now available to provide temporary work to people who have lost their jobs or are unable to work because of the flood disaster.

A majority of the work will take place in the federal disaster-designated counties (below) with the most extensive flood damage. Workers will assist in clean-up, repair and reconstruction of both public and private non-profit property so that regular business can resume. Workers may be employed for up to six months, or 1,040 hours, and may not receive more than $12,000 in wages. The prevailing local labor market determines the hourly wage paid to eligible recipients.

There are no residency requirements, but program participants must be unemployed due to flooding. Eligibility is determined on an individual basis. Other Minnesota declared federal disaster counties may be eligible as officials determine the extent of flood damage.

The aid will be administered by Rural Minnesota CEP (Concentrated Employment Program) and the Southwest Minnesota PIC (Private Industry Council). These offices are coordinating closely with staff of Workforce Center, Job Service and Reemployment Insurance offices for the convenience of people also applying for Reemployment Insurance or Disaster Unemployment Assistance.

Work will primarily be available in these counties, hardest hit by the flood, at this time. For more information, contact the office number listed: 1-800-422-1346 for Big Stone, Chippewa, Lac Qui Parle, Swift, Yellow Medicine; 1-800-818-9295 for Lincoln and Redwood; 1-800-500-8731 for Clay and Wilkin; and 1-800-438-5627 for Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk and Roseau.

The Salvation Army issued an immediate request Sunday for volunteers to sort and distribute supply donations to northern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota flood victims.

TRF Fathers and Daughters take part in special program

Last week several area girls took part in Take Our Daughters to Work Day. Two girls who took advantage of the opportunity were Abbie Houske and Jessica Radloff. Abbie rode with her father in a street sweeper and Jessica rode with her father in a locomotive.

Take Our Daughters To Work Day, April 24, was designed to focus attention on the neglected needs of girls. At the beginning of adolescence, many girls experience a sudden drop in self-esteem. While adolescence is also a tough time for boys, approximately 30 percent more girls than boys suffer this decline in the basic feelings about themselves. Girls need extra support and attention to boost their confidence and to believe in themselves. Girls tend to like or dislike themselves based on aspects of their physical appearance. Boys typically identify things they can do with what they like about themselves. Girls need to be encouraged for what they can do with their lives rather than how they look. In addition to the drop in self-esteem, girls are twice as likely as boys to be depressed, girls are 16 percent more likely than boys to develop serious eating disorders in high school, and girls report that they are under far more stress than boys.

Girls also live with a persistent fear of violence, often in intimate relationships. Girls need the support of caring adults, particularly women, to maintain their resilience, health, and mental health as they mature into adulthood. Both in schools and in youth serving programs, boys receive more attention than girls. Take Our Daughters to Work is the only day of the year when girls get the uninterrupted and positive attention of adults. On that Day, girls are on TV and the front pages of newspapers being celebrated and asked about their dreams. Girls need to know that they are important enough to warrant attention.

Both Jessica and Abbie had an opportunity to do things they have never had an opportunity to do before, and spent some quality time with their fathers learning about their line of work, typically, an untraditional job.

John Houske and his daughter, seventh-grader Abbie, were among the individuals participating in Take Our Daughters To Work day on April 24 in Thief River Falls. Take Our Daughter to Work, a national program, is designed to celebrate a girls worth: to value their opinions and ideas, to use their voice to speak their mind, to never stop asking questions, to live proudly in their bodies as they are. Abbie got up at 5 a.m. to spend the day with her father who is a street and sanitation department employee. That day he was operating a city street sweeper. Houske said he has two sons, but they have never gone with him to his work.

Mike Radloff and his daughter Jessica, an eighth grade student in Thief River Falls, participated in Take Our Daughters To Work day on April 24 in Thief River Falls. Jessica had an opportunity to ride on a locomotive.

When I saw Leonard Schmidt at the mall I noticed he had a big smile on his face. I thought he maybe had played a trick on someone, but then he announced he was Grandpa again. I also noticed his wife Tone was smiling and she had a twinkle in her eye too. Nancy and Jerome Schmidt of Trail had a little boy born April 1st. They named him Ryley Douglas. The other grandparents are Douglas and Lori Poir of Mentor. Grandchildren are so precious.

Ray and his wife Delores Lund from Embarrass have been here visiting her sister Lucille Godtland and husband Arne and other relatives and friends. They also attended the 90th birthday party for Ida Haugen on Wednesday at Ida's daughter Ardith Kloth's home in Thief River Falls. They enjoyed an afternoon of visiting and Ida's daughters served a nice lunch including birthday cake. Ida received many birthday gifts.

Eunice and Dave Neconoughy from Rolling Hills Estate California are here visiting her mother Esther Thorsen and the Patti Thorsen family. They also came to help pack Esthers possessions that were still in her apartment. Esther was here on Saturday to supervise. We don't like to see Esther officially move but after her hospital stay living at the First Care in Fosston has proved to be easier for Esther where she gets her meals prepared and nurses are always there to help her when needed. Patty Colby and Patrick came in on Saturday and had dinner with Dave, Eunice and Esther.

Lund Sunday School

The Lund Sunday School teachers and pupils gave us a chance to review with them some of the things that had been taught during the past school year. They presented a play during the service on Sunday "Daniel in the Lions Den." The younger pupils were the lions and while Cory Carlson played the guitar they sang, "I've got a Home in Glory Land" and "Do Lord." Candance Bruggeman is the Superintendent and also taught 4th and 6th graders. Cory Carlson teaches music. Cheryl Nubo teaches 6th, 7th and 8th grades and Lori Carlson teaches preschool, kindergarten and first grade. Superintendent Candance presented the pupils with tokens for their good attendance and faithful work.

The first year pupils were given pins, the second year pupils were given wreaths to fit around their pins and after that a bar was added for each designating the year. At the end of the service the teachers and pupils served sweet rolls, coffee or juice to everyone. Frank Berg furnished the rolls. Thank You Frank!

The program was well organized and very well presented. It was good to see the pupils so orderly. They also showed respect for each other and their teachers. They kept the background noise and disturbance to a minimum which made it easier for us to hear. The following received pins, wreaths or bars: First year pin Brittany Kroening, Breann Wagner and Leah Carlson. Second year wreath—John Bruggeman. Fourth year bar—Ashley Kroening, Sierra Walton, Charlea Walton, Dana Lee, Anna Walton and Grace Walton. Fifth year bar—Sofie Carlson. Seventh year bar—Mike Nybo and Janelle Nybo. Sixth year bar—Ami Bruggeman. Ninth year bar—Elizabeth Brekke.

Kindergarten students at the Mentor school are shown with some of the blankets the received from Arctic Cat Inc. and employees in Thief River Falls.

Arctic Cat donates blankets to children at school in Mentor

"It is so great how all of the communities have come together to help out our neighbors who have been dealing with the flood," writes Wendy Aarestad, a former Thief River Falls resident who is secretary at the Mentor school.

"We have taken 40-plus students into our school and are happy to be able to give these children an education and sense of normalcy. I had talked to my mother, Phyllis Aarestad, who works at Arctic Cat Inc., and wondered if there was someone I could talk to about donations for our school and community. She made a few calls and before I knew it we were getting fleece blankets donated from Arctic Cat."

Wendy Aarestad said that just under 100 blankets were received, all donated by Arctic Cat and the employees who donated their time. She expressed thanks to Chris Twomey, Gary Flynn, all those who sewed, Phyllis Aarestad, Rick Kezar, Mike Lane and Tim Kalinoski for delivering the blankets to Mentor.

"The children were thrilled and the parents touched," Wendy said. "Every single blanket was very much appreciated and we thank everyone for helping to keep these little bodies warm."

Thanks were also given to Bruce Saustad, Edie Brandli and Phyllis Aarestad for the extra donations of clothes, bedding and toiletries.

"They were also very much appreciated and put to good use," Wendy said. "Thanks for caring!"

Strandquist

Northwest Minnesota and Eastern North Dakota is no longer divided by a lazy Red River about 100 feet wide but by the Red Sea of many miles wide in some places. The sand bagging paid off in many places but when holes developed in the dikes, too big for the finger of any little boy in Holland to plug, the water rose so fast that most of East Grand Forks and Grand Forks is still under water. Our hearts and help go out to the victims of the flood and when we see the devastation on TV we can't help but wonder, "Where do you start? The odor and filth seems to be everywhere." Many older folks find it hard to think that the cozy home they had expected to spend their remaining years in is almost in complete ruin, water 6 to 8 ft. deep in the living room or kitchen, where they had spent many years together. In all their days they had never had to take charity, but now what?

On the other side of the coin, there is a group of youngsters in and around Strandquist that I would like to tell about. In July of 1996 the Bethesda Youth Group of Strandquist, cleaned yards, raked, weeded, cleaned and helped around town. Their work grant has awarded them from AAL (Aid Association for Lutherans). With this money the kids purchased swings and sandboxes for two sites in Strandquist.

On April 15th, 1997, Carl Hugg, Mike Nelson and Elliott Leirooth went to Grand Forks to help sandbag. On April 27th, along with AAL the youth group went shopping with a grant from AAL to the Youth Serve Program. They purchased items for the Good Samaritan Nursing Home of East Grand Forks. These flood victims are being housed at the Thief River Falls Northland Community and Technical College gym and cafeteria, 95 evacuees and staff. They bought undergarments, socks, food, clocks and movies. They visited and helped the folks there and had a good time doing it. Those who went to Thief River Falls were Elliott and Allison Leirooth, Stefanie Pettis, Dionna Lindstrom, Linda and Jessie Cormiere, Kele Rud, Sara Rud, Travis Ombler, Patrick Srons, Mike Nelson, Alsuro and Sera Donaldson, Venetia Pettis and Lisa Leirooth. The youth leaders were Jeff and Margaret Donaldson. With a youth group like that we won't have to apologize to the next generation these are real Americans.

Pennington county 4-H club members took part in the Northern Lights Cluster 4-H communication contest held in Newfolden April 22. An Emphatic Vote Gives Voice To Welfare Reform

Beginning Jan. 1, 1998, Minnesotans on welfare will have to work or be subject to reduction of their monthly public assistance check. The legislature was more than emphatic in adopting the measure: The House voted 120-14 in favor of passage while the Senate pitched a shutout at 67-0.

Welfare reform was signed into law by President Bill Clinton last August and the states had until July 1,1997, to report just how they plan to move welfare recipients to work.

For several years, Minnesota has experimented with a welfare pilot program in eight counties that requires poor families with children to work for public assistance, according to Session Weekly, published by the Minnesota House of Representatives. Under the new law, that experiment will become permanent beginning Jan. 1, 1998, and cover all 87 Minnesota counties.

The Minnesota Family Investment Program (MFIP) allows families to accept lower-paying jobs while receiving some public assistance such as extra monthly cash and subsidized child and health care. "In theory," Session Weekly states, "allowing someone to work while still receiving benefits helps a low-skilled parent gain work experience and eventually obtain a better job."

MFIP replaces the former Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program which was eliminated by the 1996 federal welfare law. State and federal laws set a five-year, lifetime limit on receiving MFIP checks.

There are some exceptions to the five-year limit, including victims of domestic abuse who need time to find safety before they can settle into a job.

Under MFIP, a parent or guardian is required to develop a job search and employment plan and accept any suitable job once they have completed all the steps in their plan. As is the case now, the state will continue to pay for employment and job training services.

In a two-parent family, at least one parent must find work right away. Single parent families have up to six months to find work.

According to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which has championed welfare reform for years, welfare case loads have fallen 18 percent since passage of the reform bill last August. The steepest rate of decline was in the first four months after the new law was signed and 650,000 cases went off the list. Welfare caseloads have since fallen in every state except Hawaii.

"There can be no question that many thousands of welfare recipients were taking the money simply because it was there and all they had to do was ask for it," states Dr. Richard Lesher, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

"Others were gainfully employed, accepting welfare under false pretenses. Either way, the minute they learned the gravy train was over—that they would have to participate in tough welfare-to-work programs, they disappeared from the rolls," Dr. Lesher said.

The state with the best record on welfare reform is the state with the toughest criteria for obtaining aid, according to Dr. Lesher. That state is Wisconsin. Over the past 10 years while the nationwide caseload for AFDC rose higher and higher, Wisconsin cut its AFDC caseload by more than half.

"...Wisconsin's Governor Tommy Thompson is offering the nation a civics lesson in the work ethic," Dr. Lesher said. "Most Wisconsin AFDC recipients who fail to find work within a few weeks of entering the program are required to perform community service. If they don't work, their benefits are reduced. Thompson also puts the heat on the welfare bureaucracy to wean recipients off the dole. If they don't do it well, they can be replaced by private contractors."

There is the possibility that Wisconsin's "success" in reducing AFDC caseloads has been created at least to some extent by recipients moving to other states, including Minnesota. With the playing field being leveled nationally, that kind of migration should be reduced.

Under the federal welfare law and beginning with fiscal 1997, each state must show that 25 percent of its families on welfare are working at least 20 hours per week. That jumps to 50 percent working at least 30 hours per week by fiscal year 2002. There are cash penalties for states that do not meet the percentages.

Work may not be a popular concept for those who are accustomed to not doing it. Come to think of it, it may not even be popular among those who are doing it. But it is the recognized means of earning a living. Abraham Lincoln may have put work in perspective best when he said:

"My father taught me to work, but not to love it. I never did like to work, and I don't deny it. I'd rather read, tell stories, crack jokes, talk, laugh—anything but work."

The point is that, love it or not, Lincoln worked. Other people work, often with extreme personal sacrifice or with exceptional effort. And it is only through the work people do that government receives its money to spend. Those who work rightfully expect all those physically and mentally able to also work. There is no space on the income tax form to list welfare recipients as dependents.

Certainly there will be some fine tuning required and some time involved to get the new program fully functional. But the basic premise is good and it should be given every chance... dare we say it?.....to work.

Bob Kruse will be submitting a letter for publication in The Times stating they will be doing a clean up effort and that residents could contact them regarding cleaning up of their property. Other ideas such as using the City of Thief River Falls leaf vacuum and burning ditches were also discussed. Suzanne Browning brought up a concern about the pieces of plastic causing a health hazard to children or anyone else coming in contact with the material.

Lincoln honor graduates recognized at banquet

American Legion Auxiliary scholarship award was presented at the Lincoln high school senior honors banquet Monday in the school cafeteria to Michelle Mathson, daughter of Shelley and Bruce Mathson, by Marilyn Winters, representing Unit 117 of the American Legion Auxiliary. The award includes a $500 scholarship, certificate, pin and medallion.

American Legion scholarship award, which includes a medallion, pin, certificate and $500 scholarship was presented at the Lincoln high school senior honors banquet Monday evening to Reid Froiland, son of Barry and Susan Froiland. Making the award was Charles Richards of Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117.

Scholarship awards given to graduating LHS students

Thirty graduating seniors at Lincoln high school who have maintained a grade point average of 3.50 or higher were recognized at a senior honors banquet Monday, May 12, at the Lincoln high school cafeteria.

Special recognition was given to Reid Froiland, son of Barry and Susan Froiland, and Michelle Mathson, daughter of Bruce and Shelley Mathson, who received the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary outstanding boy and girl $500 scholarship awards; Reid Froiland and Kate Ihle, daughter of Paul and Carol Ihle, who received Lutheran Brotherhood scholarships; and Michelle Mathson, who received the first Thief River Falls Times writing award and $200 scholarship.

Heidi Hoks, a graduate of Lincoln high school and librarian at the Thief River Falls public library, was guest speaker for the banquet, sponsored by the Thief River Falls chapter of the American Association of University Women. Gayle Borchert, AAUW president, gave the welcome and presided at the event.

Congratulatory remarks were given by Mayor Robert Reeve, Curt Neumann, representing the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, Jean Larson, representing the Academic Boosters, and Regina Olson, representing the school faculty. Student response was given by Reid Froiland. Invocation was by Rev. Terri Cuppett, also a Lincoln graduate.

Located on the Black River west of Red Lake Falls, the Schirrick dam has been credited with saving the city of Crookston from extensive flooding this spring. The dam was built in 1984 and this was the first time that downstream flooding conditions had triggered closing of the dam for flood control. Its reservoir filled in one day after the dam was closed, but critical timing of the closure—24 hours before the predicted flood crest in Crookston—reduced the crest by 0.60 to 1.2 feet and prevented water from overtopping the city's dike. In this Red Lake Watershed District aerial photo, the gated outlet to the dam is shown in the lower center portion of the picture. Water to the lower right is backed up behind the dam.

Schirrick dam credited with saving Crookston

Without the protection afforded by the Schirrick dam on the Black River, the city of Crookston would likely have experienced extensive flooding this spring, according to Brent Johnson, district engineer for the Red Lake Watershed District with offices in Thief River Falls.

The Black River is a tributary to the Red Lake River and is located southwest of St. Hilaire. The Red Lake River flows through the center of Crookston and continues on to East Grand Forks, where it flows into the Red River.

Built in 1984, the Schirrick dam has been waiting to be called into action in the event of a major flood threat. Such a threat had not existed until this year, when the dam met the test.

"This year was the first time the Schirrick Dam has been closed to provide flood control," engineer Johnson said. "In the years since its construction, no other floods have been high enough (to require its closing).

"The operating plan calls for closing the dam if the National Weather Service predicts a peak of 26 feet or higher for Crookston, or a peak of 46 feet or higher for Grand Forks/East Grand Forks. The timing is very critical. The dam must be closed 24 hours before the predicted crest in Crookston. We followed this operating plan, and it worked perfectly."

Blake Carlson, an engineer with Widseth Smith and Nolting and a consultant to the City of Crookston, agrees with Johnson.

"The Schirrick dam did a terrific job for us," he says. "The timing of the closure was just right. The dam can hold water on the Black River for one to two days during the crest period. They closed the dam just in time so that the water from the Black River was kept out of the Red Lake River during the crest.

"There was an ice jam near the School board reviews job of school district superintendent

Thief River Falls School District 564 Superintendent Jerry Robicheau was given an excellent job review after six months on the job. Monday night the school board held a regular school board meeting and during the meeting discussed a six-month informal evaluation of Superintendent Jerry Robicheau.

Board Chairman Carl Clark said he was not surprised by the comments of the board. He said Robicheau had done an excellent job. He said the weather had thrown him a few curves but the board was pleased with his performance.

Robicheau thanked the board and credited the staff for much of the success. He said the staff has made his life a whole lot easier.

■ Currently, there are 60 students from flood areas attending school in the school district. Robicheau said there were 45 students at Challenger Elementary school, mostly in upper grades, 11 students at Franklin Middle school, and four students at Lincoln High school. Three of the four students at Lincoln High school will be returning to the East Grand Forks/Grand Forks area shortly. They were not under any obligation to finish school.

Because of the additional students at Challenger, they are trying to do some restructuring. Robicheau said the teachers and students have really welcomed the new students.

■ Lincoln High school has received notification that the school has been accredited for the 1996-97 school year by the North Central Association (NCA) of

FEMA temporary housing units stored at TRF airport

During the past two weeks, mobile homes and travel trailers have been delivered to East Grand Forks and Grand Forks. Some of the travel trailers designated for the temporary disaster housing program administered by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), are being stored in Thief River Falls. About 30 travel trailers are being held in a staging area at the Regional Airport.

"Our goal is to provide safe and sanitary temporary housing in a timely manner," said John McKay, FEMA federal coordinating officer. "This initial delivery of travel trailers and mobile homes will help us reach that goal, and will supplement the existing forms of housing resources that will be utilized for the victims of this disaster."

Travel trailers and mobile homes are made available by FEMA only when other forms of housing resources cannot meet the disaster needs. They will be needed in certain areas of Minnesota due to the large number of displaced people expected to exceed the number of available temporary housing units.

"Providing adequate short-term housing for our flood-affected citizens has been one of the primary concerns of our federal-state-local government partnership," said Ms. Kit Hadley, Commissioner for the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency. "It will require the resourcefulness and cooperation of everyone."

The first units are expected to arrive by May 2, just 10 days after President Clinton and FEMA Director James Lee Witt promised to provide temporary housing resources in declared counties where no other options are available.

People who have already applied for disaster assistance through the FEMA toll-free number, 1-800-462-9029, will be contacted, and depending on their circumstances, a determination will be made on what type of housing assistance would be most appropriate. Disaster applicants do not have to re-contact FEMA or do not have to fill out any special forms concerning these units.

Federal and state officials have been meeting with mayors and Thief River Falls Regional Airport has become a staging area for travel trailers used to assist with housing needs of people in the flood disaster area. At this point, none of the travel trailers will be used by flood victims in Thief River Falls. According to FEMA, more than $11 million has been allocated to assist with housing needs throughout the disaster with an additional $500,000 set aside for travel trailers and mobile homes, which are part of Disaster Housing Assistance. Several area communities, like Thief River Falls, are being used as staging areas. The travel trailers and mobile homes will be available only to disaster victims who cannot be referred to other appropriate temporary housing resources. Temporary housing may include rental units, dormitories, public facilities, state parks, hotels and fish camps. As of Tuesday, there were no plans for setting up any of the travel trailers or mobile homes for flood evacuees from East Grand Forks or Grand Forks in Thief River Falls.

Colleges and Schools. According to the notification from NCA, during the review of the school's report and supplementary information, no violations of standards were noted.

■ After about two years of discussion and negotiation, the school board has reached an agreement with the City of Thief River Falls regarding the sale of the Northrop property. The city wanted to obtain the property for park purposes. According to the agreement, the city will provide the school district certain services and other items equal to $18,000 in value for the property. The services may include, but are not limited to, labor, use of equipment, transfer of equipment, and technical assistance.

In other business: the resignation of Ile Flesche, medical careers teacher was accepted with a recommendation to send a letter of appreciation for her many years of service to the district, the school board approved a contract with the Teamsters Local 320 Food Services Group effective July 1, 1996, through June 30, 1998; the board approved the list of about 175 students expected to graduate from Lincoln High School this spring, the board approved a change in meeting times during the summer from 7 to 6 p.m.; and the board approved a policy regarding GDE substitute non-certified personnel.

Michelle Mathson, daughter of Bruce and Shelley Mathson, is the first recipient of the Thief River Falls Times' writing award to be presented annually to a student who has shown an aptitude for creative expression and demonstrated a proficiency in writing. The award was presented by Times editor Marvin Lundin at the Lincoln high school senior honors banquet and includes a $200 scholarship. The award has been named the "Your Write Real Good" award. Mathson is one of several student columnists who write regularly in The Times as part of the literary arts program of the Northern Expressions School of the Arts.

The school board recognized the following: Walt Redinger, teacher at Franklin, who was named Thief River Falls 1997 Teacher of the Year; Lincoln High School Senior Jennifer Vad who received a silver medal at the Regional Science Fair and will attend the International Science and Engineering Fair in Louisville, KY, May 9-17, the Envirothon teams who will advance to state competition on May 22 — Jenny Brunkhorst, Josh Hendrickson, Nate Keller, Stephanie Leach and Jeremy Seibel, and Paul Frank, Reid Froiland, Cody Huschle, Lacey Huschle and Mike Morris; the Knowledge Bowl team of Reid Froiland, Jordan Goldesberry, Kate Ihle, Chris Pribula and David Voecks which placed 14th in State "AA" competition; Tara Willman of Warren and Deborah Rasmussen of Middle River who completed their high school graduation requirements through the Northwest Area Learning Center; Randy and Karen Moe, representatives of the Horace Mann Insurance Companies, who donated $200 to purchase school supplies for displaced students attending schools in the district as a result of the flood; Universal Screen Print for donating medals and trophies for the Thief River Falls Girls Softball Tournament, the Fourtown-Grygla Sportsman Club, which donated $1,000 to the Lincoln High School Scholarship fund.

downstream end of town," Carlson continued, "and it caused the Red Lake River to go to a stage of 28.4 feet at the center of Crookston. Prior to that, the highest recorded flood stage had been 27.3 feet, set in the flood of 1969. At 28.3 feet, just before the ice jam broke loose, water was beginning to trickle over the top of the sandbags on the dike. Had the additional water from the Black River been flowing in, we would have been in much worse shape."

Brent Johnson said the Red Lake Watershed District closed the Schirrick dam at 9:30 a.m. on April 16, just 24 hours before the anticipated flood crest in Crookston. The result was a reduction in flow and stage downstream. It reduced flows in the Red Lake River at Crookston by approximately 1,000 to 2,000 cubic feet per second, with a corresponding reduction in stage of 0.6 to 1.2 feet. This prevented the floodwaters from overtopping Crookston's dikes.

Charlie Anderson, an engineer with JOR Engineering, was the Red Lake Watershed District engineer when the Schirrick dam was built. He currently is a consulting engineer to the City of Crookston for flood control.

"The Schirrick dam on the Black River is a totally gate-controlled system," he says. "We were looking for a 'peak-trimming' device for Crookston, and the dam was strategically located for that purpose."

Anderson said the dam is on a tributary that tends to be a flash-flood stream, with elevation and a well-entrenched channel. It has limited storage, and historically has been a significant contributor to flood peaks at Crookston.

"The situation this year was critical," Anderson continued. "The national Weather Service gave us a crest prediction that was right on target and the dam was closed at precisely the right time."

Crookston's city administrator, Ray Ecklund, joins in agreement that the performance of the Schirrick dam made a critical difference.

"We would like to see a few more of those projects in the watershed district," he said. "We were, at one point, very close to flooding. I assume that if we wouldn't have had the dam, we could have had water in this community like East Grand Forks did. We think these types of projects are really important."

In addition to the Schirrick dam on the Black River, a number of other projects in the Red Lake Watershed District provide water storage and help control runoff during flood threats, according to Lowell Enerson, administrator of the Red Lake Watershed District.

Enerson said these include the Elm Lake project in Marshall county, the Moose River project in Beltrami county, the Burnham Creek Dam in Polk county; the Good Lake project, on the Red Lake Indian Reservation in Clearwater and Beltrami counties; and the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge.

"In addition to providing flood control benefits, the primary or secondary purpose of all these projects is wildlife habitat or wetland restoration," Enerson said.

Parents urged to get active with children

Physical educators from around the state are encouraging parents to get physically active with their children during May; and throughout the year. According to Minnesota Association of Health Physical Education, Recreation and Dance, (MAHPERD), "children learn by example."

If you enjoy and participate in physical activity, so will your children. According to the recently released Surgeon General's Report of Physical Activity and Health, all adults and children should participate in moderate physical activity at least 30 minutes on most and preferably every day of the week.

Other findings include: nearly half of American youths, ages 12-21 years, are not vigorously active on a regular basis, participation in all types of physical activity declines strikingly as age or grade in school increases, female adolescents are much less physically active than male adolescents.

Television viewing is said to be number one contributor of inactivity and obesity among youth, and the problem continues to worsen. The National Health Examination Survey found that in the 1960s and 1970s children watched an average of two to three hours a day. The survey, repeated in 1990 found that viewing time had almost doubled. One third of children were watching five or more hours a day. Besides being blamed as a major cause of inactivity among children, TV watching also promotes poor eating habits in children. Children who watch TV snack more during the day and are also exposed to more advertisements for foods that are high in fat and sugar. It is no coincidence that obesity prevalence has risen at a parallel rate with TV viewing. Studies show that about one-third of all children are obese, making obesity the most prevalent nutritional disease in the county. (Children's Heart Health Conference Summary, American Heart Association, 1994).

Obesity is a serious health problem for American children — one in five preteens in the U.S. is overweight. Lack of physical activity is considered the single biggest factor in rising childhood obesity rates. (Youth Risk Behavior Survey, Centers of Disease Control and Prevention, 1990).

Lets Go Minnesotans! The long winter is over. Use May as a kickoff to a summer of family activity.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

Flooded by Emotion

Just because the calendar says it's May, it doesn't have to feel like it. April seems to have disappeared. For many, April's a month that will stand out in history, but at the same time it's one not to be repeated.

It started the first Friday in April. A sunny morning soon turned heavy and damp. As a friend and I walked, our hair became wet even though rain did not fall. It was an ominous day; it just felt "weird," for lack of a better word. At the time we didn't know what the rest of the weekend, or the rest of the month, would bring.

By 2 a.m. Sunday morning, we knew. My husband woke me at 3 a.m. saying: "I think I need some help." For the next 17 hours we became very familiar, as did many in town, with a sump pump hole. We found out what happens to sump pumps when the electricity dies.

Dip. Dip. Pour. Dip. Dip. Pour. Up 14 steps. Out the door. Dump water into the driveway. Down 14 steps. Repeat innumerable times.

We experienced exhaustion trying to drain the never-ending flow of water into the sump pump hole for 45 minutes and resting for 30 minutes. As I crouched in front of the hole, lit by candles, dunking my hands into frigid water, I vowed to stock extra batteries, candles and flashlights and invest in a generator.

We discovered how we take heat for granted by wearing at least two layers of clothing, piling four blankets on the bed and waking up to a 39 degree temperature – indoors. We also know what friends will do, those with fireplaces warmed and fed the rest of us.

What happened in the area that first weekend in April was only a glimpse of what was to come.

Before, during and after that early-April, record-breaking blizzard, sandbags flew from Wahpeton-Breckenridge to Fargo-Moorhead to Grand Forks-East Grand Forks. In Thief River Falls we manned our own sandbagging effort. Then in mid-April we heard words like "mandatory evacuation" coming from cities to the west.

As we watched the story on television and the newspaper and listened to tales from friends, we couldn't believe or comprehend what was happening. Two cities, only 50 miles away from here, were virtually emptied. Literally underwater. Almost unbelievable. Unreal.

Even though we weren't directly affected, we wept. The images on television so sad and heartbreaking. The damage to property and psyche so devastating. We shopped there. We ate meals in the restaurants. We drove through those streets. The people are our friends and acquaintances. They are people.

As I watched the pictures, I couldn't imagine what it would be like: to hear the evacuation sirens on the street in the middle of the night, to leave my home with my clothes in a plastic bag, to live in a shelter with thousands of other people, to come home to what's left, to lose everything I had worked for. It's beyond even my over-active imagination. Not for a minute could I envision myself in their shoes.

It was almost difficult continuing with the details of work and life knowing the grief and despair that was occurring just 50 miles west. Almost any news – good and bad – would start a lump in my throat and bring on tears.

Weeks later the images still come to us via the news media. I still find tears springing to my eyes as stories of generosity and perseverance are relayed.

And as the trees start to bud, the flowers bloom and the temperatures warm it's difficult to fathom that it IS May, that we did survive April and the ravages of Mother Nature.

Mrs. International visits with local students

Mrs. International, Carolyn Mosher of Fargo, ND, visited with students at Franklin Middle School and Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls last week. Mosher, who is originally from Argyle, said her goal was to inspire students to be the hero of their own story.

Sixth grade students at Franklin Middle School in Thief River Falls listen to the advice of Carolyn Mosher of Fargo. Mosher is Mrs. International and was visiting friends in Thief River Falls when she was asked to give a presentation at Franklin Middle School and Challenger Elementary school. Mosher grew up in Argyle. Last year she was crowned Mrs. North Dakota and then Mrs. International after a competition held in Texas last August. The goal of her visit at Franklin was to inspire the children to be the hero of their own story.

In speaking to sixth graders, Mosher spoke of a lot of ups and downs during her personal and professional career. She was able to relate some of those experiences to the students' experiences in school.

Mosher became Mrs. North Dakota last year and competed in Texas last August to become Mrs. International. On the way to becoming Mrs. International she has had a lot of experiences very similar to what students are going through.

She reminded students that they're all special and unique just the way they are, and encouraged them to be their own best friend. She encouraged them to treat themselves as good as they treat their best friends.

In regards to happiness, Mosher said "you can't buy happiness". All the material things in life cannot make you better or happier. She urged students to be grateful for what they have. If not, she said, you'll want more and more and it won't bring you happiness.

In regards to friends, she said "being popular isn't where it's at." She urged students to have respect for themselves and tell the truth.

Later, Mosher addressed third graders at Challenger Elementary school on the subject "I Like Me."

Mosher was in Thief River Falls visiting her friends, the Tim and Kristine Loeffler family.

Mrs. International, Carolyn Mosher of Fargo, ND, visited with students at Franklin Middle School and Challenger Elementary School last week. Mosher is originally from Argyle.

PARENTING TIPS
Signs Of Spring

Finally the weather has caught up to the calendar. Spring is here! Signs of spring are everywhere. This is an excellent time to introduce young children to the renewal of life all around.

On a nice day, take a walking tour of your yard or neighborhood. Keep a watchful eye for changes taking place. Point them out and explain what's happening.

For example, warmer temperatures mean trees and bushes begin to bud. Look at the ground for signs of budding flowers. What happens next?

Days are getting longer, birds are returning from their winter homes and will soon be looking for new homes. Can you spot any birds at work?

Decide what nature signs you'd like to check again in a month and note them on a card.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

As you look for signs of spring, label and talk about what you see. Remember that your young child may not remember these things from last year.

Happy Parents' Days (Post- & Pre-)

Since I missed writing about Mother's Day this year, I thought you might enjoy these funnies written by parents. We'll say they are post-Mother's Day, pre-Father's Day. The title is, "Things You Can Learn From Children."

- There is no such thing as child-proofing your house.
- If you spray hair spray on dust bunnies and run over them with roller blades, they can ignite.
- A 4-year-old's voice is louder than 200 adults in a crowded restaurant.
- If you hook a dog leash over a ceiling fan, the motor is not strong enough to rotate a 42 pound boy wearing Pound Puppy underwear and a Superman cape.
- It is strong enough, however, to spread paint on all four walls of a 20 by 20 foot room.
- Baseballs make marks on ceilings.
- You should not throw baseballs up when the ceiling fan is on.
- When using the ceiling fan as a bat, you have to throw the ball up a few times before you get a hit.
- A ceiling fan can hit a baseball a long way.
- The glass in windows, even double pane, doesn't stop a baseball hit by a ceiling fan.
- When you hear the toilet flush and words, "Oh-oh," it's already too late.
- Brake fluid mixed with Clorox makes smoke, and lots of it.
- A six-year-old can start a fire with a flint rock even though a 36-year-old man says they can only do it in the movies.
- A magnifying glass can start a fire even on a cloudy day.
- If you use a water bed as home plate while wearing baseball shoes it does not leak - it explodes.
- A king sized water bed holds enough water to fill a 2000 square foot house 4 inches deep.
- Legos will pass through the digestive tract of a four-year-old. Duplos will not.
- "Play Dough" and "microwave" should not be used in the same sentence.
- Super glue is forever.
- No matter how much Jell-O you put in a swimming pool, you still can't walk on water.
- VCRs do not eject peanut butter and jelly sandwiches even though TV commercials show they do.
- Garbage bags do not make good parachutes.
- Marbles in gas tanks make lots of noise while driving.
- Always look in the oven before you turn it on.
- Plastic toys do not like ovens.
- The fire department in town has at last a five minute response time.
- The spin cycle on the washing machine does not make earth worms dizzy.
- It will, however, make cats dizzy.
- Cats throw up twice their body weight when dizzy.
- Quiet does not necessarily mean "Don't worry."
- A good sense of humor will get parents through most problems in life (unfortunately, most in retrospect).

May is Sports and Fitness Month in MN

Activity supports the academic goals of schools. Activity is not a diversion but rather an extension of a good educational program. Students who participate in activity programs tend to have higher grade-point averages, better attendance records, lower drop out rates and fewer discipline problems then students generally. Activity is inherently educational. Activity provides valuable lessons for many practical situations.

Through participation in activity programs, students learn self discipline, build self confidence, become fit and develop skills to handle competitive situations.

In 1985, the National Federation of State High School Associations sponsored a National Survey of high school principals and nearly 7,000 high school students in all 50 states. The survey, was conducted by Indiana University in cooperation with the National Association of Secondary School Principals. The following are the results of that survey: 95 percent believed that participation in sports and fitness activities teaches valuable lessons to students that cannot be learned in a regular class routine, 99 percent agreed that participation in sports promotes citizenship, and 95 percent agreed that activity programs contribute to the development of "school spirit".

A survey of more than 300 schools conducted by the Minnesota State High School League, showed the average student had a 2.68 GPA, student athletes had a 2.84 average. The average student was absent 8.76 days a year, while student athletes were absent 7.44 days a year.

Deer Park Garden Club news

Lavonne and Richard Radniecki entertained the Deer Park Garden Club at an informal supper at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, April 18. They recently returned from wintering in Mesa, AZ.

The program topic for the meeting was cabbage, with that in mind Lavonne served several different cabbage dishes (cabbage rolls, cabbage salad, sauerkraut, Perfection Salad, and concluded with Chocolate sauerkraut cake.

Lois Swanson presented the lesson on cabbage.

There are four different types of cabbage — the Conical or Wakefield, the round head used for mid-summer salads, the Savoy or crinkled leaf, which has a superior flavor, and the Dutch or flathead, most often used to make sauerkraut.

Cabbage culture requirements are rick soil, moisture, and full sun. Cut worms and cabbage moths are the pests that kill cabbage.

President Norma Hanson called the business meeting to order at 7:30 p.m. The roll call was answered by naming a bid that is seen at home. The secretary and treasurer gave their reports. Bills were paid, including $5.40 for sunflower seeds for the club members.

Tentative plans were to teach one class in the Goodridge school on how to plant marigold seeds and later transplant them into the garden in Tveit Park. A total of $10 worth of flower seeds were ordered.

The May meeting will be hosted by Richard Radniecki. The following members were present: Lois Swanson, Ethel Wiseth, Norma Hanson, Lavonne and Richard Radniecki, Gene and Willia Prestegaard, and Arlene Prestebak. Guests present were Michelle Prestebak and Ernest Swanson.

This week, I have a question for you parents that read this article. How often do you admit when you are wrong to your children? Seriously. Think about it for a little bit. Most would have to admit, not very often.

It may be because most of the time, you parents are right, but there are times when you aren't, and won't admit it. Why is that? Is it because parents can get afraid when it seems they many actually be wrong? Is it because they feel that since they are the parents and should be setting an example, they shouldn't be wrong? I don't know. Only the parents themselves could tell us that.

For example, when a parent and a kid fight about something such as who took out the garbage that spilled because it wasn't tied tightly enough, the kid would have to go back and reconstruct everything he did in order to prove a point. The conservation might go as follows:

"It was your turn to take out the garbage. You didn't tie it tightly enough."

"No, dad. It was not me, it was you. I distinctly remember because I was going to take it out, but then you said to just leave it because you had some other stuff to put in the garage. Then, you said you would take out the garbage."

"That was not when the garbage was supposed to go out. I remember because the bag ripped and you had to get another bag before you took it out."

"That was last week because it was raining when that happened because we were worried that the rain might seep into the bag."

The conversation could go on and on like this or until someone admits they were wrong. Usually, I will bet the kids are the ones who end up admitting they are wrong, whether they are or not. The famous reasons the parents give? "I'm the parent, you're the kid" or "I'm the parent, that's why" or "I'm the parent, that's what makes me right." There are other excuses, but these are the ones most often heard.

Sometimes parents do admit when they are wrong, but it seems that it's only when there is no way to prove themselves otherwise. The kids are always the ones admitting defeat. It's like when kids and parents fight, and the kid says something, and all of a sudden, the mom or dad tells them to drop the subject in a threatening tone. Perhaps the kid was getting a little too close to the truth. If the kid doesn't drop it, the parent gets more angry and more angry until the kid stops pressing the issue.

This article is not meat to criticize parents. It's just me trying to figure out why it seems parents have such a difficult time admitting they are wrong. I guess it's basically adults in general that have difficulty admitting they are wrong, not just parents. It's just easier to use parents as an example because people my age are closer to them.

For example, the people at the weather bureau still refuse to admit they were wrong when it came to predicting the crest of the Red River in Grand Forks. They only underestimated the crest by five feet, yet they blame bridges, temperature factors, computer models, etc. Two cities were destroyed and over 50,000 people were driven from their homes, but will we ever hear them say, "We just blew it. We're sorry." I doubt it.

All the years we have been growing up, parents teach us that we should admit when we are wrong, yet it seems they have a difficult time following their own advice. Maybe one reason parents teach kids to admit when they are wrong is to help us grow up and learn from our mistakes. However, just because a person is an adult, doesn't mean they can't learn from their mistakes. No matter how old we are, we are always learning from our mistakes. Adults just don't usually make as many as the kids do. It's just that when they do, they have more difficulty admitting they are wrong.

I hope that any parents reading this don't get offended. Here's a question I have for you adults: How often do you admit you are wrong? If kids must learn to admit when they are wrong, maybe adults should too.

Successful blood drive held by Grygla/Gatzke/Skime Lions/Lioness

Grygla/Gatzke/Skime has once again sponsored a very successful drive, according to Rhonda Ellefson, community relations representative at United Blood Services.

"Grygla/Gatzke/Skime had an outstanding turnout. Out of 83 people who volunteered to donate, 68 were able to give. There were 17 people who donated for their first time!"

Ralph Rundell coordinated the drive. The Lions and Lioness sponsored the drive. Others who assisted with the drive were Ardell Roen, Gail Lian, Phyllis Wikert, Delores Saul, Lynette Jelle, Eunice Stavenes, Ione Aune, Hazel Aune, Roy Nordby, Hazel Holthusen, Laudy Sistad, Randy Homme and Loren Lusignan and the staff and students of Grygla High School. Space to hold the drive was provided at the Grygla Community Center.

The availability of blood is dependent on the success of blood drives held in many communities. The citizens of the Grygla/Gatzke/Skime area can be assured that their community is a good example of a well-run blood program.

Pain may be eliminated for millions
(SPECIAL)—A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis®" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non staining cream or new easy applicator liquid form. Arthur Itis® is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Mrs. International visits with local students

Mrs. International, Carolyn Mosher of Fargo, ND, visited with students at Franklin Middle School and Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls last week. Mosher, who is originally from Argyle, said her goal was to inspire students to be the hero of their own story.

In speaking to sixth graders, Mosher spoke of a lot of ups and downs during her personal and professional career. She was able to relate some of those experiences to the students' experiences in school. Mosher became Mrs. North Dakota last year and competed in Texas last August to become Mrs. International. On the way to becoming Mrs. International she has had a lot of experiences very similar to what students are going through.

She reminded students that they're all special and unique just the way they are, and encouraged them to be their own best friend. She encouraged them to treat themselves as good as they treat their best friends.

In regards to happiness, Mosher said "you can't buy happiness". All the material things in life cannot make you better or happier. She urged students to be grateful for what they have. If not, she said, you'll want more and more and it won't bring you happiness.

In regards to friends, she said "being popular isn't where it's at." She urged students to have respect for themselves and tell the truth.

Later, Mosher addressed third graders at Challenger Elementary school on the subject "I Like Me."

Mosher was in Thief River Falls visiting her friends, the Tim and Kristine Loeffler family.

Sixth grade students at Franklin Middle School in Thief River Falls listen to the advice of Carolyn Mosher of Fargo. Mosher is Mrs. International and was visiting friends in Thief River Falls when she was asked to give a presentation at Franklin Middle School and Challenger Elementary school. Mosher grew up in Argyle. Last year she was crowned Mrs. North Dakota and then Mrs. International after a competition held in Texas last August. The goal of her visit at Franklin was to inspire the children to be the hero of their own story.

PARENTING TIPS

Signs Of Spring

Finally the weather has caught up to the calendar. Spring is here! Signs of spring are everywhere. This is an excellent time to introduce young children to the renewal of life all around.

On a nice day, take a walking tour of your yard or neighborhood. Keep a watchful eye for changes taking place. Point them out and explain what's happening.

For example, warmer temperatures mean trees and bushes begin to bud. Look at the ground for signs of budding flowers. What happens next?

Days are getting longer, birds are returning from their winter homes and will soon be looking for new homes. Can you spot any birds at work?

Decide what nature signs you'd like to check again in a month and note them on a card.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

As you look for signs of spring, label and talk about what you see. Remember that your young child may not remember those things from last year.

Happy Parents' Days (Post- & Pre-)

Since I missed writing about Mother's Day this year, I thought you might enjoy these funnies written by parents. We'll say they are post-Mother's Day, pre-Father's Day. The title is, "Things You Can Learn From Children."

- There is no such thing as child-proofing your house.
- If you spray hair spray on dust bunnies and run over them with roller blades, they can ignite.
- A 4-year-old's voice is louder than 200 adults in a crowded restaurant.
- If you hook a dog leash over a ceiling fan, the motor is not strong enough to rotate a 42 pound boy wearing Pound Puppy underwear and a Superman cape.
- It is strong enough, however, to spread paint on all four walls of a 20 by 20 foot room.
- Baseballs make marks on ceilings.
- You should not throw baseballs up when the ceiling fan is on.
- When using the ceiling fan as a bat, you have to throw the ball up a few times before you get a hit.
- A ceiling fan can hit a baseball a long way.
- The glass in windows, even double pane, doesn't stop a baseball hit by a ceiling fan.
- When you hear the toilet flush and words, "Oh-oh," it's already too late.
- Brake fluid mixed with Clorox makes smoke, and lots of it.
- A six-year-old can start a fire with a flint rock even though a 36-year-old man says they can only do it in the movies.
- A magnifying glass can start a fire even on a cloudy day.
- If you use a water bed as home plate while wearing baseball shoes it does not leak - it explodes.
- A king sized water bed holds enough water to fill a 2000 square foot house 4 inches deep.
- Legos will pass through the digestive tract of a four-year-old. Duplos will not.
- "Play Dough" and "microwave" should not be used in the same sentence.
- Super glue is forever.
- No matter how much Jell-O you put in a swimming pool, you still can't walk on water.
- VCRs do not eject peanut butter and jelly sandwiches even though TV commercials show they do.
- Garbage bags do not make good parachutes.
- Marbles in gas tanks make lots of noise while driving.
- Always look in the oven before you turn it on.
- Plastic toys do not like ovens.
- The fire department in town has at last a five minute response time.
- The spin cycle on the washing machine does not make earth worms dizzy.
- It will, however, make cats dizzy.
- Cats throw up twice their body weight when dizzy.
- Quiet does not necessarily mean "Don't worry."
- A good sense of humor will get parents through most problems in life (unfortunately, most in retrospect).

May is Sports and Fitness Month in MN

Activity supports the academic goals of schools. Activity is not a diversion but rather an extension of a good educational program. Students who participate in activity programs tend to have higher grade-point averages, better attendance records, lower drop out rates and fewer discipline problems then students generally. Activity is inherently educational. Activity provides valuable lessons for many practical situations.

Through participation in activity programs, students learn self discipline, build self confidence, become fit and develop skills to handle competitive situations.

In 1985, the National Federation of State High School Associations sponsored a National Survey of high school principals and nearly 7,000 high school students in all 50 states. The survey, was conducted by Indiana University in cooperation with the National Association of Secondary School Principals. The following are the results of that survey: 95 percent believed that participation in sports and fitness activities teaches valuable lessons to students that cannot be learned in a regular class routine; 99 percent agreed that participation in sports promotes citizenship; and 95 percent agreed that activity programs contribute to the development of "school spirit".

A survey of more than 300 schools conducted by the Minnesota State High School League, showed the average student had a 2.68 GPA, student athletes had a 2.84 average. The average student was absent 8.76 days a year, while student athletes were absent 7.44 days a year.

Deer Park Garden Club news

Lavonne and Richard Radniecki entertained the Deer Park Garden Club at an informal supper at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, April 18. They recently returned from wintering in Mesa, AZ.

The program topic for the meeting was cabbage, with that in mind Lavonne served several different cabbage dishes (cabbage rolls, cabbage salad, sauerkraut, Perfection Salad, and concluded with Chocolate sauerkraut cake.

Lois Swanson presented the lesson on cabbage.

There are four different types of cabbage — the Conical or Wakefield, the round head used for mid-summer salads, the Savoy or crinkled leaf, which has a superior flavor, and the Dutch or flathead, most often used to make sauerkraut.

Cabbage culture requirements are rich soil, moisture, and full sun. Cut worms and cabbage moths are the pests that kill cabbage.

President Norma Hanson called the business meeting to order at 7:30 p.m. The roll call was answered by naming a bird that is seen at home. The secretary and treasurer gave their reports. Bills were paid, including $5.40 for sunflower seeds for the club members.

Tentative plans were to teach one class in the Goodridge school on how to plant marigold seeds and later transplant them into the garden in Tveit Park. A total of $10 worth of flower seeds were ordered.

The May meeting will be hosted by Richard Radniecki. The following members were present: Lois Swanson, Ethel Wiseth, Norma Hanson, Lavonne and Richard Radniecki, Gene and Willia Prestegaard, and Arlene Prestebak. Guests present were Michelle Prestebak and Ernest Swanson.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Jenna Tsukichi
Lincoln High School

This week, I have a question for you parents that read this article. How often do you admit when you are wrong to your children? Seriously. Think about it for a little bit. Most would have to admit, not very often.

It may be because most of the time, you parents are right, but there are times when you aren't, and won't admit it. Why is that? Is it because parents can get afraid when it seems they many actually be wrong? Is it because they feel that since they are the parents and should be setting an example, they shouldn't be wrong? I don't know. Only the parents themselves could tell us that.

For example, when a parent and a kid fight about something such as who took out the garbage that spilled because it wasn't tied tightly enough, the kid would have to go back and reconstruct everything he did in order to prove a point. The conservation might go as follows:

"It was your turn to take out the garbage. You didn't tie it tightly enough."

"No, dad. It was not me, it was you. I distinctly remember because I was going to take it out, but then you said to just leave it because you had some other stuff to put in the garage. Then, you said you would take out the garbage."

"That was not when the garbage was supposed to go out. I remember because the bag ripped and you had to get another bag before you took it out."

"That was last week because it was raining when that happened because we were worried that the rain might seep into the bag."

The conversation could go on and on like this or until someone admits they were wrong. Usually, I will bet the kids are the ones who end up admitting they are wrong, whether they are or not. The famous reasons the parents give? "I'm the parent, you're the kid" or "I'm the parent, that's why" or "I'm the parent, that's what makes me right." There are other excuses, but these are the ones most often heard.

Sometimes parents do admit when they are wrong, but it seems that it's only when there is no way to prove themselves otherwise. The kids are always the ones admitting defeat. It's like when kids and parents fight, and the kid says something, and all of a sudden, the mom or dad tells them to drop the subject in a threatening tone. Perhaps the kid was getting a little too close to the truth. If the kid doesn't drop it, the parent gets more angry and more angry until the kid stops pressing the issue.

This article is not meat to criticize parents. It's just me trying to figure out why it seems parents have such a difficult time admitting they are wrong. I guess it's basically adults in general that have difficulty admitting they are wrong, not just parents. It's just easier to use parents as an example because people my age are closer to them.

For example, the people at the weather bureau still refuse to admit they were wrong when it came to predicting the crest of the Red River in Grand Forks. They only underestimated the crest by five feet, yet they blame bridges, temperature factors, computer models, etc. Two cities were destroyed and over 50,000 people were driven from their homes, but will we ever hear them say "We just blew it. We're sorry." I doubt it.

All the years we have been growing up, parents teach us that we should admit when we are wrong, yet it seems they have a difficult time following their own advice. Maybe one reason parents teach kids to admit when they are wrong is to help us grow up and learn from our mistakes. However, just because a person is an adult, doesn't mean they can't learn from their mistakes. No matter how old we are, we are always learning from our mistakes. Adults just don't usually make as many as the kids do. It's just that when they do, they have more difficulty admitting they are wrong.

I hope that any parents reading this don't get offended. Here's a question I have for you adults. How often do you admit you are wrong? If kids must learn to admit when they are wrong, maybe adults should too.

Successful blood drive held by Grygla/Gatzke/Skime Lions/Lioness

Grygla/Gatzke/Skime has once again sponsored a very successful drive, according to Rhonda Ellefson, community relations representative at United Blood Services.

"Grygla/Gatzke/Skime had an outstanding turnout. Out of 83 people who volunteered to donate, 68 were able to give. There were 17 people who donated for their first time!"

Ralph Rundell coordinated the drive. The Lions and Lioness sponsored the drive. Others who assisted with the drive were Ardell Roen, Gail Lian, Phyllis Wikert, Delons Saul, Lynette Jelle, Eunice Stavenes, Ione Aune, Hazel Aune, Roy Nordby, Hazel Holthusen, Laudy Sistad, Randy Homme and Loren Lusignan and the staff and students of Grygla High School. Space to hold the drive was provided at the Grygla Community Center.

The availability of blood is dependent on the success of blood drives held in many communities. The citizens of the Grygla/Gatzke/Skime area can be assured that their community is a good example of a well-run blood program.

Gunstad wins psychology award in MN

John Gunstad, a Moorhead State University senior from St. Hilaire, is co-winner of the annual Donald G. Paterson Award given to the outstanding senior psychology major in the state of Minnesota.

This is the first time in the 28-year history of the award, sponsored by the Minnesota Psychological Association, that it has gone to a state university student.

Gunstad, a 1993 graduate of Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls, is the son of James and Rose Gunstad. He came to MSU under an Honors Apprentice Scholarship and for the last three years has apprenticed under the supervision of MSU psychology professor Richard Kolotkin.

After earning his degree this spring, Gunstad will attend graduate school at Ohio University, which has awarded him a full-tuition waiver along with $8,000 annual scholarship — good for each of the next five years. The total package is worth about $100,000.

Filing deadline for disaster unemployment extended to June 30

Pain may be eliminated for millions
(SPECIAL)— A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis®" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new easy applicator liquid form. Arthur Itis® is guaranteed to work or your money back.

American Cancer Society community crusade May 19-30

American Cancer Society's Community Crusade will take place in Thief River Falls May 19-30. There is only one American Cancer Society, which is symbolized by the sword.

In the early part of the century, there was little hope of long term survival after a cancer diagnosis. Today, with what has been learned about prevention, early detection and treatment, cancer survival rates are increasing dramatically.

Regular screening and self-exams can detect cancers of the breast, tongue, mouth, colon, rectum, cervix, prostate, testis, and melanoma at an early stage, when treatment is more likely to be successful. These sites include over half of all new cases. Of these cases, about two-thirds of all patients will survive five years. With early detection, that survival rate would be 95 percent.

In this community, the American Cancer Society reaches out with a wide range of educational opportunities for those who want to prevent cancer, and support services for those experiencing cancer.

The strength behind these services and education lies in volunteers and in contributions.

The American Cancer Society offers information and services to help individuals learn about cancer prevention and early detection. Look for friends and neighbors in April going door-to-door. They are volunteers for the American Cancer Society's Community Crusade. These volunteers will be delivering life-saving information, and asking for your help.

Volunteers going door-to-door should return their packets to John G. Kinnard & Co. by June 6.

Diversity is Older American's month theme

The Minnesota Board on Aging is emphasizing cultural diversity during Older Americans Month this May, focusing on the diverse contributions made to our society, reflected in the state theme "Older Minnesotans — A Patchwork Quilt of Cultural Diversity".

This annual statewide observance is designed to recognize the many and varied contributions that older Minnesotans make to our society. Ken Moritz, board chair, believes that "valuing our older Minnesotans and their differences can be a beneficial process of learning from and about each other, thereby enhancing our own potential." Who is to be considered elderly is not determined by wrinkles and other physical attributes, but by a culture's segmentation of the life span and by a special complex of roles, status, relationships and attitudes. A Russian folk proverb states that "Where white hairs are, there is good sense, there is right."

Almost everywhere in the non-western world the older adults are viewed as the great repositories of tradition and time-tested wisdom, the guardians and transmitters of moral standards, the oral or written chroniclers of their group's past experiences, and the chief keepers and perpetuators of their society's cultural identity and historical continuity. In many cultures it is the grandparents, not the parents, who represent the chief intergenerational conveyors of practical skills, proper manners and social etiquette.

The tendency of people in most cultures of the world is to take pride in their advancing years, which bring increasing power and prestige. The ethnic ties provide older persons with an identity based on cultural norms, which may shelter them from many of the problems encountered by other older persons. Within the ethnic group, age alone may vest them with prestige, respect, and the right for assistance from their families. Conversely, as ethnic traditions begin to break down in the younger generations, the older family members may find themselves isolated and discontent as children no longer adhere to traditional familial values.

The Minnesota Board on Aging also recognizes the contributions of older adults with two state-wide programs. As intergenerational effort, the Sixth Grade Essay Contest, encourages sixth grade students to write about their grandparents or best older friend, detailing a special bond or relationship they share. The other program is the Outstanding Senior Citizens selection which is held in cooperation with the Minnesota State Fair and the Federation of County fairs. Each county selects a man and women for outstanding service to their communities who are honored during a recognition ceremony at the State Fair.

The board consists of 25 members who are appointed by the Governor. It is the State unit on aging which funds 14 Area Agencies on Aging, who provide services at the local level. These services include senior dining, transportation, legal assistance, chore/housekeeping, etc. . . .

LHS bands give final '96-'97concert

Lincoln high school bands presented their final concert of the 1996-97 school year Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. The concert included performances by the Jazz Band, Concert Band and Wind Ensemble, all under the direction of Bruce Felt.

This was the final Lincoln concert for 26 seniors. They include: Flute—Jessica Brekke, Anne Halvorson, Angie Judd and Kylie Peterson; clarinet—Kim Hook, Elizabeth Odette and LeAnn Olson; bass clarinet—Gretchen Batalden and Amanda Close; alto saxophone—Ross Cleven, Mickey McEnelly, Kim Morris and Amy Wessel, and tenor saxophone—Rebecca Kenner;

Also baritone saxophone—Jared Brandt, trumpet—Matt Gustafson, Kate Ihle, Stacy Narlock and Aaron Sjaaheim; horn—Chris Pribula; trombone—Reid Froiland and Kyla Skiple; euphonium—Nels Brown; and percussion—Erica Haglund, Nathan LaRoque and William Packard.

Featured soloists during the Jazz Band portion of the concert were Reid Froiland on trombone, Rebecca Kenner on tenor saxophone, Luke Torgerson on trumpet and Cody Hempel on guitar.

Concert Band numbers included one conducted by graduating senior Reid Froiland and Gustav Holst's First Suite for Military Band in E flat. "This is a class one piece of music and it is a credit to the members of the concert band that they are able to perform it," director Felt said.

Opening Wind Ensemble number Rejouissance featured solos by many members of the band. The second number featured the band's percussion section. Closing the concert was a combined band presentation of America, the Beautiful.

Band Boosters served a reception in honor of the seniors in the school cafeteria following the concert.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING AIRPORT ZONING ORDINANCE

Notice is hereby given that a second public hearing will be held before the Thief River Falls Joint Airport Zoning Board for the purpose of considering the adoption of an Airport Zoning Ordinance in the area of the Thief River Falls Regional Airport. The initial public hearing was held on July 18, 1995. Revisions to the Airport Layout Plans, including realignment of the proposed crosswind runway, have been made since that time in order to mitigate certain zoning issues which were raised.

The public hearing will be held on th 29th day of May, 1997, commencing at 7:00 P.M. at the Heritage Community Center located at 301 East 4th Street. The proposed Ordinance and accompanying maps is available for public inspection during regular business hours at the office of the Thief River Falls Public Works Director, 324 East Second Street, Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

The property affected by the proposed Airport Zoning Ordinance is some, but not all, of the land lying within 14,500 feet of the airport's runways. The types of restrictions proposed for each area are set forth in detail in the proposed Ordinance and maps.

The precise restrictions which would be imposed vary, depending on the location of the property. The restrictions generally regulate the height of structures, the location or size, and use of buildings and the density of population. The most restrictive provisions would apply to areas located in a trapezoidal area off the end of each runway, which area extends out from the end of the runway a distance equal to the length of the runway plus two hundred feet.

Persons who believe that they may be affected by the proposed Ordinance are encouraged to review it and ascertain the specific impact which it would have on their property.

Nominations sought for Oustanding Seniors

Nominations from Pennington county residents are being solicited for the Outstanding Senior Citizens of this county in 1997, according to the selection committee chaired by Cliff Larson of Thief River Falls, a past Outstanding Senior Citizen selection for Pennington county and the State of Minnesota.

To be selected are one man and one woman who are 78 years of age by August 1 and whose outstanding community involvement can serve as an example to others in the county. They will be honored at the Pennington County Fair on Friday, July 18.

Those selected will receive special certificates of commendation from Gov. Arne Carlson and their names will be submitted to the Minnesota Board on Aging for the selection process for the state Outstanding Senior Citizens awards. The winners are announced at the Minnesota State Fair senior day the second Thursday of the fair.

Persons wishing to make nominations for the county awards can obtain official nomination blanks by writing to Cliff Larson at 102 North Spruce Avenue, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. The entry forms can also be picked up at the Heritage Community Center, public library and The Times office in Thief River Falls and the Area Agency on Aging office in Warren.

Deadline for acceptance of the nomination forms is June 15.

Judging will be based primarily on the number and variety of contributions nominees have made to their communities after age 65.

Nominees must be residents of Minnesota. Previous county winners, not selected as state winners, are now eligible to participate again at the county level. This is a change from previous years.

Selection of Minnesota's Outstanding Senior Citizens is a joint effort of the Minnesota Board on Aging, the State Fair Board and the Minnesota Federation of County Fair Officers.

local leaders in flood-affected communities to explore every possible temporary housing option. The travel trailers and mobile homes will be available only to disaster victims who cannot be referred to other appropriate temporary housing resources. Temporary housing may include rental units, dormitories, public facilities, state parks, hotels, and fish camps.

These units are being transported through various states. Each state may require separate permits and special escorts. "It's not as easy as it appears," McKay said. "While we requested these units very quickly, they just can't be hooked up to a truck and hauled in."

Plans are being finalized to determine the most appropriate locations for these units. Pad sites for mobile homes must be established outside the floodplain, meeting state codes. Sewers, electricity and other services must be in place before the units may be occupied. Local and state authorities will determine the placement procedures for travel trailers.

"We're moving fast on providing adequate temporary housing and we will continue to explore all possible federal, state and local housing options to assist the affected residents," McKay said.

Strandquist

Judy Kleinvachter brought birthday wishes to Frank Grochowski on Sunday afternoon.

In November of '96 the Bethesda Youth and AAL bought all the goodies needed for a Thanksgiving dinner. They packed the boxes and distributed them to needy families in Strandquist, Newfolden and Karlstad area.

Isaac and Daisy Thompson flew to Missouri on Saturday to spend a couple of weeks with their daughter Barb and her husband Tom Woodruff.

Pearl Thompson and Martye Lafrooth visited Elsie Lafrooth on Friday.

Judy Kleinvachter visited Ellen Stromberg and Frank Grochowski on Thursday to wish Ellen a belated Happy Birthday.

The weather in Northwest Minnesota has been doing its best to help the flood victims get started on the clean-up and get their lives straightened around with sunny days and little rain. It's a handful when you can see the water level measured on your living room walls and you can't figure out if it is possible to redo those favorite pieces of furniture that have been swimming around in the house for a couple of weeks or if they have to take their place on the sidewalk for the garbage man. I'll bet that a lot of time is spent reminiscing about each one before the final decisions are made. I love antiques, be they furnishings or humans, so this would really present a problem for me. My only problem is watching a fat robin checking out the hedge very near the chokecherry tree but she doesn't know that Roy says he is going to trim it quite close, one of these days. It could be it is one of those robin babies that grew up on green chokecherries last year.

The UPS man brought Roy the cutest little tiller today. He says it is just my size and as soon as he gets it put together he wants to see it it fits my hands. He smiled when he said it so I think he is going to use it himself, maybe.

On Thursday, Roy took his brother Johnny to Thief River Falls where he got his new sound system put in. The hearing aid was lost in the shuffle when he was at the hospital in Grand Forks during the flood. Now if he can get to a dentist, he may get a replacement for the lower dental bridge that he came to Thief River Falls without. He's feeling fine again and is only staying in the nursing home to have therapy until he gets a bit more steady on his legs. He was in church on Sunday and then he joined Isaac Thompson, Walter Thompson and Elsie Lofrooth at the Roy Vogle home for dinner.

Visitors of Goyhard Nelsons on Sunday were Myron Nelson, Donny Larson, Russell Grandstrand, Brenda Kasprowicz, and Shaloma, Sherry Nelson, Sarah and Jordon.

Vance and Adrienne Lofrooth and Gloria Renstrom visited Elsie Lofrooth on Tuesday.

Judy, Lois and Kristin Kleinvachter attended the benefit for Ellen Stromberg on Saturday evening at the Strandquist Center.

Information about the beef industry, contained in a videotape entitled "Minnesota's Proud Tradition...Agriculture" and in written material, was presented to Juneal Peterson at Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls recently by Wes Schroeder (left) and Tom Schaef of Farmers Co-op Country Store in Thief River Falls. Schroeder explained that the material is intended to help students in rural areas as well as larger cities learn more about agriculture and a farming enterprise that is a major contributor to the state's economy.

We are happy to hear little baby Daniel hopes to come home from the hospital this week and we're happy for his parents, Marci and Steven Walne.

Visitors at the Arnold Brovold home on Tuesday were their granddaughter Sanna Torgerson, and her roommate Jennifer Ryan of Minot, ND. They are both students at the University of North Dakota and came to Thief River Falls at 4 o'clock Saturday morning to escape the flood and come across the bridge just 20 minutes before it was closed.

Visitors at Ellie Handys on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Corey Hanson of St. Cloud, Mr. and Mrs. Marty Levin of Eagen, Lyn Turenne, Mrs. Jon Handy and Sara of Grand Forks, Marlan Handy, Mrs. Paul Grover of Chisago City, Elaine Ness of Embarrass and Andria Koplien of Bemidji.

Luke Torgerson who plays the trumpet in the Lincoln high school band has been selected to the Minnesota All State Jazz Ensemble. Students auditioned during a week long musicians camp in August at Gustavus Adolphus in St. Peter with Gene Aitken from University of Northern Colorado conducting. The Jazz Band will perform at the Minnesota Music Education Association Clinic next February.

It is good to know spring is here for many reasons, one happy reason the people escaping our heavy snowfall are coming back. We saw John and Faye Heden this morning, they returned on April 24 from Indian Lake Estates Florida. Wayne Brekke and Gary Evje are back. We may not see them so often they are busy working the fields already. We hope for you a good crop this year.

We have had another special couple visiting in the Gully area. Nathan Walne and his wife Rhonda. Nathan is back in his former territory they arrived from San Diego, CA for a weeks visit. We remember Nathan being here with his father Olaf visiting Nathans grandparents Bud and Pearl. Olaf joined the Navy when he was 17 years old and served his country for 20 years. Most people here knew him as "The Sailor". It was special to see a sailor in his nice Navy Uniform in Gully. Besides being a sailor he would greet us with a smile, a cheerful disposition, a salute and "Hi". Now his son Nathan has been in the Navy for 18 years and plans to retire in two more years. Nathan and Rhonda have spent much time in Western Pacific and have traveled much. I saw Rhonda wore a T-shirt autographed in London. They also talked about Egypt. Rhonda is a nurse practitioner at the University of California San Diego Medical Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Timmy Olson from Silver Bay have been here visiting friends and relatives. They have spent some time at the Gilman Dahl home at Gonvick. Timmy is a relative and a close resemblance of Art and Alfred Anderson who were well known here a few years ago. If we drove north and saw the Ottelie family dog laying by the mail box we knew Alfred and wife Emma Ottelie Anderson were on their way up here from Proctor. The dog was waiting for his friend Emma.

John and Faye Hedin returned here on April 24th after spending the winter in Indian Lake Estates, Florida. Welcome John and Faye, good to have you back.

Chad Gilbert, Maja Turenne and Lyn visited with Ellie Handy on Saturday afternoon. Later they had supper at the Turenne Cabin at Clearwater Lake. Dolores Spencer and Jenny of Thief River Falls visited with Ellie on Sunday.

The Red Lake County Central offense was shut down by young Crookston pitcher Nicole Lauf, who threw a four-hitter with nine strikeouts and no walks. Francis Hilgeman pitched a solid game for the visitors, walking just one. But she was victimized by the Mustangs' mistake-prone defense.

Prowlers second in two meets

■ Boys golf team has back-to-back runner-up finishes

Moorhead emerged a two-shot winner over the host Prowlers Friday in the annual Thief River Falls Invitational boys high school golf tournament.

The Spuds turned in a four-man 318, followed by Thief River Falls with a 320 and Bemidji 325.

Even though his team finished last in the 16-team field, Joe Christianson of Norman County West was meet medalist with a 74 on the par-73 Thief River Golf Club lay-out. Adam Nordin of Thief River Falls and Jesse Geroy of Moorhead both turned in a 76 to finish behind Christianson in the medal standings.

Christianson was also the individual winner in the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo/Crookston Invitational the next day with a 72 – one stroke better than Thief River Falls' Chad Nordhagen.

Although Warren-Alvarado-Oslo was listed as one of the Saturday tournament sponsors, the 18-hole competition actually featured nine holes of golf at Crookston and Erskine courses.

Grand Forks Red River won team honors with a 310, while Thief River Falls came up with a second place finish for the second straight day. This time the Dick Tyler-coached Prowlers shared the runner-up spot with Bemidji at 321 in the field of 20.

Sectional high school track meet at Park Rapids...

TRF runs in True Team meet

Becky Mooney, Rachel Mathson and Nicole Kopari supplied Thief River Falls with first place finishes Thursday in the girls' portion of the 1997 Section 8AA True Team high school track meet at Park Rapids.

Mooney was a double-event winner in the 800 and 1600 meter runs. Mathson took the 400 and Kopari had the best throw in the shot put.

Both Mooney and Kopari were coming off school-record performances the previous Monday in the Warren-Alvarado-Oslo Invitational, where Mooney set a new mark with a 5:24.14 in the 1600 and Kopari established a new standard with a 126-8 effort in the discus.

Unlike the usual-scoring meets where top placers contribute to the point totals, True Team competition produces points for every finisher in every event.

Crookston girls advanced to the True Team state meet by collecting 376 1/2 points, followed by Detroit Lakes with 359 1/2, Fergus Falls 305, Park Rapids Area 291, Thief River Falls 239 1/2, Perham 226, Staples-Motley 165, and Warroad 132 1/2.

Perham boys were winners with 460 points, followed by Staples-Motley 434, Park Rapids Area 421, Fergus Falls 375, Warroad 313, Crookston 245, Detroit Lakes 236, Bagley-Fosston 224, and Thief River Falls 195.

Cold, wind and rain plagued the competitors throughout the meet.

"There were both positives and negatives," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Olson in assessing the Prowlers' performances.

Northland coach Rick Nikunen recently annouoced the signings.

Johnson averaged 12 points, 3 rebounds and 2 assists per game for the Wolverines.

High school softball doubleheader . . .

Prowlers top Otters; lose to Lumberjacks

A bases-loaded walk issued to Erica Dwen in the bottom of the seventh inning forced in the winning run Saturday as Thief River Falls edged Fergus Falls 8-7 in high school softball.

Thief River Falls lost to Bemidji 17-2 in the second half of the split doubleheader played at Bemidji. It was the Prowlers' third loss to the Lumberjacks in five days.

"We're picking things up," said Thief River Falls coach Ken Fletcher, whose team is 4-11. "We're really happy to beat Fergus Falls."

Games at Warroad Tuesday, and at home against Red Lake County Central today (Wednesday)) close out the Prowlers' 1997 regular season schedule.

Mustangs gain title at Nordics softball invite

Red Lake County Central beat Marshall County Central/Tri-County 13-4 and out-scored Kittson Central/Kittson County North 23-15 Saturday to win the three-team, round-robin Marshall County Central Invitational high school softball tournament.

Marshall County Central defeated Kittson Central/Kittson County North 14-12 in the other tournament match-up – a scheduled five-inning game that went six before a winner was determined. The same two teams used the opportunity to play a make-up game later that same day – a game won by Marshall County Central 9-6.

The two wins, which produced the first tournament title in the Mustangs' two-year softball history, improved Red Lake County Central to 7-3 for the year. The wind in the Mustangs' second game of the day created tough pitching conditions that led to 38 runs, 33 hits, 31 walks and a 2-hour long marathon.

Marshall County Central is 2-9.

Miller among the top runners in TRF race

Incorrect information received for the 1997 Thief River Falls Health In The Long Run results published in The Times May 7 listed Darla Miller of St. Hilaire competing in the 2.1-mile portion of the event when she actually ran the 10-K race.

An avid runner, Miller's 45:07 clocking should have listed her 11th in the overall 10-K (6.2-mile) standings and not the 108th place in the 2.1-mile event that was published in the race results.

Power boat racing...

Dennis Nabben is after national title

Dennis Nabben is back in the water again. The Thief River Falls native is beginning another season of professional power boat racing, with sights set on a national title.

Currently residing in the Twin Cities area, Nabben was third in the American Power Boat Association point standings last summer – his first year in APBA Mod I competition. He looks for a new engine, put together by Bob Kottman, one of the top engine builders in the sport, to bump him up a notch or two this season.

As a driver, Kottman won 87 races from 1992-95, taking 11 high point championships, two grand national titles, and a world championship. He has been building motors the past five years, and Nabben doesn't hide the fact he is excited about driving a boat powered by one of Kottman's engines. He is working with 325 horsepower and is capable of hitting 108 miles per hour in the quarter-mile.

Nabben was back in Thief River Falls briefly after opening the 1997 season at races in Adel, GA April 19-20, where he placed second in Mod I and third in Mod II during Day 1 competition and third again in Mod II on Day 2.

Next scheduled stop won't be until June 7-8 in Dubuque, IA. The racing dates, which stretch through early September, will also include competition in Minnesota, Illinois, Wisconsin, Manitoba, and South Dakota.

Among Nabben's sponsors are Amoco 24 and Northern Gun & Pawn of Thief River Falls.

Jacobson, Thomas will be part of RLF Lace 'em Up Camp

Due to construction of a new school in Red Lake Falls this summer, the annual Lace 'em Up Basketball Camp will be reduced from the usual one-week run to a one-day affair on Saturday, June 14.

Boys and girls in grades 7-11 during the 1996-97 school year will attend camp from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Students in grades 2-6 will be in camp from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The camp will be held at the Lafayette High School gym. A complete list of coaches will be announced later, but already committed to be at the camp are Sam Jacobson and John Thomas, who helped lead the University of Minnesota into the NCAA men's basketball Final Four this year. They will serve as coaches, visit with the campers throughout the day and will attend a potluck supper at 5 p.m. that night in the Red Lake Falls Community Hall basement, where they will visit with the campers and their families, sign autographs and be available for photo sessions.

Cost of the camp will be $17 if registered by June 1 and $22 after that date. For a camp brochure and registration form, contact Steve Phillion, Route 1, Box 107, Red Lake Falls, MN 56750.

Northland nets sweep

A 15-8, 13-12 softball doubleheader sweep at Fergus Falls Monday produced a pair of milestones for Northland Community and Technical College.

"It was a good day for our kids," said Nikunen. "We accomplished a couple of goals."

The Second Se

Former residents volunteer to serve in Puerto Rico

Merle and Armilla Lundeen are people strongly committed to their faith. Active members of Salem Lutheran Church in Oklee, their oldest son Timothy is the new pastor of Sion Lutheran Church in Lancaster. The Lundeens have had their faith severely tested by accidents, health crises, and the loss, after 60 years, of the family farm near Thief River Falls. They haven't had a vacation in years, yet they spent their precious time off during Holy Week volunteering in Puerto Rico.

The Lundeen's Minneapolis neighbor, Mary Lufkin, founder of Aventura Cultural, a work and cultural immersion project that introduces groups to event-filled adventures in the Caribbean, persuaded them to join 13 other Minnesotans to rehabilitate a run-down retreat center meeting room for the financially challenged Episcopal Diocese of Puerto Rico. The volunteers were a mix of ages, from 16 to 89; of faiths, including United Methodist, Roman Catholic, Unitarian, Lutheran and Episcopalian; of work backgrounds, from retired businessmen and farmers to students and health and education professionals; and skills, from novices, seamstresses and gardeners to plumbers, painters and electricians.

> Asked how they felt about spending their spring "vacation" working in Puerto Rico, the Lundeens said they'd do it again in a heartbeat!

Lufkin managed to bring this disparate band together and make of them a working team in less than 36 hours from their first meeting. They brought paint brushes, tools, upholstery fabric and a sewing machine in the carry-on luggage, and checked through the pre-fab benches, chairs and tables purchased before the trip in the Twin Cities. Then, for a full week, she coerced and cajoled, enabled and rewarded, assisted and asserted, until the project was completed, and the 15 strangers were laughing, sharing, friends.

On their arrival at the Episcopal school in St. Just, the group encountered a dorm room with water damage, flaking paint, failing plumbing and a dismal look. Merle worked on wiring and plumbing and Armilla sewed cushion covers for the furniture. In only a few days they turned it into a bright, attractive meeting site, complete with a new refrigerator and kitchen area, tables, chairs, couches, lamps and a warm, inviting appearance. Gardeners in the group planted huge cement flower boxes attached to the building and created an informal outdoor patio meeting place. Then, after their work was done, Lufkin led the group on a merry tour of Puerto Rico, exposing them to the rain forest, the beach, the mountains, the history, culture and especially the people of the island.

There was a visit to a previous Aventura Cultural worksite, the living quarters of the Sisters of St. Joseph atop the school they've built in a barrio in the city of Ponce. Professors at the Interamerica University in historic San German met the group to plan a future concert and work study tour exchange project with Minnesota students. The travelers were welcomed by the clergy and their congregations at Palm Sunday services in English and Spanish at the Episcopal Cathedral Church of St. John the Baptist in San Juan and the tiny chapel at St. Just. And they received impromptu Spanish lessons from the team's three teens from Hopkins and the cook at the retreat center.

Asked how they felt about spending their spring vacation "working" in Puerto Rico, the Lundeens said they'd do it again in a heartbeat!

Direct funding for Federal emergency work extended

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Director James Lee Witt has authorized 10 additional days of 100 percent federal funding for emergency work performed by the U.S. government in Minnesota and North and South Dakota.

President Clinton on April 22 directed FEMA to reimburse 100 percent of the eligible costs for all flood-related emergency work undertaken by the federal government in each of the three states, effective from the dates of the declared disasters through April 30.

Under the extension, Witt said that such work will continue to be reimbursed at 100 percent through May 10 in all counties that to date have been designated for federal assistance to the state and affected local governments.

"Many people still are without power, clean water and other essential community services," Witt said. "Every effort is being made to restore these basic services as quickly as possible and today's action will help to support this critical mission."

Direct federal assistance is made available to relieve health and safety concerns and pay for critical emergency work resulting directly from the disaster. Eligible work undertaken by the federal government can include debris removal, search and rescue operations, temporary facilities for schools and other community services, demolition of unsafe structures, transportation of emergency workers, supplies and equipment and other assistance to alleviate immediate threats to life and property.

Find ways of dealing with stress from flooding

Heavy flooding over the past weeks has displaced numerous Minnesota families. But these are not the only families affected by the flooding. Many of the flood victims have taken refuge in the homes of friends or relatives.

Ron Pitzer, a family sociologist with the University of Minnesota's Extension Service, says that these temporary living arrangements could become complicated if both families are caught off guard. "Everybody should expect that everyone else is under stress," says Pitzer.

Displaced families will be experiencing a lot of anxiety and uncertainty at this time. Their predicament will often lead them to express their emotions in different ways. The first reaction may be denial. But at certain points, anger may rule their emotions before giving way to sorrow or grief. "Some people may resort to gallows humor, or seem calm and then suddenly lose their self control," says Pitzer.

Host families should not be surprised if their guests are resentful of them because the host family's home was spared. Flood victims may not actually believe this, but it is one way that some people vent their frustration. Pitzer says that in such instances, the guest often lets off steam only to later regret it and apologize.

One step which the host family can take to help alleviate further stress is to sit down with the guests soon after they arrive and work out the ground rules of shared living. The host family should coordinate their work and school schedules with the guest family's flood cleanup requirements so that issues like shower access and meal times are taken care of right away. Discuss cost-sharing, meal preparation and cleanup, and think about whether the families wish to eat together or separately.

In terms of hospitality and cost-sharing, Pitzer recommends that guests be willing to accept the graciousness of their hosts, not insisting on cost-sharing if the hosts refuse to take any money. Hosts, on the other hand, also should be mindful that the guests may be reluctant to accept charity. "To avoid any confusion or misunderstanding," said Pitzer, "both sides need to sit down and set these things out from the start."

Pitzer also encourages host families not to burden their guests with small decisions. Flood victims have too many overwhelming issues to worry about, so they're probably in no mood to deal with other particulars like what to have for dinner. Host parents may be in a better position to remain attentive to the needs of children from both families. "Always be supportive of kids and don't let them get lost in the rush," says Pitzer.

Guests, on the other hand, should be especially mindful not to impose upon the established culture of their hosts. For example, if guests are smokers and the hosts are non-smokers, Pitzer suggests going outside to smoke, even if you are given permission to smoke inside.

PHS Prom

PHS Prom night on Saturday used the theme "Stairway to Heaven" with the gym beautifully decorated in white with balloons and lights. It was well attended and was an exciting night for the youth.

The Post Prom activities ended with great success. All students and guests went home with many gifts and prizes. The school would like to thank all business and groups for supporting this fun event. Without your support the evening would not have been so successful. They had over 40 certificates which ranged from 12 packs of pop to a $20 gift certificate which were given as prizes for games that were played throughout the night. 36 Sweat shirts and tee shirts were given as door prizes from area businesses, along with eight fishing rod and reel combos and many CD discs. Winners of the larger prizes were a CD Boom Box to Chad Plante, CD Boom Boxes to Catherine Roston and Eric Waller; Television sets to Aaron Gudmundson, Joleen Fallon and Ryan Longtin; VCR's, to Lori LaCoursiere and Kristina Jolly; Fridges to Kyle Delaga and Rosa Arlt, a cordless phone to David Fox; Savings Bonds to Janelle Salbel and Laurel Hagge. These are just a few of the many prizes and winners. A complete list is at school and thank you notes will soon be sent for all of the donations. The theme of this year's post-prom party was Surfin Safari so games and food were made to reflect a beach party. Thanks again to everyone who worked so hard to make this a grand success. (My thanks to Mark Lee, advisor, for this story).

Hilmer and Pearl Peterson accompanied by Alvina Knauer, all of Bemidji, visited on Sunday at the home of their brother Emil and Dorothy Pederson.

Why Have The Global Warming Theorists Been So Quiet Lately?

It has been a while now since we have heard the dire warnings of global warming—how the temperatures of the world were going to continue to rise, the polar ice caps would melt and there would be untold devastation from one pole to the other. Major international conferences were held to find ways to counteract man's role in this threat to human survival.

Those who questioned the theories and the so-called "scientific modeling" that supported the theories were ridiculed and accused of being protectionist for industry—and especially coal-fired electrical generation—which was set forth as a major contributor to hastening the end of the world.

Why have the doomsayers been so quiet lately? Simply because more and more scientific research has been showing the theory to be flawed and the credibility of the claims and claimants to be questionable.

Consider that earth's temperature history, as measured by orbiting satellites, reached an important milestone on March 31, 1997. The overall record now shows a statistically significant global cooling of -0.048 degree centigrade per decade.

According to information disseminated by Western Fuels Association, Inc., the orbiters—called Microwave Sounding Units—are now in their 19th year of operation. The accuracy with which they measure the temperature of the lower atmosphere, according to NASA researcher Roy Spencer, is plus or minus 0.01 degree centigrade.

Scientists have shown that they are so sensitive that they detect the monthly 0.02 degrees centigrade warming and cooling of the earth as the moon waxes and wanes, something that has never been measured by ground-based thermometers.

Scientists who study this record have known for a long time that the southern half of the planet has been cooling significantly, but the behavior of the northern half was sufficiently different so that the global trend (or the average between the two) never crossed the threshold of statistical significance. Now it has.

Straightforward analysis shows that the decline in global temperature is now so large that there is only a five percent probability that it is due to chance, and a 95 percent probability that it is real. This is the significance level that many jurists have ruled separates "junk science" from acceptable truth. It is noteworthy that many of the indices of climate change that make it into news reports—such as increases in flooding rains—do not meet this same criterion.

These findings come on the heels of other reports that the satellite data must be in error. But further analyses show that a completely independent set of temperature measurements— from weather balloons—finds exactly what the satellites do on a global scale.

"It's hard to believe that two completely independent measures of temperature, both taken twice a day, would conspire to lie in precisely the same fashion over 13,350 twice-daily observations," says Dr Patrick J. Michaels, professor of environmental sciences at the University of Virginia and one of the nation's most prominent climatologists.

"The fact is," Michaels notes, "that none of the three measures of temperature—satellites, weather balloons or ground-based thermometers —show any warming trend in the past decade."

During that past decade, had the claims of global warming been true, the planet should have warmed rapidly because of changes in what has been referred to as the greenhouse effect.

"This new finding that the lower atmosphere is cooling globally in a statistically significant fashion is going to make people sit up and take notice that something was very, very wrong with the forecasts of rapid global warming," Dr. Michaels concludes.

It was those forecasts of rapid warming which served as the basis for the United Nations' Framework Convention on Climate Change. Representatives of the U.S. State Department have recently called for a change in that treaty to make binding upon the people of the United States reductions in emissions of greenhouse gases, such as carbon dioxide from fossil fuel combustion and methane from farm animals.

It should be noted that Western Fuels Association, Inc., which distributed the information, has 23 member/owners which are rural electric generation and transmission cooperatives, municipal utilities and other public power entities. It should also be recognized that the information is based on accumulation and comparison of independently gathered scientific data. As such, in recording what has already transpired, it is much more reliable than computer modeling in an attempt to predict the future.

Anyone who has spent the past two years in northern Minnesota or North Dakota would consider models of global warming to be highly suspect. And they would have the frostbite to support their skepticism.

Once the plan has been developed jointly with the SCS (now NRCS) and the local sponsors with the support of the local people and is approved by the NRCS Chief or Congress, construction can begin. Federal government gave technical help in installing some of the project measures, pays the full cost of construction for flood prevention and shares the cost for other purposes. In Minnesota, various opportunities exist from state, federal and other organizations for planning and implementation funding.

Local sponsors are to acquire land, easements and rights-of-way, award contracts for construction on private land or delegate contracting to the NRCS and share costs of certain measures. Local sponsors assume responsibility for operating and maintaining completed projects.

There are also a number of 566 projects on the North Dakota side of the Red River of the north that have met the same criteria and have been completed.

There are many other multi-purpose projects which include flood prevention that have been completed by the respective watershed districts outside of the 566 program. Examples are the Black River, Moose River, Good Lake, Elm Lake, Roseau River WMA Upgrade, Lost River Pool, Sand Hill #1, Wild Rice #4 Becker Dam and Stinking Lake Buffalo Red #16. These are the larger ones, and in addition there are 24 smaller impoundments. There are also additions to the above—impoundments like Thief Lake, Agassiz Refuge and Kiwasay. This demonstrates that the local folks are concerned.

Had the three-year moratorium for the Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) by the Corps of Engineers and the DNR not been mandated in Minnesota, there might well have been some of the 33 proposed projects constructed by now.

ECHOES FROM THE PAST

HISTORICAL REVIEW OF THE TIMES AND ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

FROM THE PAGES OF THE TIMES

50 YEARS AGO • MAY 15, 1947

by Jerome and Donna Myhrer

Fishing Licenses Sell Rapidly As Season Opens

"With the pike fishing season open today, there has been a brisk local demand this week for fishing licenses, numerous anglers planning to go to favorite spots this weekend. In addition to being available at the office of County Auditor A. M. Senstad, licenses may be obtained also at local hardware stores and the Sportsmen's Store, as well as from Stephen Singer at Goodridge and Oscar Gunstad at St. Hilaire."

Power Plant Yields $120,040 Profit In 1946

"The Thief River Falls municipal power plant in 1946 continued its excellent earning record of previous years, showing a net profit for the year of $120,040.64, compared to $108,402 for 1945, the previous high mark, it is revealed in the annual report of City Clerk P. G. Pederson, completed during the past week. Net operating revenue in 1946 aggregated $202,670.34, and a total of 6,770,200 kilowatts of electricity was generated. Of this amount, 5,629,019 kilowatts was sold at a net return of 3.60 cents per kilowatt, while 340,988 kilowatts were utilized to provide free lights for city streets and parks and fair grounds."

Fire Department Sponsors Plan To Buy Pack Heaters

"The Thief River Falls fire department announced that it is starting its annual magazine subscription campaign, a plan to raise funds for the purchase of a new portable Vollrath Polio-Pak heater especially designed to produce hot packs to facilitate the Kenny Method of treating infantile paralysis and is equally efficient in preparing packs for the treatment of other patients requiring hot moist or hot packs.

"In order that the people of the various communities may be most conveniently served, this new Polio-Pak heater will be housed in the Thief River Falls fire hall and will be readily available for temporary use in all homes of residents of Thief River Falls and the surrounding communities without charge except for the transportation."

Chommie Tells Lions Of High Per Capita Buying Record Of TRF

"H. O. Chommie presented an interesting discussion at the Lions club meeting Wednesday noon in the Palm Garden cafe. Basing his statements on the 1940 federal census, in which he had served as district supervisor, he pointed out unusually high per capita retail sales in Thief River Falls as compared to other comparable communities in Minnesota. He emphasized the fact that this high rating is due in large measure to the patronage given local business places by residents of a large tributary area. For that reason, Mr. Chommie said that Thief River Falls residents should gladly cooperate with local police in enforcing the limited parking regulations now in effect in the business district."

Chilly Temperatures Prevail Here This Past Week

"Temperatures locally during the past week continued to be unseasonably cool, hitting a low mark of 28 last Friday, 38 Saturday, and 39 Monday and Tuesday mornings of this week. A high of 72 was recorded Sunday afternoon. Light showers fell Sunday and again Wednesday, but spring seeding operations continued to make good progress."

Editorial comments from the files of Norm A. Holen

—If the Northern Minnesota climate this summer is up to par, we wouldn't swap it for any other in the world.

—It will be well, folks, to bear in mind the way the question is worded in the county option election Monday, June 9. A "Yes" vote will be against the sale of liquor, while a "No" vote means you favor the same.

—We'll bet no one except possibly City Clerk Pete Pederson can identify the names of all the streets in Thief River Falls.

—Speaking of typographical errors, we read about a wedding ceremony in which the bride was attended by tight bridesmaids.

—And then there was the one about the school picnic that was a hug success.

—It looks as though the Republicans are tackling an uphill job in trying to defeat Hubert Humphrey, seeking re-election as mayor of Minneapolis.

—Simile: As sensitive as the vice president of a radio network.

—And have you noticed the spic and span appearance of local premises, now that Clean-Up Week is over?

—Appropriately enough, a Mr. Goodspeed will have charge of horse-racing at the Minnesota State Fair in August.

"About 200 of our people turned out Monday evening to witness the breaking of a genuine log jam at the dam and also to see the 'Wonnigan' go over the 12 foot falls. The tender hearted ones took pity on the drivers whenever they were compelled to jump into the cold water up to their armpits, which was often."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the office of the Middle River-Snake River Watershed District, 453 North McKinley Street, Warren, Minnesota 56762 until 4:00 o'clock p.m. on May 19, 1997 for the rental of fully operated excavation equipment. Proposals are being requested for dozers, blades and crawler mounted draglines or backhoes. The draglines and backhoes may range from 3/4 cubic yards and larger and must be equipped with a boom, bucket and counter weights appropriately matched for the type of machine. All equipment must be equipped with a servis recorder.

The works to be done consist of but is not limited to the clearing and disposal of trees and brush and the removal of sediment from drainage channels, disposal of rocks and the leveling of spoilbanks. The work required and the locations of work will be designated by the engineer of the district.

The equipment must be modern and in good operating condition and furnished with capable and experienced operators. Deficient operations or maintenance which results in reduced production or poor workmanship will be cause for contract cancellation.

All equipment proposed will be considered and evaluated based on many factors including but not limited to the following; price, horsepower, machine rating, machine weight, track length, track width, track gauge, buckets available, boom lengths available and counter weights available.

Work will be paid by the hour and payment will be based on the time recorded on the Servis Recorder discs which must be turned over to the Engineer. Payments will be made on a monthly basis. The minimum hours per week will be 40 unless delayed by weather or equipment operating problems.

In addition to the payment for hourly work, the contractor will be eligible for a demobilization payment. The amount will be equivalent to 5 hours rental rate for each type of equipment authorized for use by the Engineer.

Demobilization will be included in the last payment for hourly work satisfactorily completed.

The District may cancel the contract at any time without cause by paying the demobilization payment.

The contractor may cancel the contract at any time without cause but forfeits the demobilization payment.

The type of equipment best suited for this project is dependent on the weather and other unknown job conditions. The district intends to rent equipment which in its opinion, will perform the required work at the least cost. Its evaluation factors will depend on conditions expected and encountered which will likely change along the course of the work. The District will release and rent different equipment from time to time as it deems necessary to economically perform the required work.

The contractor, in making this proposal, promises to furnish the equipment listed for the prices shown subject to its availability. He does not promise to make or keep the equipment available to the district. He understands, however, the equipment availability may be a factor in the district's evaluation of equipment.

The contractor will be required to furnish certificates showing that he has workman's compensation insurance and liability insurance.

The Middle River-Snake River Watershed District reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to award contracts to other than the apparent low bidder.

Dated at Warren, Minnesota this 21st day of April, 1997.

Groundbreaking Thursday for $7 million Dakota Clinic

Dakota Clinic in Thief River Falls will conduct a groundbreaking ceremony for the new $7 million, 44,000 square-foot, regional clinic and outpatient surgical center 7 p.m. Thursday, May 22. The ceremony will be held at the facility site along Highway 59 south near the C'Mon Inn. Activities will include presentation by clinic representatives, area dignitaries and refreshments. The public is invited.

According to Dr. Randy Bolar, clinic spokesperson, "the new regional clinic represents several years of research and planning on the part of the clinic physicians who live in the Thief River Falls area and practice at the clinic. Our physicians have served the region for over 46 years and we look forward to many more years of service to our community in a facility that will enable us to provide even more procedures and healthcare services in Thief River Falls."

The new clinic is scheduled for completion in the summer of 1998, with multiple services all on one floor for easier access to all patients, says Dr. Bolar. There are currently 15 physicians working at the Dakota Clinic in Thief River Falls, and the organization anticipates additional doctors will be attracted to the practice because of the new facility. Area businesses have also voiced their support of the project because a larger clinic offering more specialties can be used as an added incentive for recruiting employees.

The new regional clinic is being designed by R. L. Engebretson, P.A., of Fargo, ND, in association with Hammel, Green and Abrahamson, HealthCare Group of Minneapolis. Construction management is provided by R.L. Engebretson Co. According to Dr. Bolar, the facility will feature sophisticated equipment, laboratories, and a large parking area, with patient drop-off areas covered for shelter from inclement weather.

City council acts on matters relating to storm and flooding

Thief River Falls City Council thanked city crews for their support during the recent blizzard and flood crisis and gave its continued support to crews assisting East Grand Forks.

During a city council meeting Tuesday, May 13, the council discussed a number of items including assistance to East Grand Forks, the purchase of the Northrup property, and investigations to make sure sump pumps are not pumping water into the sanitary sewers.

■ Electric and water department employees have spent considerable time providing assistance to East Grand Forks. Arlo Rude, superintendent of utilities, said the electric department sent line workers, electric construction workers, a master electrician, electronics technician, and a journey/electric/electronic technician. They worked primarily on disconnecting and connecting private homes and providing temporary service on every house. The Water department sent the water superintendent, water distribution foreman, and water distribution operators. They worked primarily on water mains and returning water to water mains in the city.

Thief River Falls was one of many cities to provide this type of assistance. Electric department efforts were coordinated by Minnesota Municipal Utilities Association (MMUA), and Mike Willets of MMUA. Water department personnel were coordinated by the American Waterworks Association. Rude said cities sending in crews (primarily two man crews) for one week stays came from Wilmar, Austin, Elk River, Glencoe, Hibbing and New Ulm.

In all city electric department employees served 218 hours in the city and water department employees worked about 150 hours for the city. The city of Thief River Falls pays for this work but will send a bill to East Grand Forks for all of the expenses.

Other employees also participated. The Park and Recreation department and Street department went over and picked up pumps and lawn mowers and repaired them in Thief River Falls.

■ The City of Thief River Falls has agreed to purchase the Northrup Elementary school property from School District 564 for a price of $18,000. The city will provide the school district certain services and other items equal

Garbage everywhere is upsetting to neighbors

by David Hill
Associate Editor

The story being spread is different depending upon who is telling the tale. Regardless, the problem of the spread of garbage (or litter depending again on who is telling the story) and smell from anaerobic piles of compost at SwisPennCo, is coming to a head. Minnesota Pollution Control Agency has set a June 12 deadline to address the problems.

SwisPennCo officials say efforts are being made to rectify the spread of plastic from the solid waste handling facility.

Neighbors of SwisPennCo., the solid waste handling facility in Pennington county, however, believe not enough is being done to address the spread of plastic "fluff" and other garbage from the plant.

Pennington county officials feel somewhat like their hands are tied in regards to the cleanup.

In discussing the issue at a Pennington County Board of Commissioners meeting Tuesday, it was decided that neighbors to the plant should be notified about the health risk and asked to contact SwisPennCo. if they have garbage on their property. In addition, SwisPennCo. would place advertisements in the local newspaper and with the local radio stations.

Officials also made plans to attend a meeting with state officials. The fact finding meeting with MPCA, OEA, SwisPennCo and the county board (which was held) at 2 p.m. on May 19 at the Best Western.

Bob Kruse, chief executive officer of SwisPennCo stated frankly Tuesday that what caused the problem was "a combination of bad luck and not the best of judgement." He said they didn't have enough staff to handle all of the changes and new equipment. He apologized and wanted to assure residents that it was not an intentional act.

The main focus of attention has been on a large pile of "fluff" (processed plastic) on the north side of the building, which had to be placed there due to changes in equipment. Strong north winds have carried the plastic and other debris miles from the facility and into yards and fields of neighbors.

Two criminal complaints have been filed with law enforcement officials. SwisPennCo property is located within the city limits, but the debris is landing in yards and fields of county residents. Complaints filed with MPCA have also resulted in MPCA setting a deadline of June 12 for addressing the problems at the facility.

Howard Person, Pennington County solid waste officer, presented three alternatives for the county board to consider. One alternative consisted of re-working contractual Garbage from the SwisPennCo facility south of Thief River Falls has been blowing onto property in a wide radius around the solid waste handling facility. This garbage was found along a fence on the Browning's property in route 8. Employees of SwisPennCo and the High School football team as well as owners of the property have been attempting to clean up some of the mess, yet quite a bit of garbage remains in fields and clinging to trees.

Options outlined in solid waste memo

Three options were recently presented to the Pennington county board regarding the problems at SwisPennCo, which stem from the spread of garbage from the plant.

Howard Person, Pennington county solid waste officer prepared the "solid waste initiatives" for the board, but stated the three options were not necessarily the only three options.

Option 1 states Re-work contractual agreements with Swis, negotiate changes and oversight issues with MPCA on the facility. Continue operation with Swis in charge except for changes to assure a clean site.

Person said this option assumes a fuel pellet market can be found. The pros of this option, he stated in his memo, include: maintaining original plans and relationships, the mistakes are corrected and they move on, and Swis, OEA and PCA are happy; The county also stays out of the garbage business; and jobs and economic benefits created by Swis are maintained.

Person also outlined the cons with this option: Relationships with some county residents and Swis may not be salvageable at this point; Those relationships will at least need a great deal of work; The costs to the county for waste disposal will increase somewhat and this becomes either a subsidy of the waste stream or private business.

Option 2. The county buys or leases operations from Swis, gets back into the garbage business and runs the operation itself. This option also assumes a fuel pellet market can be found.

The pros of this option include: The lease would allow the county not to have to retool the old processing building and the county would not have to bond further; it would allow the county total control of waste management and direct control of dealing with residents' complaints; current efforts in recycling and other waste management efforts are maintained, and relationships with OEA and PCA are maintained.

The cons include: the county would need to create an entire solid waste department where none was needed before, the financial risk or obligation to the county is greatly increased; the county may not be able to hold the waste (contracts) from other areas which would be needed to cash flow the operation; the county may or may not have to clean up the existing site at its own expense.

Option 3. The county abandons its current relationship with Swis and Office of Waste Management, creates a transfer station and hauls everything to Grand Forks.

The pros include: the county is still out of the garbage business; the cost for disposal should not be any greater.

The cons include: recycling in the county would drop and other arrangements would need to be made; management of waste tires and appliances would also need to be addressed; relationships with PCA and OEA would deteriorate; SCORE funding may be in question; the old processing building would need to be converted to a transfer station quickly; the county would need to continue to do some composting or pay back some grant dollars to OEA; industrial revenue bonds issued through the city may be in jeopardy; the county would probably have to clean up the current situation at the site at its own expense; source of fuel pellets to the hospital would be lost.

(The following letter was delivered to The Times on May 14, 1997.)

To Residents:

If you believe you have litter on your premises that may have originated from our plant during this winter, and you have not been contacted by us, please contact us at 681-7177. If it appears that a cleaning is in order we will make the arrangements with you.

The State Health Department has advised the county that the material is not hazardous, but normal sanitary measures should be taken if you pick it up, such as wearing gloves. Eye protection such as safety goggles, would also be a good idea. With all the wind that blows around here and when working in wooded, brushy areas, safety goggles could prevent serious injury.

The State Health Department also recommended that hands be washed after handling this type of material.

We deeply regret any inconvenience that this may have caused.

Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,
Robert A. Kruse,
CEO SwisCorp

New dairy legislation would factor expenses

During the previous five weeks, dairy producer pay prices have dropped dramatically, and two bills introduced in the U.S. Senate would stabilize price volatility by incorporating producer cost and manufacturing plant pricing data into the new Basic Formula Price (BFP).

Senate Bill 604 directs the Secretary of Agriculture to factor in feed costs and other cash expenses to determine the BFP. Senate File 603 would require the USDA to assemble and apply statistically reliable milk manufacturing plant information when setting the BFP.

"This is an issue the requires immediate attention to assist the thousands of dairy farmers in Pennsylvania and throughout the nation who are facing dual problems of a record high cost of feed grain and a record drop in the BFP," said Senator Arlen Spector, (D-PA), when introducing the legislation.

This latest legislation comes during an unstable dairy marketing environment, created in May 1995, when the current BFP formulation became law. As the National Cheese Exchange closed just two weeks ago, and the Chicago Mercantile Exchange assumed cheese trading, it's unclear whether the new market will more accurately signal statistically accurate pricing information from dairy production areas.

"An extremely important part of Senator Spector's legislation introduction was a renewed request for Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman to establish an interim price floor of $13.50 per hundredweight," said National Farmers President Gene Paul. "Dairy producers know the markets that determine their pay prices do not accurately reflect true market conditions."

The latest market drop comes after a period beginning in October of 1996, when dairy prices fell nearly 30 percent, costing producers over $1 billion. "We commend Senator Specter for introducing these bills," said Paul. "His home state of Pennsylvania is fifth in total milk production, and he is taking the legislative lead to ensure farmers can continue to supply American's appetite for high quality dairy farmer products." National Farmers encourage dairy farmers from coast to coast to contact Sen. Spector and their U.S. Congressmen, and tell them how important these bills are to their future.

Minnesota gets $8 million dollars in employment aid

Governor Arne Carlson has announced that Minnesota has received $8 million in immediate emergency employment aid from the U.S. Department of Labor.

Funding will enable qualified people dislocated by this spring's floods to obtain temporary employment helping with the flood cleanup effort. "A tremendous effort is needed to begin restoring a basic semblance of normalcy within many Minnesota communities," Governor Carlson said. "Many of those who have lost their jobs because of flooding will be paid to work and help restore their community."

The grant will be used to provide temporary employment for workers who have lost their jobs or are unable to work because of the flood disaster. The temporary jobs will be offered in counties designated as federal disaster areas and concentrated in communities experiencing the most severe damage to public facilities and infrastructure.

The aid will be administered by local Workforce Centers. Private industry Councils in the affected areas. These offices are coordinating closely with staff of Job Service/Reemployment Insurance offices for the convenience of people also applying for Reemployment Insurance (RI) or Disaster Unemployment Assistance (DUA).

"We are proud of the hard work and dedication of the owners, managers and staff at the Thief River Falls Dairy Queen store," said Watson. "Their desire to make the store a top performer is a credit to them."

Northern Lights Books receives non-profit award

Northern Lights Books and Crafts, Thief River Falls, a division of Northwest Medical Center, Thief River Falls, was recently named as the 1997 Outstanding Non-profit by Northwest Minnesota Foundation, formerly the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund, at the Foundation's annual recognition dinner May 6.

This annual award is given to a non-profit agency whose staff or board members have attended a NMF sponsored workshop or received a grant from the NMF and as a result, made changes to significantly improve services to people.

Northern Lights Books and Crafts began as a downtown used bookstore established in 1987 with a start-up grant of $25,000 from the Foundation. It was designed by Dr. Steve Levinson, director of Northwest Medical Center's mental health division as a work therapy program for mentally ill adults residing at the Northern Lights Community Residence.

Over 10 years later, the bookstore is not only still in existence, it is a thriving business that has expanded into other product lines. In 1993 they added a summer time mobile ice cream vending business and following a technical assistance grant from the Foundation in 1995, audio books were added along with other services.

More recently, the bookstore moved to the former Comer Drug building in downtown Thief River Falls, a new, larger location. They now carry an inventory of over 35,000 used books in addition to a wide selection of used toys, audio book rentals, collector's cards, and a free book and toy delivery service.

Northern Lights Books and Crafts has been a positive influence on the employees, giving the people living at Northern Lights Residence the mental health benefits of work while at the same time providing a useful business service. It has attracted the attention and praise of state and national mental health experts and the commitment of the people of Thief River Falls.

Along with a plaque recognizing their achievements, the NMF awarded Northern Lights Books and Crafts an unrestricted grant of $1,000.

Also at the dinner Sue Liedl, director of St. Philips School's (Bemidji) Conflict Management Program received the Outstanding Individual in a Non-profit Agency award and Judge John Smith of Nevis received the Outstanding Leadership award.

Established in 1986 and today comprised of more than 30 charitable funds, the Northwest Minnesota Foundation (NMF) strives to make a difference in the lives and future of the people in northwest Minnesota. The Foundation, through grant-making, advocacy, support of the not-for-profit sector, business development, training and education, and promotion of philanthropy, is constantly striving to strengthen the communities in the northwest region.

Dana McGeary of Oklee was among the cast and crew for Bemidji State University's spring musical production of Giuseppe Verdi's classic opera, "La Traviata."

McGeary, a freshman social work major, played the role of Flora Bervoix.

"La Traviata" is a story of love imagined, discovered, pursued, lost and reclaimed. Lavishly presented in script and music, it has survived the test of time and is considered one of the truly great operas ever written.

Pearl Trosvig of Valley Home holds a porcelain doll made by Kathy Carlson of Victoria House. A doll show was part of the activity-filled week at Valley Home in recognition of National Nursing Home Week.

The Season of Sales

Instead of just four seasons, I believe there is a fifth. In addition to fall, winter, spring and summer is the "rummage sale" season.

This season runs its own length and generally doesn't coincide with any environmental changes (like falling leaves or blowing snow). But the first rummage sale on the block is a sure sign that summer is near. And an indication of the verge of winter is the end of rummage sales.

It's an important season for many reasons. For the giver, it's a way to get rid of stuff you don't want or need and make a few bucks in return. For the attendees, it's a way of adding to a glass, doll, mug, hat or trinket collection. Rummage sales give people something to do on weekends, it can also become a hobby. It's a way of furnishing your home. Rummage sales give people the opportunity to buy something cheap - whether they need it or not. It gives people a chance to collect items for their next rummage sale.

Before embarking on a sale of any scale, here are some tips to keep in mind.

Always keep a "rummage sale box" in the basement or garage. First, fill it with items leftover from any previous sales. You never know, the right customer may come along during the next sale and scoop it all up thinking it's the greatest thing in the world. (Better yet, leave the sale set up in your garage during the winter so you're ready when the rummage sale season begins again.)

Add to the rummage sale box during the year so it's not a mad rush at midnight the day before to clean cupboards, closets, toy boxes and garages. Before throwing anything in the garbage, ask yourself: Would someone actually pay a quarter for this at a rummage sale? If the answer is "yes," deposit in the designated box. If the answer is "maybe it's only worth a dime," throw it in the garbage. Which brings us to the next tip.

Mark the items in increments of 25 – like 25 cents, 50 cents, 75 cents, $1, $1.25. It's much easier to add under duress. Throwing in a sock for a dime or a toy for 15 cents confuses the clerk. That new math is tough.

Price your valuables after your child has gone to bed. Children find it difficult to part with anything – even if it hasn't been used in the last five years.

When arranging your items in the garage before the sale, be sure to "merchandise." For example, place highly-sought-after pieces in the front so they can be seen from a car window. If potential customers drive by to see if it's worth stopping, select objects entice buyers into the garage (porch, yard, etc.)

Other merchandising tips include placing the fake flowers (also for sale) inside a vase. Arrange other floral centerpieces next to placemats and old dish sets. Get a mannequin to model your clothing. Blow up beach balls. Play with the toys.

Don't be afraid to have a "free" box; it's a new marketing technique started by my uncle, I think. If you offer something free at your sale, people are generally more willing to buy something - anything. It must be guilt.

Engage in some suggestive selling. Pick up a lamp and suggest to the rummage sale goer that it would look nice in her den. If a hatless man enters the garage, suggest that he might need to invest in a hat for $1 to keep his head warm. They might think you're a little goofy, but hey, a dollar's a dollar.

Sell popcorn or hot dogs outside your garage. The smell will lead people directly to your garage, where I'm sure they'll buy one of everything.

These sales can be a major event – something on the order of celebration or block party. Mark your sale with balloons and streamers. Gather all the customers you can and sell all your goodies. Then you can close the garage door and go to another sale and spend the money you just earned. And remember, you have a whole rummage sale season to do it.

ACTIVITIES
Handle Bar Streamers

Make handle bar streamers for riding toys such as bicycles, tricycles or Big Wheels. To do so, cut cardboard tubes, such as toilet paper or paper towel rolls, into sections. Then use crepe paper streamers, stickers, curling ribbon, glitter or other materials to decorate the cardboard tube sections. Slip a decorated cardboard tube section onto each handle bar of the riding toy. Maybe your child can ride the vehicles in a parade around the school or neighborhood!

PARENTING TIPS
Playing Outside

Playing outside in the yard puts a child closer to the danger of the streets, as well as other dangers that can exist. As a parent you must decide when your child is ready for this. There is no one age at which all children are ready to play alone outside. You must know your own child!

To begin, set specific limits for a small area which has clearly recognized boundaries, such as between two sidewalks, or draw limits on the sidewalk with chalk, or put a string on the ground. Young children need a boundary they can actually see. Take your child for a walk around the boundary explaining and showing him/her what the limits are. Do not just tell or point from across the yard.

When your child begins to play within these limits, watch (without being seen) to see how he/she is reacting to the freedom and limits. At first check every few minutes. If your child does not stay within the clear limits, matter-of-factly remove him/her to the house and say he can try again later or another day.

Until your child demonstrates the ability to play within the boundaries you set, continue to supervise his/her play. When he/she shows that he/she can and will stay in a small area, try expanding the limits gradually. Each time show him/her clearly the new limits and observe to be sure he/she understands. This means that you must be actively involved when teaching your child new boundaries rather than merely deciding that he/she is able to play outside.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Remember that talking about new limits means that we, the parents, need to be aware of what our children actually understand. We need to show them what we are talking about and watch and listen to see if they really understand.

SPEAKING OF

...Discrimination, My Foot

I'm so tired of people crying about discrimination. Yes, I know there is such a thing and it shouldn't be happening, but lately it seems to me that the term has become a baseless excuse used to justify a number of crimes and sins.

Certainly there is discrimination going on in the country. We see it every day. People are being judged by the color of their skin, their gender, their religion, their age, their nationality, their physical and mental disabilities rather than their capabilities. There are intolerant and sometimes violent and combative groups and cliques which are formed simply to discriminate against certain types of people. This is wrong.

However, intolerance is being addressed, albeit slowly. It is gradually being brought to light and confronted, and this is good. Bigotry should not be allowed to hide and fester and infect our nation.

Getting rid of discrimination in this country is hard, because it was tolerated and accepted and even legal for so many years. Even though many people did not condone it, they did not speak out against it because they were afraid of recrimination.

But our country is getting better. Discrimination may be going on, but it is no longer acceptable in our society, and now there are finally laws that uphold the rights of those who feel they are discriminated against. People can and do speak out against prejudice.

But whenever there are laws, there are those who try to bend the laws to suit their purposes. We saw an example of this in the O.J. Simpson trial, where racial discrimination was made a focal part of the defense. It was utilized as a legal defense so well, in fact, that many of us feel it interfered with justice and a guilty man was set free.

The cry of racial discrimination has been used again in a more recent and closer legal case - the case of Angel Esparza which was recently held in Fargo, ND. Esparza was convicted of conspiracy to commit robbery in a November, 1997, case which resulted in the death of 50-year-old Cherryl Tendeland of West Fargo, who was shot to death while sitting in a car with her husband and a friend. Esparza did not shoot Tendeland, but was a member of a gang of six youth that took part in the shooting.

The judge gave Esparza the maximum sentence under the law - 10 years in prison, with one year suspended.

Esparza broke into tears and covered his face after the sentence was read. His attorney promised an appeal. Following the trial and sentencing, reporters interviewed Esparza's friends and relatives. They stated that Esparza did not receive a fair trial and that it was impossible for him to receive a fair trial in this area because he is Hispanic and the non-Hispanic jury was prejudiced against him.

Small parts of the trial were shown on television during the evening news and I happened to see some of it. What I saw was a punk. No, I didn't see an Hispanic punk, or a black punk, or a red, white or yellow punk. I saw a punk.

I saw a punk who swaggered into the court room as if it were a stage for his performance. I saw a punk who plead the Fifth Amendment when being questioned, and who smirked and grinned when he was finally forced to answer questions put to him. I saw a punk who appeared to have no respect for the law, for other people or for life itself, who appeared to have no remorse for the fact that a loved, respected wife, mother and grandmother lost her life because of a gun in the hands of one of his friends.

He didn't care about the consequences of the crime. He didn't care about the pain his and his friends' actions caused. He didn't care that a woman was shot in the face and killed because of what he did. He only cared for himself.

I saw a punk who got exactly what was coming to him, maybe even less than what he deserved, and the way I felt had nothing to do with his race. I would have said the same thing had it been one of my sons on trial for the crime that was committed.

As far as I'm concerned, racial discrimination had nothing to do with the verdict and sentencing. The decision was based on justice.

Communities out of herms way this spring continua to dig into pockets to halp flood victims to the west. Racently, in the community of Thief River Falls, organizers put together a musical benefit called "People Halping People". The program was aired on KKAQ, KKDQ FM and people were asked to pledge money to be matched by Lutheran Brotherhood and AAL Foundation. As of Monday, May 12, cash and pledges amounted to $1,849.02 with more arriving at the radio station each day. Eldon Moe, musician, and one of the organizers said, "The radiothon was a success; toes were tapping and people were smiling." ON THE OTHER HAND

Megan Browning
Lincoln High School

The Academy Awards ceremony was held a while ago, however, it's common knowledge that a movie hasn't "made it" unless it pleases the critical inhabitants of the Lincoln high school cafeteria. This year many of our predictions matched those of the Academy. However, the playing field was a tad uneven. (Let's face it, when a film is up against Tom Cruise whooping "Show me the money" in Jerry McGuire, it is going to have a hard time, "taking home the trophy.")

The English Patient, Switch Blade, and Shine were quite popular during our lunchroom discussions, although there were a few students who were miffed that the Academy didn't nominate Star Wars. As we talked about the winners one day at lunch, everyone was cheerful, but when the conversation shifted to Fargo, dimpled cheeks stretched into hard slabs of disgust. No one believed that it deserved to be nominated, let alone win two golden "Oscars."

"That movie was terrible! Oh yeah, like I really wanna see some guy gettin' shoved in a chipper-vac," a red-headed girl with a cluster of lettuce in front of her gushed whinily. She then contorted her face into her rendition of the damage caused by troy-built machines.

"No kidding. Oh, it makes me so mad, like we really talk like that!" The agitated boy next to me sat back in his chair and released his tension with a low drawn-out "Uff-da." (This word is held in such high esteem that northerners have dedicated a taco to its honor.)

I sat in my own chair wanting to believe him. I too had been disgusted by the over-done accent; I had been positive that I spoke with the same accent that Dan Rather and Tom Brokaw use. However, as I listen more and more to the speech patterns that my friends and I use, I realize that the movie isn't too far off.

In defense of themselves, many people claim that they don't speak with a heavy Scandinavian accent—for example, saying "dis and dat" instead of "this" and "that." What they fail to realize is that, like any other area in the world, we have certain patterns of speech. The following conversation about homework is an example.

"So lesson five is due tomorrow. Do you get it?"

"Nah, but someone'll have it. I was talking about Prom..."

"Ooh, what's your dress like?"

"It's kinda purplish with beads."

"Whoh—pretty. I've got to ask my mom if she'll borrow me some money so I can get mine."

Often during conversations we don't even realize that our speech patterns are unusual. We have heard them so many times they seem perfectly fine.

While our speech patterns are somewhat different, what sets us apart is the way we say certain words. I often don't realize that I speak with a lilt on particular words. In order to hear it, I really have to pay attention. Although it has been close to one hundred years since many Scandinavian immigrants moved to this area, the remnants of their speech pervade even the youngest age group. The most noticeable word is "yeah." In New York that word would perhaps have a whiny edge to it, like an out of tune viola. In Minnesota, "yeah" morphs into "Yaah." This word, as everyone who lives here knows, has a sound similar to that of a fussy feline. There are many more words such as Uffda, and You know (yunaow) that we speak, as Hamlet would say, "tripplingly on the tongue."

These ideas may be helpful for those who decide to rent Fargo. Though the accent is exaggerated, there is some truth in it. It's strange to think that our accent is as obvious as a southerner's. Who knows, maybe they don't realize that their speech pattern has a different take on the English language. Well, enough of the grammar lesson, here is a final sobering thought: Though some people think the accent expressed in Fargo is bad, our accents must be completely hopeless since we live "Nord" of Fargo. Uffda!

Swensons, Burtnesses recognized by Northland College Foundation

recognized at the banquet program by Foundation President Peterson.

Northland Community and Technical College has been the recipient of $570,000 from the Swensons with $235,000 of that total designated specifically for the vocational aspects of the college program. A number of scholarships from the interest on the fund are presented each year.

Marge and Lowell have also contributed to School District 564 in a special fund which now totals $523,000 and is used to provide special educational experiences for students which would not be available from general property tax revenue sources. The school's first computers came from the Swenson fund.

The financial assistance to the district also includes sale of the present school district service center and attached buildings to the school district for a fraction of their value. This added assistance is not included in the fund balance noted above.

In their generosity to education, the Swensons have also donated more than $1,048,000 to the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks where Lowell received the Sioux Award—highest honor by the UND Alumni Association— in 1972 and was presented an honorary Doctor of Laws degree in 1991.

Lowell Swenson was born in Lancaster in 1921 and graduated from high school there. He attended the University of North Dakota from 1942 to 1943 before entering the U.S. Air Force, where he was a pilot and advanced to the rank of major. Marge Holme of Chisholm was also a student at UND, prompting Lowell to comment that he obtained both his education and his wife from UND.

Lowell enrolled at the University of Minnesota upon leaving the Air Force and he and Marge were married in 1947, the year he graduated from the U of M with a bachelor of arts degree in business administration. They moved to Minneapolis where Lowell went to work as a Certified Public Accountant with the Arthur Anderson Company and Marge was a voice major at the University of Minnesota for two years.

They moved to Grand Forks, ND, in 1957 where Lowell became a partner in the Homer Matheson Company and Marge became a part-time vocal instructor at UND.

In 1959 they moved to Thief River Falls and Lowell became general manager of Dow Key Company, a manufacturer of relay switches. In 1965 he and Marge put together all the assets they could muster and gambled on purchase of the fledgling Arctic Enterprises snowmobile manufacturing company.

As president and chief executive officer Lowell led the company to extensive growth before selling his interests and retiring from active management in 1977. He assisted two of his sons in establishing Mesaba Airlines, a Northwest Airlines airlink carrier.

Lowell and Marge have continued to make their home in Thief River Falls and shown strong interest and support for the community in many ways. They have four sons: Dave, Baudette, Alan, Cody, WY; Rob, Orlando, FL; and Phil, Grand Rapids, MN.

Romal and Stella Burtness

Romal Burtness and his mother Stella, 97, are joint donors to the Foundation and were the first members of the Chancellor's Club—a designation for donors who have contributed between $10,000 and $49,999 during their lifetime. They were recognized at the banquet program by director Ty Birkeland.

'We have been annual donors to the Foundation and we will continue to support the program in the future,' Romal said. "I have been interested in seeing young people receive an education, particularly in business.'

Stella Mickelson Burtness was born in Crookston and grew up in Holt where her parents owned and operated a hotel. She baked up to 28 pies a day for the restaurant in the hotel. She married Adolph Burtness and they farmed at Holt until 1943 when they moved to Vancouver, WA, and Stella worked as a welder in the shipyards during World War II.

They returned to Holt to farm after the war and Adolph died in 1955. Stella moved to Thief River Falls and worked at Model Laundry for the next 15 years. She has been active in her church in Holt and she and her family were founders of the new building for Nazareth Lutheran in Holt which was completed in 1992. She presently lives with her son Romal and enjoys gardening and crocheting.

Romal was born in Holt in 1924, attending elementary school in Holt and graduated from high school in Newfolden. He earned a two-year certificated in accounting at Interstate Business College in Fargo, ND, then moved to the state of Washington with his parents. He worked in the ward bond department for Kaiser Inc., which employed 40,000 people.

In 1947 he returned to Thief River Falls and was office and sales manager for the local Buick and Cadillac dealership. From 1961 to 1976 he was secretary for Falls Concrete and from 1976 to 1982 was office manager of Consumers Cooperative.

Romal then became manager and later chief executive officer of Northwest Beverage where he is currently vice president. He is a director of the Lions Club, a member of the Elks and Eagles and enjoys traveling.

Radio program helps evacuees

Communities out of harms way this spring continue to dig into pockets to help flood victims to the west. Recently, in the community of Thief River Falls, organizers put together a musical benefit called "People Helping People".

The program was aired on KKAQ, KKDQ FM and people were asked to pledge money to be matched by Lutheran Brotherhood and AAL Foundation. As of Monday, May 12, cash and pledges amounted to $1,849.02 with more arriving at the radio station each day.

The program was a success due to the generosity of people in this area. Organizers of the event would like to thank all those who helped with the program including: the Thief River Falls City Council for the use of the auditorium, Kezar Music for sound and Joe Kezar for being master of ceremonies and coordinating the various groups; KKAQ and KKDQ manager and staff, the Evergreen Eating Emporium for letting them use a meeting room; Lutheran Brotherhood and Aid Association for Lutherans for volunteering their time to answer the telephones; and music groups including — Ramblin' Fever, the Berto Family from Middle River, Maynard Wedul, Resonance Quartet, Vern and Audrey Rogalla, Luck of the Draw, Saddle Tramp, Versatile, Strings of Praise, Arlyn Tunheim and Bruce Elseth, Dick Miller and Bob Skoglund, Fluorescent Black, Zero Tolerance, Joe Gust and Orell Vatsndal.

recognized at the banquet program by Foundation President Peterson.

Northland Community and Technical College has been the recipient of $570,000 from the Swensons with $235,000 of that total designated specifically for the vocational aspects of the college program. A number of scholarships from the interest on the fund are presented each year.

Marge and Lowell have also contributed to School District 564 in a special fund which now totals $523,000 and is used to provide special educational experiences for students which would not be available from general property tax revenue sources. The school's first computers came from the Swenson fund.

The financial assistance to the district also includes sale of the present school district service center and attached buildings to the school district for a fraction of their value. This added assistance is not included in the fund balance noted above.

In their generosity to education, the Swensons have also donated more than $1,048,000 to the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks where Lowell received the Sioux Award—highest honor by the UND Alumni Association— in 1972 and was presented an honorary Doctor of Laws degree in 1991.

Lowell Swenson was born in Lancaster in 1921 and graduated from high school there. He attended the University of North Dakota from 1942 to 1943 before entering the U.S. Air Force, where he was a pilot and advanced to the rank of major. Marge Holme of Chisholm was also a student at UND, prompting Lowell to comment that he obtained both his education and his wife from UND.

Lowell enrolled at the University of Minnesota upon leaving the Air Force and he and Marge were married in 1947, the year he graduated from the U of M with a bachelor of arts degree in business administration. They moved to Minneapolis where Lowell went to work as a Certified Public Accountant with the Arthur Anderson Company and Marge was a voice major at the University of Minnesota for two years.

They moved to Drand Forks, ND, in 1957 where Lowell became a partner in the Homer Matheson Company and Marge became a part-time vocal instructor at UND.

In 1959 they moved to Thief River Falls and Lowell became general manager of Dow Key Company, a manufacturer of relay switches. In 1965 he and Marge put together all the assets they could muster and gambled on purchase of the fledgling Arctic Enterprises snowmobile manufacturing company.

As president and chief executive officer Lowell led the company to extensive growth before selling his interests and retiring from active management in 1977. He assisted two of his sons in establishing Mesaba Airlines, a Northwest Airlines airlink carrier.

Lowell and Marge have continued to make their home in Thief River Falls and shown strong interest and support for the community in many ways. They have four sons: Dave, Baudette; Alan, Cody, WY; Rob, Orlando, FL; and Phil, Drand Rapids, MN.

Romal and Stella Burtness

Romal Burtness and his mother Stella, 97, are joint donors to the Foundation and were the first members of the Chancellor's Club—a designation for donors who have contributed between $10,000 and $49,999 during their lifetime. They were recognized at the banquet program by director Ty Birkeland.

"We have been annual donors to the Foundation and we will continue to support the program in the future," Romal said. "I have been interested in seeing young people receive an education, particularly in business."

Stella Mickelson Burtness was born in Crookston and grew up in Holt where her parents owned and operated a hotel. She baked up to 28 pies a day for the restaurant in the hotel. She married Adolph Burtness and they farmed at Holt until 1943 when they moved to Vancouver, WA, and Stella worked as a welder in the shipyards during World War II.

They returned to Holt to farm after the war and Adolph died in 1955. Stella moved to Thief River Falls and worked at Model Laundry for the next 15 years. She has been active in her church in Holt and she and her family were founders of the new building for Nazareth Lutheran in Holt which was completed in 1992. She presently lives with her son Romal and enjoys gardening and crocheting.

Romal was born in Holt in 1924, attending elementary school in Holt and graduated from high school in Newfolden. He earned a two-year certificate in accounting at Interstate Business College in Fargo, ND, then moved to the state of Washington with his parents. He worked in the ward bond department for Kaiser Inc., which employed 40,000 people.

In 1947 he returned to Thief River Falls and was office and sales manager for the local Buick and Cadillac dealership. From 1961 to 1976 he was secretary for Falls Concrete and from 1976 to 1982 was office manager of Consumer's Cooperative.

Romal then became manager and later chief executive officer of Northwest Beverage, where he is currently vice president. He is a director of the Lions Club, a member of the Elks and Eagles and enjoys traveling.

Salvation Army helps evacuees

Thief River Falls service chapter of the Salvation Army provided many services to flood evacuees during the past month. One of the more popular programs offered in Thief River Falls were gas vouchers.

According to local officials, over 222 evacuees were issued gas vouchers. The vouchers provided each household with up to 20 gallons of fuel for their vehicles.

The local service unit was also on hand to provide toiletries, clothing and other essential services.

Radio program helps evacuees

Communities out of harms way this spring continue to dig into pockets to help flood victims to the west. Recently, in the community of Thief River Falls, organizers put together a musical benefit called "People Helping People".

The program was aired on KKAQ, KKDQ FM and people were asked to pledge money to be matched by Lutheran Brotherhood and AAL Foundation. As of Monday, May 12, cash and pledges amounted to $1,849.02 with more arriving at the radio station each day.

The program was a success due to the generosity of people in this area. Organizers of the event would like to thank all those who helped with the program including: the Thief River Falls City Council for the use of the auditorium, Kezar Music for sound and Ice Kezar for being master of ceremonies and coordinating the various groups; KKAQ and KKDQ manager and staff; the Evergreen Eating Emporium for letting them use a meeting room; Lutheran Brotherhood and Aid Association for Lutherans for volunteering their time to answer the telephones; and music groups including — Ramblin' Fever, the Beito Family from Middle River, Maynard Wedul, Resonance Quartet, Vern and Audrey Rogalla, Luck of the Draw, Saddle Tramp, Versatile, Strings of Praise, Arlyn Tunheim and Bruce Elseth, Dick Miller and Bob Skoglund, Fluorescent Black, Zero Tolerance, Ice Gust and Orell Vatsndal.

Conservation Corps trains area students

On Wednesday and Thursday, May 14 and 15, the Minnesota Conservation Corps held environmental education sessions at Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area.

About 45 juniors and seniors from Tri-County high school in Karlstad took part in Wednesday's activities and more than 100 seventh and eighth graders from Greenbush/Middle River were there Thursday.

Minnesota Conservation Corps crew members from Baudette, Thief Lake WMA and Roseau River WMA led the environmental education program. Students were divided into small groups and transported to different areas around Thief Lake WMA. Once at these locations, MCC crews gave presentations on wetland classifications, functions and benefits and talked about water quality and wildlife.

Students were then given the opportunity to perform water quality tests of their own as they collected water samples from Thief Lake, the Thief River and surrounding wetlands. Some of the tests conducted were pH, dissolved oxygen and volume of flow within the river system.

Despite cold temperatures and snow and rain showers during the Wednesday program, the students from Tri-County received a full day of learning. Thursday's weather was more hospitable as the seventh and eighth graders left the confines of their classrooms for study in the outdoors, according to Joe Strand, MCC crew member from Baudette.

Strand said the MCC crew would like to thank the students from Tri-County and Greenbush/Middle River for their cooperation and interest in learning; Paul Telander, area manager at Thief Lake WMA, for allowing use of the area's facilities; and Nate Dalager, area hydrologist for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources for his demonstration on water flow rates and educational talk on waterways and watersheds.

agreements with Swis, negotiate changes and oversight issues with MPCA on the facility, and continue operation with Swis in charge except for changes to assure a clean site.

A second alternative involved the county buying or leasing operations from Swis, and getting back into the garbage business and run the operation itself.

A third option involved the county abandoning its current relationship with Swis and Office of Waste Management and creating a transfer station and hauling everything to Grand Forks.

Person outlined numerous pros and cons that accompanied each option. (See accompanying story in this edition.)

Kruse said they would like to re-work the contractual agreements, negotiate changes and oversight issues with MPCA and continue the operation. Kruse also mentioned that the pelletizing operation at the plant needs to be addressed. Though, the organization did not intend to begin operating the pelletizing operation of the facility when it did, it needs the pellet market to sustain the facility in the future. They have been operating under waste disposal agreements with Red Lake reservation, Hubbard, Pennington counties and part of Itasca county. Now that the plant is down for a two-week period, those counties are hauling elsewhere and are considering withdrawing. (The waste stream from Pennington county is being taken to a landfill in Gwinner, ND.)

Kruse also hinted that a deal needs to be made or SwisPennCo would begin "unwinding", which Person interpreted as a polite way of saying it would close its doors.

What's being done

Thief River Falls volunteer fire department burned the ditches around the facility last week and attempted to burn off a small portion of land heavily cluttered with garbage. Person reported that the ditches burned but the success of the burn was limited. Some of the areas didn't burn well and some not at all. The grass is greening up and attempts at any further burning would probably not be successful.

Person also reported that members of the high school football team have also participated in a clean up attempt of the yards of private property owners. A considerable problem remains and fields and shelter belts have not been addressed yet. The company is also looking into using the city's vacuum, which is used by the city to pick up leafs, but the company would use it to pick up up garbage in ditches.

Property owners upset

Private property owners remain upset about the problem. Connie Mehrkens, who was at the meeting, said about 30-35 residents of Rocksbury township met recently to discuss the problem. Many, she said, have not received any information about the risks, or clean up plans, despite assurances from SwisPennCo and, she thought, the county.

Suzanne Browning thought the health risk was being downplayed. She said it is a serious concern and one that should be taken seriously by officials. She wanted to make sure that anyone picking up the garbage did so with the proper equipment and was fully informed of the risks.

Dale Koop said he had two hay fields cluttered with garbage. He said he didn't know if a buyer would object, but he suspects that it would mean a reduction in the price of the hay. Koop also criticized the management for creating a new pile of garbage each time they had a problem with equipment.

Person said animals would avoid the plastic and if it was ingested it was inert and would not create a problem. Hay buyers, however, would not like it at all.

Mehrkens wanted to know what they were going to do about the open fields. She said if they held them up, they'd have to pay damages.

Bob Carlson, county commissioner, asked Kruse what he planned to do to get rid of the pile on the west side of the building.

Future plans

Kruse said they were continuing to talk to a client who could burn it. The other option would be to landfill it and that would cost about $800,000.

Person said they were looking into whether SCORE funds could be used for removing some of the garbage.

Kruse said they plan to continue cleaning up the garbage. The large fluff pile is now covered by a net.

Compost smell

Person explained that there is a problem with the compost piles. He said they went anaerobic because the piles got too high and could not be turned properly. He said it is being screened now and the stink is worse than it was.

Hands tied

Bud Comstock, county commissioner, said the county's hands were somewhat tied. It cannot legally spend public dollars on a private venture. It is looking into using SCORE funds, but those funds are supposed to be used for recycling.

The board agreed that letters should be sent to neighbors of the plant and that SwisPennCo should put a notice in the newspaper and on the radios.

Student Andy Hudson learned a little bit about what it was like to be a sky diver during an activities day recently at Franklin middle school. Under the guidance of an instructor who does a lot of sky diving, he strapped on the heavy parachute, slipped the altimeter on his left hand, felt the chute release with a tug from the instructor and visualized floating to earth. In the bottom photo he is checking out handles on the straps which allow parachutists to maneuver to the position where they want to land.

School orchestras present concert at Lincoln May 27

String groups from Challenger elementary school, Franklin middle school and Lincoln high school will be performing in a Pops concert Tuesday, May 27, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

All groups are under the direction of Derek Druse and the concert is free and open to the public.

Featured group will be the TRF Youth Symphony, comprised of members of the Franklin middle school orchestra, Lincoln high school orchestra and the Lincoln high school band. The Symphony will be performing popular themes from such space movies as 2001: A Space Odyssey, Apollo 13 and Superman.

"The popular 2001 theme was written by Richard Strauss, but not for the movie," conductor Druse notes. "It was written in 1895, well before 2001 was ever written. The real name of the work was Also Sprach Zarathustra, a musical commentary on poetry/philosophy dealing with a new humanity."

The music from the movie Apollo 13 by James Horner features the brass section, and a lot of chorale-like writing. The theme from Superman is another John Williams movie theme. Composer of such famous music as themes from Jaws, Jurassic Park, Raiders of the Lost Ark and E.T., Williams has won widespread acclaim as one of the prominent film composers of our time.

"Superman was written after he wrote Star Wars, and shares many similarities in structure, rhythmic motive and tone color," Druse said. "However, Superman stands on its own as an original work in the pops orchestra genre."

The concert will be opened by beginning string players in the fourth and fifth grade from Challenger elementary school. The fourth grade orchestra will complete their first year in orchestra by playing such popular favorites as Lightly Row, Jolly Old St. Nicholas, Can-Can, Ode to Joy, French Folk Song and Frere Jacques.

The fifth grade orchestra will perform Polly Wolly Doodle, Bach Musette, William Tell Overture, Pachelbel Canon and Cripple Creek, a fiddle tune arranged by Edmund Siennicki. Awards will be given for outstanding students during the year.

The Franklin middle school orchestra will perform second on the program. The sixth grade will perform music by Peter Tchaikowsky and J. S. Bach from their workbook. They will conclude with Can You Feel the Love Tonight from Disney's The Lion King. The seventh and eighth grade will perform Eidelweiss from The Sound of Music and Hopak by Modest Mussorgsky. The two groups will combine to form a mass orchestra for Chariots of Fire and The Olympic Spirit.

Chariots of Fire by Vangelis, was the number one song on the Top 40 list in the early 1980s, and remains a popular tune for all ages. The Olympic Spirit was composed by John Williams for NBC television for the 1988 Olympics, and is still used in association with the Olympics on television.

Awards will be given to outstanding orchestra students during the year.

Lincoln high school orchestra performance will be the last for four seniors in the orchestra—Alex Morken, Josh Clark, Kelly Natvik and Danielle Goulet. It will open with Mock Morris, a representation of English Morris dance tunes by Percy Grainger.

Also performed will be an arrangement of Shenandoah by Owen Goldsmith. Shenandoah is a traditional American folk song which is very popular in choral repertoire.

Josh Clark and Kelly Natvik will be featured as violin soloists in the performance of An Italian Elegy, a song based on the Fourth Symphony (Italian) of Felix Mendelssohn.

"The TRF Youth Symphony will conclude the concert, and will provide an exciting finale," Druse said.

Northland first baseman Ryen Bendickson tried to reach Bill Miskovich, but the Itasca runner got back to the bag before the tag was applied during the fourth inning of Monday's Minnesota Community College Conference baseball doubleheader opener. The play developed when Northland catcher Steve Burslie tried to throw behind the runner on a pick-off attempt.

NCTC will be in state tournament

A title showdown in Thief River Falls Monday ended in a doubleheader split, enabling Itasca to hold off a challenge by Northland and lay claim to an outright Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division baseball title.

Needing a sweep to become co-champion with the Vikings, the Pioneers lost that chance with a 7-2 defeat in Game 1. Northland bounced back, however, with a 9-8 win in Game 2 to finish the regular season at 10-4 in the Northern Division, 13-15 overall.

Both teams had MCCC state tournament berths wrapped up before the make-up twinbill got underway.

The six-team state meet, featuring the top two finishers in the MCCC Northern, Central and Southern divisions, will begin a double-elimination format playoff Friday in Willmar.

Last state tournament appearance for the Pioneers came in 1994. Terry Wiseth, Northland head coach since 1988, is looking forward to the opportunity to extend the 1997 season. Although the overall record is less-than-spectacular, he thinks his team can be compentive in post-season play.

"I think we hit the ball as well as any team we've had," pointed out Wiseth. "Offensively, we're as deep as we've ever been. We've got solid hitters up and down the line-up."

The offense is led by Mark St. Marie (Red Lake Falls) and Grant Skibicki (Fordville, ND), who are both hitting over .400. Scott Lorenson (Plummer), Luke Melquist (East Grand Forks) and Aaron Stromlund (Roseau) are all hitting in the high .300 range.

Chris Vanyo (Thief River Falls) has emerged as the team's top pitcher. He lost for the first time in six decisions in Monday's doubleheader opener. Skibicki is 4-2 and Gary Hill (Park Rapids) has been coming on strong. Cory Bowman (Park Rapids) will be the Pioneers' fourth state tournament pitcher.

While the offense is solid and the pitching has been adequate, the defense has been a Northland downfall, according to Wiseth. "Our outfield is playing fine, and our catching has been great, but we've been inconsistent in the infield," he explained.

It was disappointing to see a chance at a title tie slip away, acknowledged Wiseth, but he was happy to have the opportunity at season's end. "Any time you play at the end of the year for the conference (division) title, you've got to be happy," he said. "The kids played hard. "We had people on base, but we couldn't come up with the big hit. They (Itasca) got those hits."

Northland carried a 9-1 lead into the bottom of the seventh inning in Game 2, but had to hang on in the face of a seven-run Itasca rally before laying claim to the win.

The second game victory didn't affect the final Northern Division standings, but it was still important to the Pioneers, noted Wiseth. "You play every game to win," he said.

First round MCCC state tournament match-ups Friday will feature Central Division champion North Hennepin vs. Southern Division runner-up Riverland at 4:30 p.m.; Southern Division champion Bethany vs. Northern Division runner-up Northland at 7:30 p.m., and Northern Division champion Itasca vs. Central Division runner-up Anoka-Ramsey in another 7:30 p.m. start at the Swansson Athletic Complex.

Play continues Saturday and Sunday.

■ North Sub-Section 8AA match-up

Unable to generate an offense, Thief River Falls saw its 1997 high school softball season come to an end Monday with an 11-0 first round North Sub-Section 8AA tournament loss at Bemidji.

It was the Prowlers' fourth defeat of the year at the hands of the Lumberjacks, but Thief River Falls head coach Ken Fletcher reported the play was noticeably improved. "We played much better," he said. "It was a good effort on the part of the girls."

Thief River Falls played error-free ball and pitcher Stephanie Leach gave up just four hits. But walks presented the Lumberjacks with scoring opportunities, and they capitalized.

Bemidji also played error-free ball, and pitcher Jess Folkert carried a no-hitter into the fifth inning before giving up a single to Kelly Clark.

"We hit the ball all day, but right at them," pointed out Fletcher.

Thief River Falls finished the year 4-12. The Prowlers lost regular season decisions to the Lumberjacks by 11-1, 17-3 and 17-2 scores.

Top-seeded Alexandria and second-seeded Moorhead received byes in Monday's single-elimination first round match-ups that found No. 5-seeded Thief River Falls at No. 4 Bemidji and No. 6-seeded Fergus Falls at No. 3 Detroit Lakes. Double-elimination portion of the tournament was scheduled to start today (Wednesday) at Alexandria.

High school baseball at Hibbing/Virginia invitational...

TRF 0-3 in final tournament

Errors nearly out-numbered the hits for Thief River Falls during an 0-for-3 appearance at the Friday/Saturday Mike Bugliosi Classic high school baseball tournament played at sites in Hibbing and Virginia.

The struggling Prowlers lost to Hibbing 12-2, Cloquet 17-0 and Duluth Central 9-8. They finished the tournament with 17 hits and 16 errors.

Thief River Falls actually played Hibbing to near-even terms in Friday's opening round, but watched a 4-2 contest turn into a 10-run rule game when the Bluejackets scored eight times in the bottom of the sixth.

Cloquet used a 10-run third inning and a 7-run fifth to bury the Prowlers in the Saturday morning consolation semifinals.

Duluth Central rallied for three runs in the top of the sixth to win the consolation final match-up.

Bemidji won the event with wins over Duluth Central 12-4, Virginia 5-4 and Hibbing 7-6 in the final. Sauk Rapids and Superior, WI rounded out the eight-team field.

The tournament closed out a 3-14 regular season for the Prowlers. North Sub-Section 8AA playoffs start Thursday when the No. 6-seeded team plays at No. 3 and the No. 5-seeded team visits No. 4. Top two seeds will host the first round winners Saturday.

Thief River Falls, Moorhead, Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, Bemidji, and Alexandria make up the North Sub-Section 8AA field. South Sub-Section 8AA teams include Brainerd, Elk River, Little Falls, Rocori, St. Cloud Apollo, St. Cloud Tech, and Sauk Rapids.

Berg, Wahl sign with NCTC women's team

Amber Berg and Nikki Wahl, part of a successful Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls high school basketball program, have signed letters of intent to attend Northland Community and Technical College next year, where they will play basketball for the Pioneers, it was announced by NCTC head coach Rick Nikunen.

Berg is a 5-11 center-forward who will add quality depth to the front line positions, according to Nikunen. "Amber brings an intensity and work ethic that will allow her to be very successful," said Nikunen. "She can run the floor well, has good mobility and defensive skills. I believe that Amber's abilities are very conducive to the college game."

Wahl will play as a guard-forward at Northland. She is 5-10 and played almost every position for the Gators, pointed out Nikunen. "We look for Nikki to contribute mostly at the small forward or off-guard spot for us," said Nikunen. "She has the capability to score in a variety of ways and we will want to take advantage of that. Nikki also is an intense worker and a great defender and could push for a starting position early on."

Northwest area will not be open for '97 state moose hunt

For the first time since moose hunting was re-authorized in Minnesota in 1971, no moose hunting permits are being offered for zones in northwestern Minnesota this fall. Moose populations have declined in this part of the state, and a cooperative study is underway to determine causes for this decline, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Applications are now available for the 1997 Minnesota moose hunt in the northeastern part of the state, according to the DNR. Applications may be obtained from license vendors, county auditor offices, and the DNR License Bureau in St. Paul. The application deadline is Friday, June 13.

A total of 197 permits are available in 25 zones in the northeastern part of the state, a 5 percent decrease in permits from last year. Moose populations in this area of the state remain strong and have increased in recent years. Season dates are Oct. 4-Oct. 19.

Moose hunters may apply in parties of two to four individuals. An application fee of $3 per individual must be included with the application. Only Minnesota residents are eligible for the moose hunt.

The bag limit is one moose of any age or either sex per party of two to four hunters. The license fee is $275 per party. There will be mandatory orientation sessions required for all hunters chosen for moose licenses in 1997. .

In 1996, 207 parties took 156 moose in northeast zones for a percent success rate.

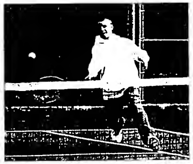
Camping fees are increased at state forest campgrounds

Effective April 1, state forest campground camping fees are now $9 per night, announced the Department of Natural Resources. This $2 fee increase does not affect state park camping fees.

"This is the first time in six years that the fees have been increased," said Steve Simmer, forest recreation program coordinator with the DNR's Division of Forestry. "Forest campground camping fees help support operation costs such as garbage removal and facility cleaning and repair."

State forest campgrounds provide a rustic camping experience. Campsites consist of a level parking spur, fire ring and picnic table. In addition, vault toilets, garbage containers and drinking water are provided at campgrounds charging a fee. Many of these areas have hiking trails, water access and swimming beaches.

For a brochure about state forest recreational opportunities, call the DNR Information Center at 1-800-766-6000 (Minnesota toll free).



Matt Winjum, a Thief River Falls sophomore, played No. 3 singles for the Prowlers during their annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Invitational boys high school tennis tournament Thursday. It was the final home appearance of the season for the Prowlers, who finished second to Crookston in the four-team field.

Youth deer hunting program will be offered at Rydell area wildlife refuge

U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, in cooperation with the Minnesota Advanced Hunter Education Program, will host special training and deer hunting opportunities for youth who are 12-15-years old and who possess a valid Minnesota Firearms Safety Certificate.

Hunts will be conducted on the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge Nov. 8-9 and Nov. 15-16, 1997. The 2,120-acre refuge is located in Polk County near Erskine and Mentor. The refuge and surrounding area features habitat that attracts an especially large population of deer.

The hunt will provide a unique experience that combines deer hunting skills training with an opportunity to actually hunt deer on the refuge. Each youth hunter will be accompanied by a 'mentor' throughout the entire experience. Parents, guardians or other adults may serve as mentors through approval by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service. If needed, qualified mentors will be provided.

A maximum of 40 young hunters, along with their mentors, will participate in the hands-on seminars that focus on learning deer hunting skills and responsible hunting behavior. Instructors, who are experienced Minnesota deer hunters, will share their techniques for quality and successful deer hunting. Each participant will learn how to use a compass, topographic maps, and aerial photos to plan for a safe and successful hunt. Shooting skills, shot placement, blood trailing, field dressing, and care of game from field to table will also be important topics. Upon completion of the training, each youth hunter will receive a Minnesota Advanced Hunter Education Certificate.

The young hunters will have an opportunity to harvest one deer of either sex on the refuge. A parent, guardian, or appointed mentor must accompany each youth hunter during the training and into the field on the hunt. Mentors do not need a deer hunting license and will not be allowed to carry or discharge firearms during the hunt.

Application deadline is June 20. For more information, or to obtain application forms, write to the Detroit Lakes Wetland Management District, Route 3, Box 47D, Detroit Lakes, MN 56501, or call 800-529-7576 or 218-847-4431.

Strandquist News

F. Myrtle Vagle

The weather in Northwest Minnesota has been as changeable as an Arizona Chameleon this spring. On Saturday I was looking over Elsie's garden spot in the sunshine, a dark cloud came up and before I could get home only two blocks away the windshield wipers were busy keeping the rain off so I could see to drive. In less than a half hour the sun was shining again and for that we were grateful. After a sunny but windy Sunday the snow missed us by just a few miles last night. It was down to 30 degrees last night here.

In spite of all the variables of weather it is wonderful to see the spring flowers blooming all around. Mother's Day brought lovely blossoms to most homes and moms were wearing their corsages with happy faces. I remember the days when our Mother would let us pin owny the slickery pink wild roses on her dress or apron and we were so proud to have found them for her. Mom was a real flower lover and I guess the trait was inherited by most of us.

Ebba, Boyd and Virginia Sihlberg came from the Cities to visit in the Strandquist area for a few days. On Wednesday evening they visited with Jeff Donaldsons. I hope to get to see Ebba and find out how it is going for her in her penthouse and her strategy to rid her garden of potato bugs. I'm tired of trying to catch them one by one and drowning them in a little can of kerosene. It really takes a lot of effort to bend over and I get kind of dizzy after awhile.

Marcelyn Lindstrom brought early Mother's Day greetings to Elsie Lofrooth and the beautiful corsage Elsie was flashing on Sunday. Marlys and Debbie Lindstrom also visited Elsie that day.

Betsy Thompson returned home on Saturday after spending two weeks with their daughter Barbara Woodruff in St. Charles, MO. On Sunday Isaac and Betsy were dinner guests of Robert, Cathy, Andrew and Lisa Thompson of Town and Country.

Lionel and Doots Johnson, Peter and Pearl Thompson and Michelle and Jake Melby enjoyed Mother's Day dinner with Danny, Becky and Jeramy Johnson. Later LaVonna and Brian Johnson and David and Phaela Thompson visited at Peter and Pearl Thompsons.

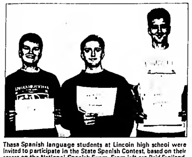
Judy and Lois Kleinvachter and Bud and Marla Stellen drove through Grand Forks and on to Inkster, ND, on Sunday afternoon and saw the houses by the river still half under water. Judy and Lois had dinner at the Stellens before returning home.

Mother's Day visitors for dinner at Vance Lofrooth's were Vanetta, Stephanie, Zackary, Noelle and Kristina Peters, Jeff, Margaret, Alaura and Sara Donaldson, Pete and Shelley Taylor, Emily Lofrooth and Lowell and Allison Lofrooth. Elliott and Lisa Lofrooth joined them for Jeff Donaldson's birthday cake later.

Dean and JoAnna Holmstrom took Elsie Lofrooth to Town and Country for Mother's Day dinner on Sunday. In the afternoon David and Elaina Giovum, Obert and Evelyn Giovum all of Thief River Falls brought Mother's Day greetings to Elsie Lofrooth. Gloria Renstrom and Lynn and Kala Grahn of Thief River Falls visited Elsie on Sunday.

Sunday afternoon visitors at Isaac Thompsons were Andrew and Lisa Thompson, Carol Thompson of Red Lake Falls and Elmer Holmstrom and Evelyn Albaugh of Newfolden.

Elsie Lofrooth visited Mary and Donna Renstrom on Monday.



These Spanish language students at Lincoln high school were invited to participate in the State Spanish Contest, based on their scores on the National Spanish Exam. From left are Reid Froiland, Level IV; Rich Donarski, Level III; and Jared Brandt, Level II. All are previous recipients of the honor at the next lower level. Since most of the students taking the exam are the top Spanish students in their respective schools, according to Instructor Sheryl Novacek, the local students were recognized among a field of other exceptional students of Spanish in Minnesota.

Nathan Keller received recognition as one of the students placing in the top five percent of students invited to take the National Spanish Exam in Minnesota. Competing in Level I, Nathan received a certificate signed by Gov. Arne Carlson. The nationwide exam is not issued to all students, according to Lincoln high school Spanish instructor Sheryl Novacek. Most of those taking the exam are the top students in their particular schools.

Martha and Jarvis Torgerson, Debbie and Bruce Williams, Mike and Carla Torgerson, Jordan, Mariah and Kaleb were houseguests at the Lisa and Mike Parent home at Otsego from Friday through Sunday. Lisa and Mike's son, Carl Richard was baptized at the morning service at the Christ Lutheran Church in Otsego. His sponsors were Russ and Dawn Bly. Dinner guests at the Parent home other than their houseguests were Richard and Marian Parent from McIntosh, Russ and Dawn Bly and family from Fosston, Rick Parent and family from Forest Lake.

What's REALLY circulating through your home?

pet hair, pollen, dirt, smoke, dust mites

Dust mites? Pet hair? Dirt? Pollen? Tobacco smoke?

It's possible. If the air ducts in your home have never been cleaned, it's probable.

Pollen, mold, mildew and bacteria can be in the duct work of your home's heating and cooling system. Every time your furnace or air conditioner runs, these pollutants whisk through the vents in your home and spew into the air that your family breathes causing allergies, stale odors, extra dust and even sickness.

The answer? Thorough duct cleaning with Abatement Technologies' patented Hepa Aire® System. Breathe clean, healthy air. Call us today for an estimate.
